Vishinsky Hints U. S. Has Lost Atom Monopoly

U. N. Talk Assails Truman and Dewey; Russia Again Claims U. S. Aims at War

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky bitterly attacked President Truman and Governor Dewey today on the atomic issue and hinted twice the United States no longer has a monopoly on the deadly bomb.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister accused the United States of having atomic "war aims," and also struck at David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission. He called statements by Truman, Dewey and Lilienthal "a shame."

The American delegation announced that John Foster Dulles, a U. N. delegate and foreign affairs adviser to Dewey, would fly to New York Sunday at the suggestion of the Republican presidential candidate for conferences on American-Russian relations.

McNeil Replies

Waving his fists and flushing deeply, the white-haired Vishinsky spoke for two hours before the United Nations Assembly's 58-nation Political Committee. That group is debating the failure of Russia and the Western powers to agree on international control of atomic energy.

U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin took extensive notes on the Russian speech but said he would not reply immediately. British Minister of State Hector McNeil declared:

"We do not know whether Russia has the atomic bomb or not. . . . Everyone knows the United States is ready to give her know-how to the rest of the world.

"We must make it plain to the whole world who is to blame not

Russians May Accept Discussion in Council

Paris, Oct. 1 (NYHT).—The Soviet government was reported tonight prepared to accept—after a technical argument—discussion of the Berlin crisis before the Security Council Monday afternoon.

The full Kremlin line has not been disclosed for so far there has been no reply to the note which the United States, Britain and France handed to Soviet ambassadors last Sunday.

It is understood, however, the Russian case will be argued by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, deputy foreign minister.

Plan to Seize Power Hinted By De Gaulle

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle told a news conference today that the French people must have a chance to elect him back to power or he will take other means to "save France."

He said the present regime was "sterile," attacked the five-nation western European alliance as "not worth much," and said the Western powers were handling the crisis with Russia over Berlin in "deplorable" fashion.

The alliance, which France has joined with Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, he declared, was centered in London and "it is wrong to center in London the defense of Europe."

He said he did not want the Western powers to evacuate Berlin, "above all I do not want them to surrender Paris," and said the first interest of England would be defense of itself.

The general declined to say what steps he would take to "save France," declaring "one is obliged to guard some discretion on the plans one can form."

But he recalled that he headed a wartime government-in-exile and resistance movement and commented, "Thus was France saved in 1940."

Bank and Fund Amity Called World Model

To Meet Here Again In 1949; Frenchman Heads Both Boards

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The third annual meeting of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the International Monetary Fund closed yesterday on a note of international amity.

The representatives of 50 nations—48 members of both organizations and two applicants for membership — expressed themselves as proud of being a part of an international organization that met in harmony.

The proceedings, as Gaston Eyskens of Belgium expressed it—an expression echoed by other speakers, were such that they "might inspire other international groups the world over."

The love-feast that marked the last plenary session did not hide the fact that serious discussions had marked the week-long negotiations. But before the delegates got into that discussion they voted:

1. To hold next year's meetings in Washington, "but that other meetings outside of Washington should be held from time to time."

2. Elected Pierre Mendes France, as chairman of the Board of Governors of both Fund and Bank for the next year, succeeding Yun-Wu Wang of China.

3. A resolution expressing deep regret of the death of Harry D. White, former State Department official, who took a prominent part in the original establishment of the two organizations.

White died August 16, just after his appearance before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Truman Sees Depression With Dewey

Predicts Reversion To Policies of '20s Will Bring Collapse; Back in D. C. Today

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 1. President Truman warned here tonight that if Gov. Thomas E. Dewey lands in the White House, and has a Republican Congress, the result will be a "headlong dash toward another depression."

The Chief Executive, who is scheduled to arrive back in Washington Saturday morning, came into West Virginia's capital city after a triumphal tour of Kentucky.

Democratic leaders assured Mr. Truman that he would get the 11 electoral votes of the Blue Grass State, and political reporters in Louisville agreed with their forecast.

Here in Charleston Mr. Truman got more good news. He was told that he had an excellent chance to capture West Virginia's eight electoral votes.

Speaking tonight before a capacity crowd of 3600 in the Municipal Auditorium, the President went after Governor Dewey directly. He quoted two statements of the Republican nominee to show that he was "proud" of the record of the Eightieth Congress.

Boos for the New Yorker came from the audience, the first that had been heard in the President's two weeks of barnstorming.

Mr. Truman paid tribute to those Republicans who held positions of leadership in foreign affairs in Congress. But on domestic issues, he said, it was a different matter.

Admits Being Uncooperative

"The Republican leadership," he said, "started right out to follow the same policies that nearly wrecked the country under Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

"Some people have accused me of failing to cooperate with the Republican leadership in carrying out those policies. Now, I must confess to you that I am going to plead guilty to that charge. Of course, I did not cooperate in carrying out policies that I knew would bring disaster to the American people.

"But I will tell you how you can get some cooperation in carrying out those policies—if that's what you want. I will tell you how you can achieve unity in a headlong dash toward another depression. Just elect a Republican president to go along with a Republican Congress.

"Just elect a man who said, and I quote: 'I am proud of the rec-

Democrats to Give President Big Welcome Home

Local Democrats will turn out in force today to welcome home President Truman when his 17-car campaign special arrives in Union Station at 10 a.m.

The reception is sponsored by the local Democratic Central Committee and the District's Truman-Barkley Club.

A reception committee headed by Commissioner Guy Mason will board the train and escort Mr. Truman to a waiting auto cavalcade that will accompany him to the White House.

Thousands of persons and at least six musical units will greet the President at a rally in Union Station Plaza.

After the rally, a 250-car caravan will follow the presidential car to the White House.

The procession will go down Delaware ave., then west on Constitution ave., north on 15th st., west on F st., north on E. Executive ave. and will enter the White House at the southeast gate.

RFC to Spur Production of 'Cold Rubber'

30% Greater Mileage In Tires to Result From $3.5 Million Program

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced a $3,500,000 program yesterday to step up the production of "cold rubber" which it said offers about 30 per cent longer mileage in tire treads.

The new synthetic is produced at temperatures approaching the freezing point of water. The expansion program entails installing refrigerating equipment in eight Government-owned synthetic rubber plants.

The material already is being produced in four plants, at the rate of about 21,000 long tons a year. When the expansion program is completed, production is expected to rise to 183,000 long tons.

RFC officials said the "cold rubber" costs no more to make than the regular synthetic product, which is produced at about 125 degrees Fahrenheit. Both kinds are sold to industry for 18½ cents a pound.

Harley Hise, RFC chairman, said the decision to increase production was made after successful machine and road tests. Those tests, he said, have demonstrated that the new synthetic is "the best tire tread material known."

An RFC technician explained that under the refrigeration process it is possible to produce "enormously long" chains of molecules which approach the molecular structure of natural rubber. He called the new development "a revolution in rubber."

The Government-owned rubber plants are managed by private rubber companies under a fee arrangement. The finished product is turned over to the RFC, which either sells it to industry or makes it available for the Government's stockpile of strategic materials.

The new equipment will go into plants operated by the United States Rubber Co. at Borger, Texas; the Copolymer Corp. at Baton Rouge, La.; the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. at Los Angeles, Calif., and Houston, Texas; General Tire and Rubber Co. at Baytown, Texas; Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. at Lake Charles, La., and B. F. Goodrich Co. at Port Neches, Texas.

Rivals Branded As 'Traitorous' By Thurmond

Civil Rights Stand Cheap Bid for Votes, He Says in Baltimore

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina bid tonight for political support in Maryland with a blistering blast at three other men who want to be President.

The three are President Truman, Democratic candidate; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Republican candidate, and Henry A. Wallace, Progressive candidate.

Thurmond is the presidential candidate of the States' Rights Democrats, organized against the civil rights program presented to Congress by President Truman.

[His name is not on the Maryland ballot, but his Free State followers were still trying to get it on yesterday. Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone refused Thursday to accept a petition bearing more than 2000 signatures, because it came too late after the deadline for certifying candidates. Nonetheless, States' Rights leaders asked the Baltimore Superior Court yesterday to order the printing of Thurmond's name on the ballot.]

It was Secretary of State Boone who was commissioned by Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., to inform Thurmond that he was officially welcomed just as a visiting Governor, not as a presidential candidate.

"Traditionally, we of Maryland accord to all a hearing, but reserve our right to disagree," Lane's message said. "I am a strong believer in the two-party system that has made and kept our Nation great and my welcome must be to you as Governor of our sister State of South Carolina, and not as a candidate for the Presidency."

In a plague-on-all-three-of-your houses mood, Governor Thurmond told a States' Rights meeting in Baltimore's Lyric Theater that the presidential campaigns of Dewey, Truman and Wallace were "traitorous bids for political power."

About a thousand persons were present in the theater, which seats 2700. They cheered Thurmond a dozen times as he spoke.

Before he reached the theater, the audience heard several favor-

Dewey Takes Stiffer Stand Against Reds

Pledges Fit Penalty For Traitors; Gives Boost to Candidacy Of Ex-Isolationist

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 1.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight summed up 7000 miles of campaign pledges and promised more vigorously than ever to deal with Communists at home and agressors abroad.

He arrived in Cheyenne with his coattails in tatters. Holding on to them with both hands was Senator Edward V. Robertson, Welsh-born stockman and former isolationist, sorely pressed in his race for re-election.

Governor Dewey gave Robertson his blessing at Green River, Rock Springs, Rawlings and Laramie, Wyo., and plunked again for him tonight at a Cheyenne rally. Everywhere he promised a foreign policy "based upon the firm conviction that we can have peace."

Traitors to Get Deserts

Then he told an audience in Cheyenne's Junior High School auditorium:

"We can and we will deal with the Communists in our midst. . . . We have other methods of dealing with those outside our Government who are undermining our freedom."

It was a small, 1700-capacity hall, but the crowd spilled out the doors, and made up for the undersized house by rattling noisemakers to swell the applause.

Halfway through the speech, a man started down the aisle with a crying baby.

"Oh mister," shouted Dewey, "don't take that baby out. She's not disturbing anybody."

As the man turned, Dewey added: "I've talked against a lot louder noises than a crying baby."

Rubinoff Provides Treat

At the end of the speech, Dewey mixed music with politics for the second straight night. A paid violin concert by Rubinoff was booked to follow the political rally. Dewey invited the violinist to give his own meeting "a free concert."

Rubinoff played "Sweet Mystery of Life" and wisecracked, "What do you want for nothing?" when Dewey and the audience applauded for more. He played an encore and then told Dewey he hoped "to come to the White House and give you the first concert."

Only Thursday night Dewey held a hushed audience in the Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake to hear three numbers by the great pipe organ there.

Renewing his pledge to give a traitor "traitor's treatment" and prosecute those who commit sabotage, Dewey added:

"I can assure you that witnesses will not be kept out of the grand jury under a Republican Administration, and if our laws need strengthening we will strengthen them."

Aides said he was referring to the fact that certain witnesses who appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities were not called before a Federal grand jury in New York.

Barrett Also on Coattails

In the coattail expedition through the State, Robertson was accompanied by Representative Frank A. Barrett, who reportedly has a better chance of winning his House race.

In plugging for Robertson, Dewey steered clear of the Senator's foreign affairs record and praised instead his "pitching" for Western projects.

The man who voted against every major foreign-aid bill until ERP came along, and then voted to cut that, is probably in more trouble than any other Republican Senator save one—West Virginia's Chapman Revercomb.

But strangely, it is not Robert-

13-Cent Transit Fare Approved; Begins Oct. 31

By Winning, 5-3

Tigers Slice Indians' Lead To One Game

Cleveland's Indians were defeated, 5 to 3, yesterday by the Detroit Tigers and now lead Boston's Red Sox and the New York Yankees by a single game in the hectic American League race. Neither Boston nor New York played yesterday.

Each of the three contenders has but two games left, the Boston team and the Yankees meeting each other today and Sunday at the Red Sox park.

Cleveland meets Detroit again today and closes the season against that team Sunday.

Yesterday's Cleveland defeat made it impossible for the American League winner to be determined before Sunday. The Indians must win both their games to take the championship without regard to the results of the two Boston games.

However, Cleveland can lose one of its remaining games and still win the pennant if Boston and New York divide their two games.

In case of a tie or ties for first place, playoffs have been scheduled for Monday and Tuesday.

PUC Grants CTC Rate of 3 Tokens For 35 Cents; Pass Increased to $1.75

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

A one and two-thirds cents a ride fare increase was approved by the District Public Utilities Commission on Capital Transit Co. vehicles effective 5 a. m., October 31.

The rate changes authorized by PUC follow:

Cash fare increased from 10 to 13 cents.

Tokens to be reinstituted at three for 35 cents. This is 11 2/3 cents a ride or 12/3 cents more than the present individual fare.

Weekly pass increased from $1.50 to $1.75. This pass will not be valid on any interstate bus line on which the regular fare is more than 13 cents.

School fare of 3 cents remains unchanged.

CTC Disappointed

The approved rate schedule was proposed during the hearings by V. A. McElfresh, chief accountant for the PUC, and was supported by John Connaughton, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

People's Counsel John O'Dea had recommended a 12-cent cash fare, 5 tokens for 55 cents and a weekly pass at $1.65.

The CTC, pleading inadequate return to maintain its credit standing, had asked for a 15-cent cash fare, sale of tokens at 2 for 25 cents and a $1.85 weekly pass.

During a 10-day hearing, the firm's request had been opposed completely by the Washington Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action and the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection.

Yesterday, E. D. Merrill, CTC president, said he was "a little disappointed" in the increase granted, but declared that "we will continue to do our best to give good service."

He said the "limitation on revenue will mean less than a fair return to security holders."

Group Plans Charges

The counsel for the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection, Harry R. Booth, said the group was "not surprised by the decision in view of the long record of unwarranted favoritism toward the Capital Transit Co. since Mr. Flanagan (James H. Flanagan, PUC chairman) became chairman of the commission. The committee

House Unit Reports Strong Evidence of Red Infiltration

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP).—Congressional investigators today asked that 11 present and former members of the CIO United Electrical Workers Union be cited for contempt of Congress.

The action by the House Labor Subcommittee followed two days of often-turbulent hearings on reported Communist control of the union's Local 301. All of the 11 refused to say whether they are or ever were members of the Communist Party.

The local claims membership of 15,000 production workers at General Electric's big parent plant here.

Chairman Charles J. Kersten (R., Wisc.), explained his Subcommittee's action was, in effect, a recommendation that the 11 persons be cited by the full House Labor Committee. He added that the full committee usually confirms subcommittee action.

Among those listed by the subcommittee were these four officers of Local 301: Andrew Peterson, president; Leo Jandreau, business agent; William Mastriani, chief shop steward, and Milo Lathrop, legislative representative.

The maximum penalty for contempt of Congress is one year in prison and $1000 fine.

In a statement issued by local 301, Peterson and Jandreau declared the action of the congressional investigations "is an act of petty spite and revenge."

"They have no possible legal basis for their threat," the statement said. "Every officer and member they threaten acted completely within his rights and the Congressmen know it."

Kurusu, Arrested On Bribe Charge, Quits Jap Cabinet

Tokyo (Saturday), Oct. 2 (NYHT).—Takeo Kurusu, director general of the Economic Stabilization Board, resigned from the Japanese cabinet late last night following his arrest on suspicion of accepting a bribe from the Showa Denko Fertilizer Co. The development made the survival of Premier Hitoshi Ashida's government doubtful.

An extraordinary session of the cabinet will be called today to pick Kurusu's successor, and Premier Ashida has indicated he will fight to hold the government together. Left-wing Socialists are already demanding the resignation of the entire cabinet.

At the Tokyo procurator's office today, it was alleged that Kurusu had admitted receiving money from the former president of the Showa Denko Co., but said it was a contribution to campaign funds.

U. N. Committee Upholds Right To Eat on Time

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—One of the inalienable rights of man, the chairman of the United Nations Social Committee ruled today, is the right to go to lunch on time.

The committee, debating a draft of a declaration of human rights, was held in session a half hour past the regular 1 p. m. lunch time today by an impassioned speech on the subject.

When the speaker finished, Chairman Charles Malik of Lebanon called his attention to Article 27 of the draft, which says: "In the exercise of his rights, everyone shall be subject only to such limitations as are necessary to secure due recognition and respect for the rights of others . . ."

That, he replied, includes the right to eat on time.

Orders White-Negro License

Interracial Marriage Ban Voided by California Court

San Francisco, Oct. 1 (AP).—A California law prohibiting marriage of white persons to those of Negro, Mongolian or Malayan blood was thrown out today by the State Supreme Court.

The opinion declared that since the right to marry is the right to join in marriage with the person of one's choice, a law prohibiting a person from marrying a member of another race restricts his choice, thereby restricting his right to marry.

The court held the law violated the equal protection of the laws clause of the United States Constitution.

The court directed that the Los Angeles County clerk issue a marriage license, as requested, by Andrea D. Perez, a white woman, and Sylvester S. Davis, a Negro.

Today's ruling declared "marriage is a fundamental right of free men."

The court split 4 to 3 on the issue.

The dissent pointed out that 29 States, in addition to California, had laws barring the marriage of whites to Negroes. Whenever challenged, the dissent said, these laws have been upheld as valid exercises of legislative power by both State and Federal courts.

(In Virginia, marriages of white persons with Negroes, Orientals, Mongolians, or American Indians are all prohibited. The same is true in Maryland except as to Indians. The District of Columbia has no law concerning mixed marriages.)

Winter Demand of Platypuses To Bring Worm Crop Upsurge

New York, Oct. 1 (NYHT).—Heavy production schedules have been instituted at the worm farm in the basement of the lion house at the Bronx Zoo. Christopher W. Coates, curator of the aquarium and overseer of the worm farm, said today, that by tripling activity in the heavy worm industry they were building up a stockpile of 300 pounds of worms over and above normal demand which would be enough to carry them over the winter.

The demand comes from the zoo's two duckbilled platypuses. Worms are their basic diet. As soon as the weather gets cold the platypuses refuse to eat and swim frantically in circles. When this happens they have to be rushed into the warm basement of the bird house. There they eat worms by the thousands.

Kuhn Explains Berlin Crisis In Series Starting Monday

The columns and columns of reading matter on the State Department's "White Paper" contained very important news. This report on the secret negotiations which have been going on in the past two months on the Berlin situation may hold the answer to peace or war.

But news reports of such great length, dealing with so many complex questions, are hard to read and understand. The Washington Post has therefore had Ferdinand Kuhn, jr., Post reporter on European affairs, write a series of five articles explaining the meaning and importance of this "White Paper." The articles will appear in The Washington Post Monday through Friday of next week.

Kuhn is recognized as one of the country's top experts on international affairs. He worked for many years as a European correspondent and has recently returned from a six-week trip to Europe. In his articles he will present the matter of the "White Paper" in easily understandable form, with additional new material related to the same subject.

British Lift Plane Buzzed by Russians

By English Girl

Life in Home Of Russians Called 'Hell'

Berlin, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—"Life is hell back there in the Russian zone," Mrs. Joyce Kliesch, daughter of a London brick maker, said today.

Joyce, a hollow-cheeked English girl, is the mother of two children. Her husband is German. Tomorrow the family leaves for Britain after living in the Soviet occupation zone of Germany since last June.

"My husband, Vlademar, and I would go out at night and steal potatoes from Russian gardens," she said. "Sometimes the Russians would shoot at us, but we never got hit. They never take prisoners when people are stealing food—they shoot to kill."

They escaped to Berlin in September, slipping out the back door as Russian soldiers came up the front steps to arrest them.

On August 31 Mrs. Kliesch had been beaten for saying she was unable to give the Russians any information about the British army.

"Our troubles began when a Russian heard us speaking English at a dance," she said. "They thought we were spies."

"There was very little food," she said. "Just black bread and some macaroni. The bread was so bad it crumbled in your hands. We had to give all the macaroni to Vlademar, jr. (their 18-months-old son)."

She said the Russians repeatedly tried to get her husband to join the Communist Party, promising him more food.

Berlin, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Russian fighter planes made a mock attack on a British transport plane and held aerial gunnery drills near American planes flying the corridor to Berlin today.

An official British announcement said two Russian Yak fighters each made a mock attack on a Bristol Wayfarer as it approached Gatow airfield, the British landing strip in Berlin.

American pliots said at least 25 Russian fighters used the air corridor for firing practice. The Russian planes fired at ground targets and flew at altitudes used by the airlift planes.

The British protested to the Russians about the buzzing of the Bristol. American air safety officials said they would not protest as the gunnery practice was at such low levels it did not menace American flights.

The Americans tonight protested to the Russians concerning the wounding of a German yesterday by a Russian lieutenant. The officer fired two wild shots as he fled from U. S. military police who surprised him visiting his German girl friend in the American sector of Berlin.

Allied sources in Frankfurt said a final three-power agreement on the economic merger of the western zones of Germany is expected in a few days.

Negotiations have been going on several months among United States, British and French officials to reach agreement on controlling trade of the three zones. The pact is expected to result in creation of a three-power agency to regulate west Germany's trade with other nations.

Meantime, the Soviet commandant in Berlin refused requests from the city parliament for assurances of protection against Communist demonstrators so meeting could again be held in the city hall in the Soviet sector.

317 Sentences Lightened, Army Reveals

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 1 (A.P.). Ilse Koch, mistress of Buchenwald, is only one of 317 persons whose war crimes sentences have been lightened, the United States Army said today.

Life sentences of three others connected with the notorious Nazi death mill also were reduced, the Army revealed.

The 317 who won leniency represented about one fifth of the 1653 persons, mostly Germans, tried for war crimes by United States courts, according to a 56-page list.

An Army review board which reduced the Koch sentence June 8 commuted the prison sentences of 12 other Buchenwald defendants. Among these was Prince Josias Waldeck, the last commandant of the camp, whose term was cut from life to 20 years. Two other life sentences were reduced to 20 and 15 years.

Rebels Increase, Greeks Say

Athens, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—There are more Communist rebels in Greece today than when the civil war broke out 2½ years ago.

Despite recent government successes, the latest general staff estimate fixes rebel strength at more than 20,000.

This is a couple of thousand greater than before recent national victories in the Grammos and Vitsi areas.

The army has eliminated about 35,000 rebels in two years, about 5000 of them in the last two months. But the rebels carried off forced recruits to swell their battle-thinned ranks.

Today's government communique said the Communists fired about 70 artillery shells into Kastoria yesterday from about five miles northeast of the city.

Kastoria is the headquarters of Greek military operations in the Vitsi triangle.

Parliament reconvened today amid indications the opposition would seek to end the coalition government of Premier Themistokles Sophoulis.

Publicly, a leader of the Social Democratic (opposition) Party said he would ask the Chamber to dissolve the government, after the United Nations meeting in Paris.

Russia Hints It Has Bomb

only for robbing mankind of the potential benefits of atomic energy but of threatening mankind with all the consequences of the atomic bomb."

'Quotes' Truman, Dewey

Vishinsky said President Truman described the atomic bomb demonstrated at Eniwetok as an improved model which marked progress over the bomb exploded at Hiroshima in Japan. He shouted:

"Apparently the President of the United States described as progress now a bomb which will kill half a million people. That is what they call progress."

Turning to Dewey, he said the Republican presidential candidate in a speech at Phoenix, Ariz., declared America has exclusive possession of atomic secrets.

Vishinsky quoted Lilienthal as saying the United States wants to prolong its monopoly on atomic energy as long as possible.

Summing up with sarcasm, the Soviet delegate cried out:

"One leader tells us that the essential task is to improve the monopoly. Another (Dewey, says it is necessary to maintain this monopoly. These are the statements of a party which wants to be in power. Another speaks of an improved bomb.

"This is their pride—is it not instead their shame?"

Vishinsky said flatly again the Soviet Union would not accept international control of the production of atomic raw materials because the international control organization offered in the American plan would be "an American organization because they have a majority."

He said the original United States plan put forward in 1946 by Bernard M. Baruch was designed to give the United States "unlimited control of the economy of the world through the diktat (dictate) of the atomic bomb."

"Russia has no more illusions," he added, "in fact these are war aims. The American plan is designed to permit the United States of America to take over control of all atomic energy."

Russia vetoed the majority-accepted American plan in the Security Council. The Assembly now is trying to decide what to do. Authoritative sources said there is a growing feeling among the Western powers and Canada that they should consult with Russia if possible after the Assembly meeting and try to find some basis for continuing the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission.

Asks Show of Good Faith

Last year both Vishinsky and his chief, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, sought to give the impression Russia has the secret of the atomic bomb. But they never have gone beyond hints.

Vishinsky appealed to the majority powers to show their good faith now and "ban that hell of the atomic bomb."

"It is a mistake," he shouted, to think that there is just one state which has a monopoly over atomic energy and the atomic bomb. It is useless to think of such a thing. It is useless to hope for that because this is fraught with dire and dangerous consequences and miscalculations.

"As long as we are looking for a solution not a single state should manufacture the bomb. China told us today that she cannot make the bomb and perhaps some others will tell us that they cannot make it. But there are some states who will not say that they cannot manufacture the bomb because that would not be true.

"The United States go on stockpiling under the illusion that they are still monopolists."

Vishinsky made his second hint with this statement:

"It is clear that the United States in respect to the atomic question carry out a dictatorial policy under the illusion they still have a monopoly on atomic energy."

Vishinsky also trained his fire on Ferdinand Eberstadt of New York City, who was a member of the American delegation to the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission when Baruch was chief.

The basic difference between the United States and Russia is this: Russia wants the bomb outlawed immediately with controls to be worked out afterward. The United States, and the majority, demand adequate international controls before the United States surrenders the bomb secret.

Plutonium Production High, Lilienthal Says

Chicago, Oct. 1 (A.P.).—Plutonium—the man-made element used in improved atomic bombs and peacetime research—is being produced on a "factory-size" scale in the United States, David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, said today.

He also said that Atomic Energy Commission projects were using "scores of tons" of uranium metal and that the commission is "searching the world" for uranium ore

U.S., Europe to Get German Scrap Iron

A United States-British agreement cleared the way yesterday for the scrap-hungry American steel industry to take an estimated 750,000 tons of iron and steel scrap out of Germany in the next 12 months.

The State Department said the agreement means Germany now will make "a substantial contribution toward relieving the serious scrap shortage" in both the United States and Europe.

It specifies that 500,000 tons of scrap in western Germany be set aside immediately for American buyers, 500,000 tons for the British and 250,000 tons for other countries.

The department said it "hoped" another 750,000 tons would be allocated and shipped out during the next 12 months.

Under the agreement, the scrap must be sold by the Germans at a price fixed by United States-British military governors.

The department emphasized that the plan will not interfere with the rebuilding of German industry. Officials said western-occupied Germany has more scrap than it can possibly use. Most of it consists of rubble from wrecked industrial plants, railway installations, abandoned ships and other war-damaged equipment.

Since the war, the United States has received only a trickle of scrap from western Germany. In contrast, Britain has taken nearly one million tons out of Germany as "booty."

Amity Marking Bank-Fund Session Called World Model

day praised his activities in setting up both the Bank and the Fund. In addition several speakers spoke of his work, especially the Egyptian delegate, Ahmed Zaki Bey Saad, who told the Assembly that White's postwar work as advised to the Bank of Mexico was outstanding.

4. Urged that at future meetings "consideration should be given to the desirability of encouraging full and open discussions on matters of substance to the Fund and Bank."

Brought Out by Cripps

One of the differences that had marked the debates between nations, was brought out into the open by Sir Stafford Cripps of Great Britain at the final plenary session. Cripps notified the delegates—and the world—that Britain cannot permit the International Bank—as a global lending institution—to lend British pounds for reconstruction purposes.

The British Chancellor of the Exchequer answered a plea by John J. McCloy, president of the Bank, that all countries make available for lending the currency which they have placed on deposit with the bank.

"I'm afraid that, for the time being at least, so far as we in the United Kingdom are concerned, I see little prospect of anything on these lines being possible. I only wish we could do more, but quite frankly we must still await better times."

Another suggestion by President McCloy, that member nations should reconsider making available some portion of the 18 per cent of their capital subscription in their own currency, also was knocked down by Cripps.

"The United Kingdom," he said, "is already making available such large quantities of sterling by way of credits, gifts, and the release of sterling balances, that it is very difficult to see what further it can do in the way of pledging its exports without any immediate return by way of imports."

Cripps was supported by the Netherlands Governor for the bank. P. Lieftinck announced that his government "accepts in principle" the proposal for expanding the bank's lendable funds.

But the Netherlands Governor, like Cripps, reported that his government must exercise control over the trade channels into which its exports flow—in other words, its exports must be made to countries from which exports are received.

(The setup of the bank requires that 20 per cent of the capital subscription must be made by the subscribing countries—2 per cent in gold or dollars—the remaining 10 per cent in their own currency.)

Experts Explain Position

Monetary experts explain the British position as follows: That a loan of pounds by the bank to some of the war-devastated countries would bring to Britain neither of the two things her economy needs most—dollars or goods. Thus it might add to inflation, they point out, and might divert British exports to nations which could send nothing to Britain in return.

The friendly spirit in which all negotiations were conducted was expressed by Yun-Wu-Wang, outgoing president.

"Even when conflicts over various aspects of Fund and Bank were being voiced," he said, "it was done in such a way as to indicate that all had at heart the successful functioning of our two institutions as well as the welfare of their own countries.

"Our discussions have demonstrated that as long as countries retain common objectives in the international monetary and investment fields, they can come together and discuss their differences with cordiality and amiability."

Consideration Praised

The consideration the Bank is giving to problems in Latin America was praised by the newly elected governor from Peru, Jose Barreda-Moller.

"Mr. McCloy and his advisers have seen our problems at first hand," he said. "They have because of that, a better understanding of our complicated problems than the world has had before."

In closing the conference, Eyskens of Belgium remarked: "The smoothness of the proceedings should inspire other international conferences.

"Due to the excellent preparations—and also due to the very beautiful and peaceful atmosphere of Washington—extending from Rock Creek and taking in all the Shoreham Hotel—we have set an example to the world."

Reporter's Exclusion Cancels Interview

A news conference between American reporters and an aide to Sir Stafford Cripps was called off by the Economic Cooperation Administration yesterday because, ECA said, the aide wanted to exclude a Chicago Tribune correspondent.

The conference was to have been with Clem Leslie, press representative of Cripps, British Chacnellor of the Exchequer.

Bryan Houston, ECA's director of information who arranged the conference, said it was canceled because Leslie asked that a Chicago Tribune reporter not be present. The Tribune has expressed opposition to the Marshall Plan.

Members of the working press regularly assigned to ECA expressed agreement with Houston's action. Their stand was that it would breach the freedom of the press to restrict an American publication from covering ECA-sponsored activities dealwith the European recovery program.

Reds Block China Planes At Chinhsien

Peiping, Oct. 1 (AP).—Communist artillery fire neutralized the Chinhsien Airfield today, driving off Chinese government planes attempting to land there with reinforcements and supplies.

The field, 4 miles northwest of the Manchurian city of Chinhsein, has been the terminus of the air lift supporting Mukden, 125 miles to the northeast.

Pro-government reports said some troops from Mukden had landed to aid Chinhsien's hard-pressed 60,000-man garrison shortly before the field was knocked out.

Communist infantry was conceded to have broken into the railway town of Suichung, 80 miles southwest of Chinhsien.

Jessup to Present U. S. Berlin Case To U. N. Council

Paris, Oct. 1 (NYHT).—Dr. Philip C. Jessup, professor of international law at Columbia University and former New York lawyer, will present the American appeal on Berlin to the United Nations Security Council next week.

He will be assisted in the preparation of the case by Benjamin V. Cohen, former counselor of the State Department. Secretary of State George C. Marshall will step in whenever he feels it is necessary.

The British appeal will be argued by Sir Alexander Cadogan. Alexandre Parodi will speak for France.

The issue will come before the Council Monday afternoon.

Panama's New Head Pledges Canal Defense

Panama City, Panama, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Domingo Diaz Arosemena was inaugrated today as President of Panama for a four-year term.

In his inaugural speech, Diaz said his administration will fulfill Panama's responsibility in the defense of the Panama Canal.

"The Republic of Panama desires to cooperate with the United States for the defense of the canal, and is ready for any sacrifice that does not involve slighting its dignity or sovereignty."

This was seen paving the way for possible resumption of negotiations with the United States on the issue of canal defense bases on Panamanian territory.

The National Assembly convened and voted unaminously to restore civil liberties immediately.

No disorders were reported.

Army Selects Noncom Hero For Final War 2 Honor Medal

The Army yesterday named the last Medal of Honor winner of World War II—a noncom killed in battling the Germans.

Staff Sergt. John W. Minick, who led his platoon through an enemy minefield near Hurtgen, Germany, on November 21, 1944, and who personally killed more than a score of enemy soldiers before he fell dead, was the 292d and last Army or Air Force recipient of the Medal Honor.

The Army said that award completes the list for World War II. The Navy has given the medal to 137 men, including 79 Marines and one Coast Guardsman.

The infantryman's medal will be presented soon to his widow, Mrs. Mary R. Minick of Mechanicsburg, Pa. His mother, Mrs. Alma Minick, lives in Wall, Pa.

Minick, a member of the 3d Battalion of the 121st Infantry Regiment, volunteered to find a gap through the minefield which held up an advance.

Leading four other volunteers, he worked through barbed wire and fallen trees for 300 yards, where the enemy opened up with machinegun fire. Minick ordered his men to take cover, worked his way around the flank of the enemy gun position, killed two Germans and captured three.

Minick went on the move again. He encountered an entire enemy company at close range, opened fire, killed 20 men, took 20 prisoners.

Another minefield was ahead. Minick started across it, advanced 50 yards under constant fire, then stepped on a mine and died instantly.

Chance Seen For Revival Of Lend-Lease

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—European countries are looking for a revival of lend-lease in addition to the Economic Recovery Program if the continent is to be rearmed.

Spokesmen for European governments have expressed grave concern over the possibility that a new arms race might divert funds from the ERP.

Two well-qualified officials, who refused to be identified, said the whole purpose of ERP would be lost if the money is used for rearmament. A new lend-lease, they added, is the only possible answer.

The idea of rearmament arouses little enthusiasm in the average European.

In Britain, increased arms production is expected to be made up by the United States.

Coup Hinted By De Gaulle

its failure to consult the people, he added.

He could not wait three years to come back, he hinted, "because in three years there will probably be neither French democracy nor French independence."

New elections are mandatory in 1951 for the National Assembly, but De Gaulle wants the Assembly to dissolve and hold new elections immediatey.

The general said his French Peoples Party now has 1,500,000 members.

The general, who resigned as Chief of State in January 1946 because of quarrels with France's politicians, said the problem of European defense would have to be reconsidered "when France has a real government."

"The natural center of defense plans for Europe is France," he said.

"I have nothing against England. No one knows better what its courage and sacrifices have been. But England is an island and Europe is a continent."

He paid a personal tribute to British Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, who has been named to head military planning of the alliance.

A British Foreign Office spokesman in London said the communique from the alliance secretariat officially announcing Montgomery's appointment had been postponed from today until perhaps Saturday. A British informant said France asked the postponement.

'Scientist X' Riddle Solved, Vail Asserts

Milwaukee, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Representative Richard Vail (R., Ill.) said tonight that he had discovered the answer to the mysterious "Scientist X" phase of the House atomic spy investigation.

Vail, who is acting as a one-man Un-American Activities Subcommittee in investigations here, said he was not at liberty to disclose his findings.

The full House committee had charged that "Scientist X" gave a "formula of importance" in the development of the atomic bomb to Steve Nelson, a Pennsylvania Communist Party leader.

The committee said "Scientist X" worked on atomic research during the war at the University of California.

Vail questioned four witnesses in a day-long hearing here, but would reveal the names of only three.

Hears Doctors Ex-FBI Agent

They were James A. Fitzpatrick, Milwaukee, attorney and former special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Robert O'Keefe, former FBI agent, and Dr. Arthur G. Steinberg of Mayo Clinic, who participated in research for the Navy during the war.

Steinberg was mentioned during the Canadian atomic spy case in 1946.

Vail said he had completed the Milwaukee phase of the investigation after questioning the fourth witness late today. He planned to leave Milwaukee for Washington immediately with transcripts of the testimony.

McDowell Challenged To Prove Assertions

New York, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—United States Attorney John F. X. McGohey today issued an invitation to Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) to prove his charges that McGohey and his assistants deliberately drew up the indictments of 12 top Communist leaders so they would not "stick."

McGohey said he would like McDowell, who is acting chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, to appear before a special grand jury investigating communism here on October 7 to prove the charges he made in Washington yesterday. McGohey denied McDowell's statements "categorically."

McDowell told newsmen yesterday that he had information that indicated indictments charging the Communists with conspiring to overthrow the Government "were drawn in such a way that they won't stick."

He added that the fault was "deliberate" and not just the result of ineptness.

"If those statements are true, there has been a conspiracy to obstruct justice by me and the other lawyers who, with me drafted the indictments," McGohey said.

"I deny Congressman McDowell's charge categorically," McGohey said.

McDowell Won't Say If He'll Talk to Jury

Washington, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) refused to say today whether he would accept an invitation to testify before the Federal grand jury in New York which is investigating communism.

McDowell, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, declined to comment on United States District Attorney John F. X. McGohey's request that he appear in New York on October 7.

Need for Secrecy May Bar Spy Trials

House spy investigators said yesterday that some Russian espionage agents may escape prosecution because a public trial would reveal important United States military secrets.

Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said the American legal system may have to be changed to meet the situation. He said the committee probably will study that question.

"It may be necessary to add to our American system of jurisprudence to cope with this situation," McDowell said.

But he insisted that the four Americans against whom the committee is seeking espionage indictments can be tried. He said it would not be necessary to disclose confidential information.

"We feel that a public trial can be held for these four," he said. "The evidence is there. I se nothing further that need be said in court other than that 'the material was transferred.'"

The four are Clarence Francis Hiskey and John Hitchcock Chapin, who worked together on atomic energy research during the war, Marcia Sand, Hiskey's former wife, and Steve Nelson, a Communist organizer in western Pennsylvania.

30 Years' Army Service Marked By Col. Jadwin

Col. Cornelius C. Jadwin, retiring Chief of Staff of the Military District of Washington, concluded 30 years of Regular Army service yesterday with a review of the Third "Old Guard" Infantry Regiment at Fort Myer Va.

Col. Jadwin

Col. Jadwin, whose career also has included several diplomatic assignments, and Army staff position, lives at 3335 Prospect ave. nw. Most of his service was in the Cavalry

In the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin, Col. Jadwin was a member of the U. S. Equestrian team which placed fourth that year. He is now commodore of the Corinthian Yacht Club here.

After the United States entered World War II he went to Ankara, Turkey, as Military Attache until 1943, when he returned to Washington as assistant Chief of Staff in Intelligence.

A 1945 assignment took him to Romania as deputy military representative on the Allied Control Council. Later that year he became Army Headquarters commandant of the MDW and, in 1947, Chief of Staff of the MDW.

Laborite Wins Glasgow Seat

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 1 (AP).—Labor retained its seat today in a parliamentary by-election in which Communists polled more than one sixth of the votes.

Mrs. Alice Cullen, Labor, received 13,706; Willis Roxburgh, Conservative, 7181, and Patrick Kerrigan, Comunist, 4233.

The Communists campaigned vigorously on a slogan of "Homes —Not Bombs," opposing the British rearmament program.

There was no Communist candidate in the 1945 general election, in which George Buchanan, Labor, polled 21,037 and I. A. MacTaggart, Conservative, 5269.

The by-election was necessitated when Buchanan resigned from Commons to become chairman of the National Assistance Board.

In by-elections since Britain's last general election, the Labor government has retained 27 seats and lost only 1 to the Conservatives. Conservatives have retained 11 and gained 4, 1 from Labor and 3 from Independents. The Independent Labor Party has retained one.

Bus Service Halts in Havana

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 1 (AP).—Bus service in Havana stopped suddenly today. The companies said they ran out of gasoline.

There was no transportation to the suburbs or nearby towns. It was estimated 80,000 persons could not get to their jobs.

The bus companies said they had no gas because there was no money to pay for it; the government's managers took it to pay higher salaries, they said.

The government took over the transportation companies recently when they refused to grant a 30 per cent salary increase, and to give eight hours' pay for six hours' work.

The government-appointed managers, the companies said, took the money destined for fuel and maintenance expenses to pay the increased wages because daily receipts were not enough.

Eire Plans to Cut Last British Link

Cobh, Eire, Oct. 1 (AP).—Prime Minister John A. Costello said today legislation will be introduced at the next session of Parliament to break the last link with the British crown and repeal Eire's External Relations Act under which Britain's King now signs credentials of Eire's envoys to foreign countries.

Red Probers Seek Contempt Citations Against 11 in UEW

(D., Tex.), said that charges that the officers of local 301 are in the hands of the Communist Party "have in no wise been lessened or disproved as a result of the present hearings."

Charges Strengthened

"In fact," the statement added, "they have been strengthened."

The statement said the majority of local 301 officers "have exhibited not only contempt of the subcommittee, but also contempt of the rank and file members of local 301 who are entitled to know whether their officers have Communist connections. . . ."

Seven of 10 witnesses called today cited constitutional rights as reasons for their silence.

One of the seven was Jandreau who also denied that he had paid Communist Party dues to a one-time associate, Salvatore Vottis, former financial secretary of Local 301 and a self-styled former Communist.

Vottis testified yesterday that Jandreau was a dues-paying Communist Party member in the late 1930s and that he had collected dues from Jandreau for about three years.

Three witnesses, including Frank Emspak, former president of the local, said they were not and never had been Communist Party members.

Vottis testified yesterday that he had signed Emspak into the Communist Party and when queried about this today, Emspak replied:

"I want to say that Vottis is a liar."

Vottis broke in by loudly stating: "I did sign him up."

The subcommittee recessed until Monday. Kersten said it would hold hearings in New York beginning Monday on reported Communist influences in the CIO wholesale and retail department store workers.

Flaxer Refuses to Say Whether He Is a Red

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—Abram Flaxer, president of the CIO United Public Workers, today refused to tell a House subcommittee whether he is or ever has been a Communist.

However, Flaxer, a member of the CIO executive board, told the committee he would "fight for this country" against any organization or nation which sought to overthrow the government.

The head of the 87,000-member union appeared before a subcommittee of the House Committee on Labor and Education. It is probing alleged Communist infiltration into schools, labor unions and Veterans Administration branches.

The subcommittee adjourned its hearings subject to call after four union officials or former officials refused to answer the Communist question.

Two officials previously had refused to answer. The hearing opened Monday.

Flaxer and others who refused to say whether they are or have been Communists said they were doing so because the question violates their constitutional rights.

One was a teacher who protested the question "violates everything I have been teaching for 15 years."

The teacher, Samuel Wallach, past president of Local 555 of the CIO Teachers Union, also refused to say whether he knew there were Communists in the local's membership.

Satira Must Wait Few Days for Release

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 1 (AP).—Patricia (Satira) Schmidt, exotic Toledo dancer, will have to wait until Wednesday or Thursday for her release from prison, it was learned today.

The 23-year-old Patricia, serving a 15-year sentence for the death of her married lover, John Lester Mee, Chicago attorney, was pardoned last night by President Ramon Grau San Martin.

Three working days must elapse before she is freed.

In Chicago, her old boss at the Silver Palm said he planned to arrange "big bookings in New York" for Patricia.

Apartment Parking Ordinance Weighed

A proposed change in zoning regulations designed to stimulate erection of large structures containing utility or bachelor apartments will be considered at a public hearing at 10 a. m., October 13.

The change, one of several to be weighed at the District Zoning Commission session in the District Building, reduces the amount of off-street parking facility which builders are required to include in erecting apartment buildings. The regulations apply only to new buildings.

A Zoning Commission official said last night that since parking requirements were adopted in 1942, bachelor apartment buildings have not been erected because builders found that other housing structures required less set-aside area for parking.

At present, builders must plan on making available one parking space for each two dwelling units, in some sections. For a large structure, this could amount to an entire floor or two, according to Robert O. Clouser, director of planning for the commission.

Under the proposed zoning revision, the ratio would be changed to one space for each eight utility units. This would encourage erection of such structures, which have always been popular with single Government workers and others here.

At present many tenants are forced to combine in taking larger accommodations because of the inadequate supply of smaller units.

The proposed changes would also bring new hospitals, sanitariums, convalescent homes, homes for the aged, orphanages, charitable institutions, high schools, colleges and universities under the mandatory parking requirements, with the ratio depending on the number of beds in the institutions or the number of seats in the schools.

Another change would clear the way for erection of a parking garage by George Washington University Hospital in the block between 23d, 24th, H and I sts. nw. A request by the institution for an exception to present zoning restrictions was denied earlier.

The regulation would permit erection of such garage in residential C and D area districts provided no gasoline, oil or grease is sold and dangerous traffic conditions are not created.

Corning to Act

More Cadets Planned for High Schools

A plan to strengthen the District high school cadet program will be presented to the Board of Education at its meeting Wednesday, Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said yesterday.

He declined to comment on what recommendation he will make but said it will be based on suggestions of high school principals.

Corning and First Assistant Superintendent Norman J. Nelson met yesterday with the principals of the white and Negro high schools to discuss the program.

The Army, which supplies the corps with rifles, ammunition and sabers, has threatened to withdraw support unless enrollments in the white high schools are increased.

Last year there were 954 cadets in the white high schools. The Army maintained there should be at least 2000.

600 District Men Listed as 1-A in Draft

Six hundred District youths already have been classified as 1-A, Lieut. Col. Walter S. Welsh, chief of draft's manpower here, revealed last night.

Only a small percentage of these young men are expected to qualify physically for service, Welsh said, pointing out that most of them are 24 to 25 years of age.

"That's the age group we bore down on just after the war," he said. "Which means a high percentage of them had physicals then and were rejected for disabilities."

"While some of those disabilities may have corrected themselves with time, or have been corrected surgically," he said, "the draftable potentials in this group is undoubtedly small."

Meanwhile, 60 youths registered yesterday who should have signed up by September 18, and four youngsters just turned 18.

Noting that yesterday's total of late registrants was the lowest for the week, Welsh said he believed virtually all men who should have signed up before the September deadline have done so. No punitive action against the approximately 1250 tardy registrants is contemplated, he said.

Yesterday's total of four 18-year-old registrants was the lowest for the week. On Monday, 36 registered; Tuesday, 5; Wednesday, 10; Thursday, 8.

U. N. Stamps Proposed as Money Maker

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP).—The budgetary committee of the United Nations General Assembly today approved in principle the creation of a U. N. postal service after it had been urged to take advantage of the "folly" of stamp collectors.

The 58-member committee also authorized Secretary - General Trygve Lie to conclude arrangements with individual governments for the issue of special or overprinted stamps publicinz the United Nations.

Dr. Jose Arce of Argentina, sponsor of the proposal, said it would bring in money to the U. N. and spread the organization's name throughout the world by taking advantage of the "folly of philatelism."

"I am one of those who share this folly," Arce said.

The resolution was approved 29 to 0, with 10 abstaining. It now goes before a plenary meeting of the Assembly.

Worm Farm Busy as Bee

Daily consumption.....
2 lbs. at 200 worms per pound
* Undue emphasis must not be given this figure because platypuses' palates easily tire of these.

The inventory demonstrated the need for a production step-up.

Also, the platypuses will eat the small commercial worms and English pink worms for a few days and then turn up their bills at them. Inasmuch as the platypuses relish the fighter or native worms all the time, it was decided to concentrate production on this type.

One pit each was devoted to night crawlers and commercial worms. All the other pits were filled with eggs and young of the fighter or native worms. Then began the greatest activity in the history of mass worm production.

Forced feeding proved to be the key to success. This week alone the worms had been fed 40 sacks of leaves. This was above the normal feeding of banana skins, coffee grounds, sour milk, spoiled grapes and other luxuries. Rate of growth has been gratifying and things never looked brighter.

Coates today happily announced they had rounded the turn. He said the production already had gone up to 4½ pounds a day, well above daily consumption. The worms which are half grown now will continue to put on weight, he said. Some already average almost 6 inches.

This unprecedented instance of industrial organization means that before long the stockpile will reach 300 pounds or enough worms to provide 2 pounds a day for 150 days during the lean, cold winter months.

Peary's Arctic 'File'

CAIRN HELD HIS RECORDS—This picture, released yesterday, shows the cairn, or pile rocks on Cape Sheridan, 540 miles south of the North Pole, in which Comdr. Robert E. Peary left handwritten records. The cairn was sighted from a helicopter just before a Navy and Coast Guard Task Force was about to call its expedition a failure. The records were sealed in a whisky bottle after Peary's trek across the top of the world by dog sled and huskies in 1905-6. The "R" on the cross stands for the ship, the Roosevelt, which Peary's expedition used

2 Sisters Die as Train Overturns, Catches Fire

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP).—Two young girls were killed and two other persons injured seriously today when a Reading Railroad one-car train overturned and caught fire near here.

State Police Trooper Robert Betz identified the dead as Miss Ellen Hughes, 19, and her sister, Equilla, 13, of Skillman. He said the girls were trapped in the blaze despite the efforts of their mother, Mrs. Puritan Hughes, 39, to save them. Mrs. Hughes was shaken up, but escaped.

CTC Granted Fare Increase

per cent token fares for 120,219,274 passengers annually. The number of weekly pass rides was expected by McElfresh to drop from 171,747,988 a year to 126,131,723.

The company will use four million tokens taken out of service when token sales were discontinued. These have been covered with a special process, highly polished gilt surface.

Passengers using the W. M. & A. line in conjunction with the CTC will find that their fares will not jump on trips to Washington when a transfer is permitted fro mthe bus line to the CTC lines, but will rise on return trips if they travel via CTC first and then on the W. M. & A. buses.

The new rate schedule is the second boost since May 1947, when PUC permitted the firm to drop token sales at 3 for 25 cents. This, in effect, raised the individual rides to 10 cents each, the existing cash fare. The weekly pass rate was boosted from $1.25 to $1.50 at that time.

intends to file formal charges seeking the removal of Flanagan, Lauderdale and People's Counsel O'Dea (John O'Dea)," Booth said, on behalf of the committee.

The District Progressive Party, a member of the WCCP, also issued a statement last night terming the increase "a shameless grab from the pockets of Washingtonians."

The attorney for the local ADA group, Ben C. Segal, said he was "disappointed in the decision." "I feel the company did not establish a case warranting any increase whatsoever," he declared.

People's Counsel O'Dea said he was studying the decision and would not offer any comment immediately.

The PUC decision was incorporated in a 26-page document which emphasized the commission's attempt to hear testimony from all interested parties.

In its decision, PUC declared that "the return currently being earned by the company is inadequate; that a continuation of earnings at their present level would be prejudicial to the credit standing of the company, and that an increase in fares is warranted."

After considering various fare schedules suggested during the hearings, the Commission decided on the schedule recommended by McElfresh and anticipated it would yield a return of about 5¾ per cent, which "will not seriously impair the company's credit position."

The PUC previously had set 7½ per cent as the "fair" rate of return for the firm. It pointed out yesterday that the approved fare structure will "in conjunction with further operating economies, materially improve the present inadequate earnings position of the company," even though it will yield less than 7½ per cent.

If the new rates return more than that amount, the excess will be placed in a special reserve fund to offset "in whole or in part any future deficiency in earnings."

McElfresh estimated the new fare schedule would result in a ratio of 25 per cent cash fares for 40,073,091 passengers a year to 75

Dual-Slaying Alibi Of Boy, 17, Holds Up

Glen Burnie, Md., Oct. 1 (AP).—Anne Arundel County police today assumed custody of a 17-year-old boy who was held overnight in Baltimore for questioning in connection with the two-week-old Kline-Mahlan murders.

But Baltimore's Chief Inspector M. Joseph Wallace, who questioned the youth, said he "doubted" that the boy had anything to do with the slaying of Mary Kline, 18, and her 25-year-old escort, John H. Mahlan, both of Glen Burnie.

County police still were holding him "for questioning" tonight.

The boy was picked up yesterday on an Anne Arundel County construction job. Police in their questioning asked him if he owned any guns. He replied he did not.

Later, police found he possessed a .25-caliber automatic pistol and a .32-caliber pistol. He was then questioned at length about the murders, both last night and early today. His alibi that he was visiting relatives in Harford County the night of the murders, however, held up.

Mahlan, a postal clerk, and Miss Kline left for a short ride the evening of September 17. His blood-stained car was found in a backwoods section the next morning, and their battered bodies were located Monday. Both had been shot through the head.

Offer Rejected

150 Glaziers Strike for Higher Pay

About 150 members of the AFL Glaziers Union, Local 963, yesterday went on strike for wage increases of 5 cents more per hour than had been offered by contractors.

The workers failed to report to their jobs after the union's one-year agreement with 13 contractors expired Thursday night.

Negotiations have been in progress for the last month and another session is tentatively scheduled for Monday with both sides expressing optimism as to an early settlement.

According to Paul W. Jones, union business manager, the workers are asking wage increases averaging about 8 per cent. Glaziers or outside workers receive from $2.25 an hour under the demands and glass workers' scales would range from $1.20 to $1.80 an hour.

The contractors have offered increases falling short of demands by 5 cents an hour.

A. L. Amoss, manager of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and chairman of the management negotiations committee, said that, with fringe benefits already settled, the employers were offering raises ranging from 5 to 15 per cent.

Free Press Guarantees Liberty, Marshall Says

Secretary of State George C. Marshall said yesterday that no people have ever lost their liberty "so long as their press remained free."

In a statement issued in conjunction with the start of National Newspaper Week, Marshall said half the world's population is now living under some form of censorship.

"Denied access to the facts, people in countries where censorship and government control of the press exist can base their judgments only on half-truths or false information fed to them by those in control," he said.

Girl Rescues Child From Tar Pit

With her fingers she dug tar out of his mouth and nostrils and applied artificial respiration. Fire rescue squad members arrived to take the boy to the hospital

Penicillin Dust Found Boon In Treating Common Cold

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP).—Penicillin dust, inhaled directly into the nose, throat and lungs, has cured symptoms of the common cold in one to three days, three physicians reported today.

Their study, published in the journal of the American Medical Association, showed:

That of a group of 169 common cold patients treated, 42 per cent were considered cured and 38 per cent showed marked improvement.

"Patients stated that they could breathe more freely through the nose and the stuffiness and congestion of the acute rhinitis (inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose) often improved immediately after treatment," the report said.

"Also, on occasion, the pain of an acutely sore throat was ameliorated in one-half hour to one hour."

Pending further study, the researchers are assuming that the penicillin dust attacks not the virus that causes the cold, but the bacteria that prolongs it.

In the inhalation treatment, patients merely breathe in the dust through a mask one to three times daily: Three to six minutes are required for each dose. Hospitalization is not required.

The study was conducted by Dr. Louis Krasno of the University of Illinois medical school; Dr. Paul S. Rhoads and Dr. Mary Karp of the Northwestern University medical school.

Newsboy Shows Soviet Consul How to Make Blockade Work

San Francisco, Oct. 1 (AP).—So you want to know how to deal with the Russians? Here's how Jimmy Allen, 13, a newsboy, did it—for $1.25 cash.

Jimmy, no believer in Lend Lease, rapped on the door of the house which Soviet Consul General Konstantin Efremox closed here last night to return to Russia.

"I want my money," the boy informed an aide who poked his head out of the front door. The door slammed.

Jimmy withdrew to a prepared position—the sidewalk where he could watch front and side doors.

An hour passed and then Efremov, his wife and four associates came out of the 30-room consulate and made for two cars. Jimmy advanced.

"I want my money for the newspapers," he said.

Efremov stopped short and regarded Jimmy.

"How much?"

"One buck, two bits."

The consul general motioned to an aide. The man pulled out his wallet. Jimmy got his money.

Caravan Trip Set Sunday

A cruise to Fort Washington, a caravan trip to Gettysburg National Military Park, and a leaf and acorn walk through Rock Creek Park are among the events scheduled Sunday by the National Capital Park Service.

The Potomac Clipper, a 50-passenger sightseeing boat will leave its dock at the Tidal Basin inlet bridge for Fort Washington every Sunday in October, at 10 a.m., Superintendent of Parks Irving C. Root announced. It is scheduled to reach the fort at 11 a.m. and return to the city at 2 p.m.

Special buses will leave Washington at 8 a.m. from 1416 F st. nw., for the trip to Gettysburg Park. Private autos will join the buses at the park entrance in Gettysburg. Park historians will guide the group on a tour of the battlefield.

The leaf and acorn walk will begin at 3 p.m. at 16th st. and Missouri ave. nw. Horace V. Wester, park pathologist will conduct the walk.

Today a study of fall fruits and flowers will be conducted by W. Drew Chick, park naturalist, at Dyke Overlook on Mount Vernon Memorial hwy. He will meet the party at 2:30 p.m. at the Dyke parking area on the Memorial hwy.

Newborn Baby Dies After Its Rescue in Fire

Quebec City, Que., Oct. 1 (U.P.)—Fire last night swept the frame building where the family of Paul Drolet lived on the third floor. Trapped in the flames were his 10-year-old son, his wife and their baby—only one day old.

While 30 firemen played streams of water on the building, Drolet mounted a ladder to a window. He helped his son, Henri, out of the window and to the ground.

Then he went back and entered the blazing bedroom where his wife, weak from childbirth and unable to rise from her bed, clutched their newborn son at her side. Drolet picked up the infant and carried it to the ground.

Although his back was badly burned, Drolet turned again toward the ladder. But firemen pulled him back for the room was completely engulfed in flames. His wife perished.

This morning the newborn babe died in the hospital of burns and exposure suffered in the rescue.

Chalfonte Granted 10% Rent Boost

District Rent Examiner William F. Mansfield granted a rent increase of approximately 10 per cent yesterday to Goldwyn and Ritter, owners of the Chalfonte Apartment house, 1601 Argonne pl. nw.

Rents in the apartment, which formerly ranged from $35 to $90 a month, will now range from $38.50 for a two-room and bath unit, to $99 for 5-room and bath units.

Owners of the building had asked for a 16.5 per cent increase.

13-Cent Fares

About the best that can be said of the new 13-cent cash Washington transit fare, from the standpoint of the bus or streetcar rider, is that it is better than the 15-cent fare originally asked by Capital Transit. In place of the present straight 10-cent charge, the new schedule to go into effect October 31, also provides for tokens to be purchased at the rate of three for 35 cents, which will bring rides to slightly less than 12 cents each. The cost of weekly passes will be raised from $1.50 to $1.75.

But there is more to consider than merely the short-range interest of the consumer. The Public Utilities Commission also has the job of seeing that an adequate transit service is maintained. This means that it also must have an eye to the financial status of the company, with due regard for efficiency, and that the fare structure must be sufficient to permit unimpaired operation. Capital Transit received considerably less than it asked. The new rates are calculated to return the company 5.76 per cent on its investment. This is substantially below the 7.5 per cent return set as fair some time ago by the PUC. It should be an inducement to Capital Transit to continue to concentrate on operating economies.

We believe that the hearings were fair, and that the PUC made a conscientious effort to listen to both sides. It was apparent during the hearings that much of the testimony against the increase was based on nothing more substantial than the belief that higher fares will cause hardship to inflation-pressed families. Certainly they will. Higher fares are in the same category with higher food and clothing costs, and the reason for them is the same—operating costs also have risen. The absence of concrete facts available to the opposition does suggest, however, that the people's counsel ought to be provided with means of obtaining pertinent technical information independent of the PUC.

Double Challenge

The international Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development are concerned with distinct but nevertheless related aspects of one great problem: the postwar economic welfare of the world. Accordingly, their annual reports cover in part the same and in part quite different subjects. Both organizations have found their operations intimately affected by and dependent on the ultimate success or failure of the European Recovery Program and both reports call for greater cooperative efforts among the recipient countries to assure their own economic viability at the end of the ERP period. The parallel is striking and significant.

In each case, for example, the achievement by most western European countries of production levels equal to or above 1938 levels gets merited applause. In each case, however, this accomplishment is recognized as only part of the task. Both are concerned with the concurrent deterioration in the financial positions of nearly all the same countries and demand redoubled efforts to overcome the responsible causes.

The Monetary Fund says: "The European countries must themselves place their economies on a self-sustaining basis and carry through the policies necessary to complete recovery." The International Bank goes a step further in calling for "a degree of economic cooperation among western European countries which they have never achieved in the past," and suggesting that some kind of European union may be required. "It is time," declares the Bank, "to focus attention not on the difficulties . . . but on the necessity of overcoming such difficulties."

Neither the Bank nor the Fund is inclined to minimize the obstacles, of course, and we do not mean to either. But the obstacles to achieving the prewar level of productivity were also very great. Successful progress in one direction suggests that human ingenuity can bring equal results in other directions if it is accompanied by enough determination. All this emphasis on European self-help and mutual cooperation does not mean that the United States has entirely fulfilled its obligations or that international agencies like the Fund and the Bank cannot give further aid. Quite the contrary is true.

The import of both reports is a challenge to the European countries to take a firmer hold on the rope and pull themselves up with greater exertion. We believe that for the most part they recognize the challenge. The question now and for the future is whether all of them will act upon it with the necessary energy and resolution.

Red But Not Herring

The exchange of recriminations between Attorney General Clark and J. Parnell Thomas, chairman of the Committee on Un-American Activities, is not very helpful to the citizen who is seriously trying to determine what measures of truth may be contained in the charges that a Russian espionage cell existed among scientists engaged in the atomic bomb project. The committee's demand for the indictment of five persons said to have been involved in the conspiracy has been dismissed by Mr. Clark, and by Senator Barkley, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, as nothing more than a cheap political maneuver. In view of the committee's record and practices the imputation of partisan motives seems justified; but there is also much reason to suppose that the effort of the Administration to dismiss the whole business as of no real importance is equally disingenuous and dictated by political expediency.

As far as we are able to judge, Mr. Clark is correct in his assertion that the evidence contained in the committee's report does not suffice to establish a case upon which indictments might be based. But to say this is not to say that such a conspiracy did not exist or that it was not in part successful, as the statement of Major General Groves implied. One of the accused, Dr. John H. Chapin, a chemist, has admitted what appears to be a highly suspicious association with a person known as Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, who entered this country by way of Canada, and is identified by the committee as a Russian agent. Implicated with Dr. Chapin are another American chemist, Dr. Arthur Hiskey and his former wife, Marcia Sand Hiskey. Both Hiskeys, according to the committee, have Communist backgrounds. Chapin told the committee that Hiskey had arranged a meeting between himself and Adams, for the purpose of transmitting secret information concerning the atomic project. The meeting is said to have taken place in the Hotel Stevens in Chicago, but in the course of it Chapin, according to his own testimony, changed his mind about divulging what he knew. Whether he had really any information of importance to divulge is not clear from the report; but his story gains a certain strength from the fact that Adams has now disappeared, and is thought to be in Russia and that Hiskey, when summoned before the committee, declined to give relevant testimony on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

The fifth person whose indictment was demanded by the committee is Steve Mesarosch, known also as Steve Nelson, a veteran of the International Brigade, a former associate of Earl Browder and at one time a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party. Nelson is said to have copied down a formula shown to him by a nuclear scientist employed in the project and designated in the report as Scientist X, but subsequently identified as Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg, formerly of the University of California radiation laboratory. Nelson, it appears, was at times under surveillance—whether by the counterintelligence or the FBI the committee does not indicate; anyway a few days after his meeting with "Scientist X" he was shadowed as he proceeded to a rendezvous in a San Francisco park with Peter Ivanov, Soviet vice consul in that city. A few days after this alleged meeting a Russian, identified only as Zubilin, paid a visit to Nelson's home in San Francisco and was observed in the act of giving him money. Nelson when brought before the committee refused to answer questions for the now familiar reason; "Scientiest X" is said to have denied all acquaintance with Nelson.

The source of the committee's information on these mysterious and alarming matters is not here stated. Thus it is obvious that it does not constitute the sort of evidence upon which any grand jury acting under the usual procedure could be asked to indict. At the same time, it cannot be dismissed from public consideration merely because of its fantastic character. Meanwhile, it should be observed that these cases differ in two important aspects from those which resulted from the investigation by the Canadian Royal Commission. First, there is apparently no key witness such as the Canadians possessed in the person of Lieut. Igor Gouzenko, the fugitive code clerk of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, nor any such documentary evidence as Gouzenko was able to provide from his files. Second, the Canadian investigation and prosecutions were possible only after a complete suspension of civil liberties during the period of arrests and interrogations. Even so, the Canadian government was not able to obtain the conviction of all the arrested suspects of whose guilt the investigating commission was fully satisfied.

Forward Steps

Following immediately after the court ruling in Atlanta on equalization of salaries for white and Negro school teachers has come another judicial decision of equal importance. A Federal Court in Oklahoma has declared that the State acted unconstitutionally in barring a Negro applicant from the State university when it provides no similar facilities to which he could turn. The court did not hold the Oklahoma segregation law unconstitutional in toto, but merely ordered the State to amend the law so that it does not prevent Negro access to educational facilities when equal facilities for Negroes are not provided. The court necessarily followed the Supreme Court's doctrine that segregation does not mean inequality.

The important aspect of the ruling is that it, like the Atlanta decision, takes another step forward. All three judges of the Federal court are Oklahomans, and we think they are to be applauded both at home and in Yankeeland for this demonstration that the South is moving away from the old tradition of keeping its Negro citizens in a strictly inferior as well as separate status.

Dewey's Foreign Policy

The forces that are working to break down American foreign policy will find no word of comfort in Governor Dewey's Salt Lake City address. In effect the Republican candidate gave full indorsement to the Democratic President's policy, with only the addition of a few points of his own and increased emphasis on the positive waging of peace. While he might reasonably have been critical of some aspects of the Administration's record, Mr. Dewey merely commented that it serves no purpose to review concessions made in the past. It is the future with which the whole Nation is concerned, and Mr. Dewey has assumed a statesmanlike attitude in directing attention only to what needs to be done from this point forward.

Nor can it be said that he has taken a hostile attitude toward the Soviet Union. Mr. Dewey made it unquestionably plain that the increased drive he promises to put behind American foreign policy would be directed toward peace and not war. World War II came, he says, echoing Mr. Churchill and many other historians, because the peace-loving nations did not prepare vigorously to prevent it. Aggression could have been stopped if the free peoples of the earth had been willing to mobilize and bring together greater strength than the aggressors possessed. The real hope of today lies in the fact that the democratic nations are more keenly aware of the price they must continue to pay for freedom than they were in the thirties. It is an especially happy circumstance that the leaders of both the major parties seeking control of the Government in this most powerful of the free nations are keenly alive to this essential requirement of an effective foreign policy.

There is a question, of course, as to whether Mr. Dewey's idealism has run too far ahead of the resources that can reasonably be placed at the disposal of world recovery. He made a rather sweeping pledge of help to "freedom-loving people everywhere" and especially singled out China as a victim of "tragic neglect" on the part of the United States. The difficulty with such broad extension of a sound policy is, of course, the flimsiness of the foundation on which we should be building in China and the danger of overtaxing our own economy with detrimental consequences to the entire free world. Mr. Dewey's chief emphasis, however, is clearly on unstinted support to the United Nations and continuation of the present recovery program with the object of creating in Europe a powerful union of democracies that will be able to protect themselves against totalitarian aggression. He is earnestly committed to a pooling of strength among the Western powers for the maintenance of both freedom and peace. This is the most significant fact that is likely to emerge from the presidential campaign.

No. 1 Problem

Control of atomic energy is the first item on the agenda of the General Assembly—for the second time. In London at the first part of the Assembly's first session it also occupied the top spot. The very first resolution passed by the Assembly set up a commission to "deal with the problems raised by the discovery of atomic energy." It was unanimously approved, and one of the chief delegates declared: "This is the first important act of the joint efforts of the United Nations to secure peace and security in the world . . . Let this noble move achieve a fine and complete success." His name was Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

The same Vishinsky spoke yesterday in quite a different vein. One would never suspect from the vigor of his attacks on the control plan worked out by the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission that his government had ever been otherwise disposed. He is now seeking to convey the impression that the Russians have an atomic bomb. That is, of course, possible. But it seems to us improbable. A more reasonable assumption is that Moscow is trying to high pressure the Western powers into agreeing to its ridiculous scheme of separate national control of atomic power.

While the attitude of the Kremlin toward atomic energy control appears to have changed, the appearance is deceptive. At no time have the representatives of the Soviet or its satellite in the commission shown a desire to achieve the "fine and complete success" of which Mr. Vishinsky spoke. They have hardly tried to understand, much less support, the proposals advanced by the United States and approved by the other members of the commission. Instead, they have indulged in wild charges of bad faith, ulterior intent, and the like against the United States and its representatives. The only affirmative Russian proposal has been that we should destroy our bombs and atomic plants first and then talk about some vague and ineffective type of control.

The Russian position, as Mr. Vishinsky made crystal clear, is still the same. The Soviet Union does not want control of this weapon at the price of real internationalization of atomic power. This would involve the entry of inspectors and the international ownership of facilities within Soviet (as well as American) territory. It would be an "infringement" on sovereignty that the Russians do not care to tolerate. The result so far as the General Assembly is concerned cannot very well be more than another resolution in which the great majority of nations approve of the commission's plan of control. But in atomic energy control, majority support is not enough. If it is to be put into operation at all it must be universal.

Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

Atomic Facts

Most of our press and radio propagandists for months have been all hot and bothered about the alleged efforts to steal our "atomic energy secrets," for the benefit of the Russians.

The current issue of a widely circulated magazine contains answers to a series of questions put to a man who probably knows more about atomic energy than any man alive, Albert Einstein. One question was, "Do you believe that Russia has the secret of the atomic bomb?"

The reply: "There are no such secrets!"

What then, are the spy scares all about, if not a very smelly "red herring?" It certainly is notable that not a single commentator has exposed his audience to the fact that no real atomic scientist believes that there are "secrets" which could be stolen. Isn't it about time we in America begin to face some of the major and more obvious facts of economic and political life? J. J. LALLA.

High School Cadets

The present High School Cadet Corps is geared to war as it was in the days of the Minute Man, and even high school boys have the intelligence to see how dumb it is to spend many, many hours practicing squads right.

The component parts of modern warfare are healthy bodies, skilled hands and technically trained minds, both for men and women. Therefore, it would be simple common sense to have all students, both boys and girls, have:

(1) Compulsory calisthenics every day (instead of participating in athletics from the bleachers or warmers' benches). It would be a terrible mistake to substitute squads right for athletics.

(2) Compulsory and complete training and equipment for every student for health development.

(3) Compulsory preprofessional training in one major and one minor trade or profession, which means shops in every high school, and more laboratories. Only one third of the manpower of World War II was occupied in combat, and we lost thousands of lives and dollars because of lack of skilled workers behind the combat troops.

(4) A reasonable amount of time should be devoted to combat training, riflery, etc. This should be compulsory, so that in time of sudden emergency we should have freshly trained men, in large numbers, to put into action, immediately.

If the above were followed, there would be no need for the inadequate, costly universal military training proposal.

The fact the cadet uniform inspires boys to wash behind the ears is desirable, but of secondary importance. Uniforms should not be required and competitions should be abolished. Preparation to defend our country is serious business, not a fancy dress parade. If boys were made to understand this, they wouldn't have to be coaxed to take part in it! I. M.

Unfair Tax

I wonder if the District Commissioners are aware how exquisitely the personal property tax is adjusted to penalize unfortunate suffering from the housing shortage.

With the normal $1000 household exemption, the tax is moderate enough until one loses his apartment or house. Expenses pyramid. Unless fortunate, the tenant is obliged to take furnished quarters at much higher rent. Next he must pay warehouse storage on his furniture. Finally he finds to his dismay that he must pay full tax on his stored effects (with no $1000 exemption).

My own experiences illustrates a refinement in this injustice. I lived happily in a modest Washington apartment until I entered the service in 1942 and stored my furniture. As a buck private, I promptly and for the first time was charged full personal property tax.

Returning to civil life four years later, I was of course unable to get back my old apartment. Eventually I found a sorry substitute. Last June 25 I was evicted so that the building could be converted into higher rental units. I was forced to store my effects and sublease furnished quarters for a few weeks while seeking a new home. I was lucky to find an apartment before September 1, but the tax clerk informs me that the temporary status of my furniture in storage July 1 determines my tax bill for the year.

My advice to veterans: When evicted, leave your furniture in the gutter until July 2.

Alexandria's Neglect

I wonder if John R. Wilkins' letter published September 28 would have been so incensed if he had known that the George Washington fire engine he saw in Alexandria, desecrated in a garland of rubbish, was not the original. The original was sold for junk long ago but eventually wound up in a Baltimore museum.

Many an Alexandrian's face must be a reddish-glow knowing this, particularly in view of their bicentennial next year, but then there are so many neglected spots in Alexandria. The Ramsay house, oldest in the city, was gutted by fire over a year ago. The empty Hunt Club where Washington and Jefferson raced their thoroughbreds is lost in a jumble of row houses, gas stations and super-markets. The grand old Carlyle house is almost completely enclosed by a nondescript pile. Gadsby's Tavern is in a state of preservation, but you wouldn't enjoy going through it!

There is a group in Alexandria unsuccessfully striving to attract prizes of industry such as the fertilizer plant, but completely oblivious of their "Acre of Diamonds," their unique historic heritage.

Obviously Alexandria needs a Rockefeller to show, as was done in Williamsburg, that it is also practical to have a love for the historic. RUSSELL BORIS

National Security Council

Mr. Sumner Welles expressed concern in your issue of September 28, in his article entitled, "Military Emphasis — Foreign Policy Under the Brass," that the National Security Council is dominated by the military element of the United States. He deplores the fact that the Security Council controls our foreign policy and implies that the civil viewpoint on foreign policy is being subordinated to that of the armed services.

From such an implication one must infer that as a rule the civilian viewpoint with respect to foreign policy is at variance with that of the military. Mr. Welles puts this conclusion baldly when he says that, "The military concept of foreign policy is necessarily based upon the use of force." He rules out of the military mind any notion of other factors such as the influence of ideas, emotion or the interplay of economic relations.

Now just what is the National Security Council, what manner of persons compose it and what is the reason for its existence? The answers to these questions are quite necessary in order that the public may judge the validity of Mr. Welles' contentions.

The National Security Council was established by Congress in Public Law 253—Eightieth Congress, short title, National Security Act of 1947. It is composed of the President of the United States (Mr. Welles omitted this significant fact), the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board.

Every member of the Council is a civilian, except that perhaps Mr. Marshall might be termed a quasi-civilian. This group of the highest civilian public servants of our Nation is responsible for assessing and appraising the objectives, commitments and risks of the United States in relation to our actual and potential military power; considering policies on matters of common interest to the departments and agencies of the Government concerned with the national security; and making recommendations to the President in connection with both of the foregoing matters.

Mr. Welles reasons that the council reaches its decisions from a military standpoint because the majority of the Council are drawn from the military departments. He contends that in this situation the four civilian Secretaries of the military departments are under obligation to place military considerations first.

Mr. Welles obviously overlooks the simple fact that the first consideration of every United States citizen, particularly those charged with the responsibilities of high office, is the interest of the United States of America. Is it reasonable to suppose that men of the caliber now responsible for the military phase of our national security will consider themselves so obligated to their individual offices as to subordinate the interests of the United States to that office? I think not.

The reason for the existence of the National Security Council is given by Mr. Welles himself when he says, "In the world of today our foreign policy cannot succeed unless it is backed by power." The National Security Council was established for the purpose of assuring availability of power to back up our foreign policy, and conversely, of refraining from committing ourselves to a foreign policy which we are not prepared to back up. In the words of the report of the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments on the National Security Act of 1947 (Report No. 961):

"It is the belief of the committee that the bill if enacted into law will help insure the coordination of our domestic, foreign and military policies upon an informed basis; that it will facilitate the integration of all our military services and their unified strategic direction and command; that it will assist in taking full advantage of our resources of personnel, materials, scientific research, and development; that it will preserve the integrity and more fully exploit the capabilities of all components of ground, sea, and air forces; that all of this can and should be accomplished under traditional American civilian direction and control."

Mr. Welles expresses hope that should Governor Dewey be elected he will restore the control of foreign policy to the civil authorities designated by the Constitution. This would involve a minimum of effort because it is there now—in the person of the President of the United States.

Calling Washington

Strange Ritual

ABOARD the Truman Train.—Nothing in the world is remotely like the atmosphere on one of these transcontinental campaign caravans. It is a perpetual public affairs forum, a gossipy small-town sewing circle, a traveling rodeo, the mixture being unique and completely and unmistakably American.

The mixture on the Truman train is especially rich and flavorful of all past campaigns. As the underdog, the President is battling morning, early morning, noon and late into the night to carry the campaign into the camp of the enemy.

In the last two cars, occupied by the President, his family and the secretarial staff, they are proud of rigors endured and weary, dusty miles covered. At Eufaula, Okla., the President made what was computed to be his hundredth speech of this trip, which must surely be some kind of record.

The troupers in the rear cars take pride in reports they have received from the Dewey train of the relaxed, easy campaign which the rival caravan is said to be making. Why, the newcomer on the Truman train is told, that Dewey crowd doesn't even begin until 10 o'clock. The morning is counted lost when the President has not made four or five talks by that hour.

It is hard, gruelling work for almost everyone concerned. The No. 1 burden falls naturally on the President himself. Doggedly, determinedly, he grinds away. Sometimes he stumbles over the words of his written text. Sometimes his voice breaks, but he plows along, an earnest man doing what he conceives to be his duty.

THE STRAIN is great, yet the President endures it without visible signs of impairment. He has told several rear-platform audiences that he intends to live to be a hundred.

Mrs. Truman and Margaret go through a set routine of being introduced at almost every appearance. Throughout the day and late into the night they must make themselves agreeable to a constant procession of politicians and politicians' wives who get on and off at each stop.

The endurance test for the secretarial staff is almost as great as for the President, except the aides do not have to appear before the public. Often, however, they must work through the night after the President has finally signed off.

The grind is equally hard for most of the reporters, and especially the press association men, who must report everything that happens around the clock. On this gruelling assignment they pound out copy while riding in open cars and buses in parades to and from the fair grounds or the stadium. As the President is an unpredictable campaigner, likely to drop a chance remark that would make big headlines at any moment, they can rarely relax.

Of sheer physical punishment I should say that the Pullman porters on the train take a greater share than anyone else; not even excluding the President. In the uproar of coming and going, of typewriters pounding and meals served at odd hours, they get almost no sleep at all.

THE INEVITABLE question in view of the expenditure of such prodigious energy, to say nothing of the money cost, is whether any concrete, tangible result is produced by this strange ritual, or is it merely a kind of ceremony like the rain-making rites of certain Indian tribes, which we solemnly and wearily go through every four years?

In the view of such experts as James A. Farley no votes are changed in the last four or five weeks of a campaign. Poll-Taker Elmo Roper is of the same opinion, and he decided two weeks ago that it was futile to take any more presidential polls since the outcome was a foregone conclusion. The President for a variety of reasons cannot accept that view. He has said repeatedly to the politicians greeting him along the way:

"It wasn't so long ago that Harry Truman was the only person who believed I could be re-elected President of the United States."

This is spoken in a brisk, confident manner and the listener is left with the implication that millions now have been converted. Whether they have or have not, it is impossible to say.

The kind of homely campaigning the President has done in Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky and West Virginia at the very least establishes him as a friendly, plain-spoken American who earnestly wants their votes. My guess, and it is just that, would be that he is slowly improving his position, partly perhaps because of the sympathy that goes to an underdog fighting hard to meet the challenge of a supremely self-confident young veteran.

When that is said, it must be put against the fact that President Truman's stock just prior to the Democratic convention was at bottom. Yet, as he also reminds his visitors, he has always been lucky in politics and the Truman stock is a wildest stock subject to extreme fluctuations.

Cost Of Milk

By Mark Sullivan

How Federal Price-Fixing Works

THIS is about milk, the price of it. Milk is drunk by practically everybody, it is eaten as cheese or butter or ice cream. But of the tens of millions who buy milk, hardly one in a thousand knows who fixes the price he must pay. Housewives resent recent raises in price, but do not know whom to complain to or about, hence do not know how to make their complaints effective.

Sullivan

The price of milk is fixed by the Government. It is done directly and specifically, in terms of cents and fractions of a cent per pound or chart. The price is fixed by direct Government decree, not merely supported by Government purchases as in the case of potatoes and other farm products. As to milk, the Government says what the price shall be, and that's all there is to it. The price is officially decreed by what are called "Federal orders," signed by the Secretary of Agriculture. A typical one is entitled:

"FEDERAL MILK ORDER
NO. 4
for the
GREATER BOSTON MARKETING AREA"

The order is long, 45 pages. Shorn of legal phraseology and technical terms about grades of milk and the like, the essence of the order, as it bears on the housewife, is in these words:

"The Class 1 price shall not be less than $4.77 per hundredweight for the month of August, 1947, and shall not be less than $5.21 per hundredweight for each of the months of September through December, 1947."

FOR THE issuance of a Federal order there is a procedure; it is illustrated in a typical recent case in the Philadelphia milk area. The procedure began with application by milk producers for an increase in price, and a hearing. Upon this the Department of Agriculture fixed a date for a public hearing, at which representatives of the milk producers stated their case for a raise in price. Thereupon the department made a tentative decision increasing the price, officially described as an amendment to an already existing Federal order. Following this, the department conducted a referendum by mail. A letter sent out by the department said: "About 9000 producers . . . are eligible to vote in the referendum."

The amendment, that is, the raise in price, "was approved by producers in a referendum," thus a statement sent out from the department put it. The statement continued: "Following this producer approval the order . . . was signed by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan."

By this the price of milk, Class 1, in the Philadelphia market was fixed, as stated by one of the documents in the case, at $5.90 per hundredweight . . . for August through September, 1948; and $6.30 per hundredweight for October through December, 1948."

THE PRICE fixed by Federal orders is the price to producers, in terms of pounds. A pound is close to half a quart, and the price paid producers per quart is close to 13 cents. After the addition of the cost of distribution and delivery to consumers, the price of milk to them ranges above 20 cents a quart. An analysis by a New York City official of milk prices in 25 leading cities of the United States finds the average to be 21.3 cents a quart.

Knowledge of the process by which the price of milk is fixed will show to consumers who is responsible for the price, and to whom complaint should be directed. In New York City, protest by milk dealers against a recent raise in price was appriately directed to the Department of Agriculture and to President Truman.

But the ultimate objective of complaints by consumers is Congress. The authority of the Department of Agriculture to fix prices of milk is embedded in law, the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1937. The Secretary of Agriculture is guided and limited by this act. In the Philadelphia case, one of the statements from the department cited the necessity of conforming to the policy of the act: "The amendment would be issued if the Secretary of Agriculture finds that it is approved by two thirds of the producers, and that it is necessary to effectuate the policy of the act."

One Nation Makes Mockery Of U. N., Gov. Warren Says

By The Associated Press

Gov. Earl Warren said at Philadelphia last night that "one nation has been making a mockery of the United Nations" but that he did not believe a third world war to be inevitable "in the foreseeable future."

Speaking in the city where he was nominated three months ago, the No. 2 GOP candidate did not name Russia specifically but left no doubt of what country he was speaking.

He offered a formula for world peace of "patience and courage."

He declared he was convinced that "if the American people persevere in their determination to have collective security through the United Nations we can make it an effective instrument for world peace."

Speaking before a Republican rally in the Broadwood Auditorium, Warren defended the legislative record of the 80th Congress by implication.

The Truman Administration, he said, "loses itself in a series of contradictions.

"What it denounces one day, it advocates the next.

"It approves legislation by signing it and at the same time publicly condemns it.

"Many of the major bills passed by the Congress and signed in the last year were accompanied by a presidential statement either viewing the bill with alarm or attacking the purposes of those who passed it. . . .

"Why not sign the bills that are good and veto the bills that are bad? That is just exactly what Tom Dewey will do when he becomes President."

Senator Alben W. Barkley said at Pittsburgh last night "the quickest way to bring on communism in this country" would be to return to conditions that existed in 1933.

In a speech at a party rally the Democratic vice preisdential nominee said "the political strategists of the Community Party in this campaign are seeking with an intensity known only to the Communists to defeat Harry S. Truman and all liberals who do not bend the knee to Moscow."

Henry Wallace opened an intensive week of California campaigning last night with an attack on film companies and the House Un-American Activities Committee.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a $12.50 per plate dinner at fashionable Ciro's Restaurant, the Progressive Party candidate for President said:

It is difficult to make pictures with integrity and sales appeal, especially for foreign markets, if the film industry is to "submit to the intellectual standards of films set up" by the House committee:

Movie profits are "still very high" despite a "relatively sharp decline." The industry may be using this decline to avoid paying higher wages.

The industry has failed in some of its efforts to "grab and monopolize" foreign markets but will try again, producing ill will abroad;

The studios ought not to portray Fifth Avenue, New York, as the symbol of America.

In the South, States' Rights Democrats won an easy chance at Georgia's presidential ballot yesterday but they lost, temporarily at least, the advantage of a listing as regular Democrats in Louisiana.

A special Georgia legislative session completed action on an election reform bill opening the presidential ballot to all candidates except Communists. The action was unanimous.

Georgia voters thus will get a free hand, but there is no guarantee that their choice will receive the State's 12 electoral votes. Dominant legislative forces of Governor-nominee Herman Talmadge refused to pledge presidential electors to vote for their party nominees.

In Baton Rouge, La., a district judge temporarily restrained the Louisiana Secretary of State from listing States' Rights Democratic nominees as regular Democrats. Hearing on a permanent order was set for October 6.

Rep Douglas Rejects Wallaceite Indorsement

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (AP).—Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas spurned the indorsement of Henry Wallace's Progressive Party today.

"I did not seek the indorsement of the third party and do not desire it. My differences with the third party are well known. I strongly support the Marshall Plan and believe that the present Russian attitude is a threat to world peace."

The Progressive Party turned its back on its own candidate, Sidney Moore, to push Mrs. Douglas' reelection to a third term from the Fourteenth California District.

Baltimore Hears Warren Tonight

Baltimore, Oct. 1 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren of California will move into Baltimore late tomorrow for a campaign address in his swing South.

The Republican vice presidential nominee indicated the fast pace he maintained through New England was telling, for he requested local party leaders to schedule no appearances other than his planned spech tomorrow night.

Crowning of Queen, Pageant End La Plata Festival Today

Miss Mary Virginia Matthews, daughter of W. Bruce Matthews, United States marshal for the District, will be crowned Queen Nicotina XIV today as the Charles County Silver Jubilee Fair, La Plata, Md., winds up a three-day program.

The crown will be placed on Miss Matthews pretty brow by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina at 2 p. m.

The ceremony will be followed by a tobacco festival pageant, "Port Tobacco Flames," and a 15-minute speech by Thurmond.

Other events slated for today include the judging of purebred beef cattle, and the awarding of prize money.

The record number of high-grade cattle sent to La Plata for the fair was seen by experts as indicating the raising of such stock now ranks second only to tobacco in the region.

Dewey Takes Stiffer Stand Against Reds in Wyoming Talk

son's international record that has damaged his reelection chances. It's mostly the fact that he "cancels out" in the Senate the votes of a popular Democratic figure here—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney—and one other circumstance.

Opposes Big Vote Getter

Running against Robertson is Gov. Lester C. Hunt, one of the best Democratic vote getters in the recent history of the State. Hunt was reelected Governor in 1946 in the face of the Republican congressional landslide. The courts have just ruled that he can retain the Governor's office while running for Robertson's Senate seat.

There are more angles in this Senate race than in most. One is the curious fact that a Republican secretary of state will succeed Hunt as Governor if he goes to the Senate, and a lot of Democratic State jobholders are cold to the switch.

Another issue cutting two ways is the Taft-Hartley Act. Robertson voted for the new labor law and Hunt has declared flatly for its repeal. Wyoming is predominantly a stock-raising and farm State but in a close election labor often holds the balance of power.

The mine and railroad vote is heavily concentrated in Sweetwater County which Dewey, with Robertson in tow, stumped from the rear platform today. Robertson figures he can get reelected if he can hold Hunt's majority in Sweetwater County to 2000 or less, in a State that normally casts only 80,000 votes.

The rancher-Senator has refused to attack Hunt in the campaign. Instead he is making a personal contact campaign, working every main street from one end to the other.

Taking a tip from Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.), he's also making a postal-card campaign. He jots down the name of every voter he meets and later sends him a card in his own longhand.

Sign Causes Alarm

The Taft-Hartley Act wasn't mentioned by Dewey or Robertson during the swing through the Wyoming labor sector. Never on this tour has the Governor said how or whether he would revise the law.

The Wyoming crowds were all friendly, but at one stop the words "Stop Dewey" on a railroad tie caused some consternation. It turned out to be only a railroad man's marker for Dewey's train to pull up.

At Rawlings, 150 pounds of antelope, drawn and butchered, was handed over the rear rail as a present to the Governor. The chef, not certain that he knew how to cook it, went into consultation with "experts" Senator Robertson and Representative Arrett.

To the large track-side crowds, Governor Dewey drew on the speeches he has already made, promising a competent administration that understands the "inner nature" of world problems and a foreign policy that will be "strong and firm and fair with no more wobbling."

Would Expose Communists

In outlining his formula for dealing with communism tonight, he again promised there will be no "thought police" or "police-state methods."

"There are better methods," he said. "Those who are enemies of our system will be known and will be exposed . . . We will keep the Communists everlastingly out in the open, in the light of day."

To cope with inflation and high prices, he again pledged "simple and obvious steps" to increase rather than discourage production.

Then he itemized the GOP's proposed anti-inflation program—cuts in Government spending, restraints on bank credit for speculative or nonproductive purposes, expansion in the sale of savings bonds and other forms of private savings, retirement of the national debt and incentive tax revision to stimulate production and thirft.

"One of the first things we are going to do," he again promised, "is to get rid of those still on the Federal payroll who use inside information to speculate in commodities—to speculative in human misery."

Court Due to Rule Next Week On Montgomery Charter Vote

Montgomery County voters are expected to learn on Tuesday or Wednesday whether they will be permitted to vote on the proposed "home rule" charter in the November 2 election.

Attorneys for both sides in the bitter legal fight over the charter's constitutionality will begin final argument before the Maryland Court of Appeals at Annapolis on Tuesday.

David E. Betts, attorney representing Hubert A. Schneider, who filed the suit which claimed the charter is unconstitutional, said yesterday he expects by Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning a final ruling on whether the issue will be placed before the voters.

The case was carried to the Appeals Court by Schneider, a Bethesda lawyer, after Montgomery County Circuit Court ruled a clause of the charter documents was unconstitutional but denied Schneider's request to keep it from being submitted to popular vote.

A contention by Schneider that the charter is unconstitutional because it specifies that the fiscal budget shall be adopted in June instead of May each year as specified by law was upheld by County Circuit Court.

Betts said yesterday he was satisfied with the local court decree but the case was appealed in an effort to keep the charter from being voted on in November.

Under the charter, the present five-man Board of County Commissioners would be replaced by a seven-member council empowered to enact all local laws and issue bonds. At present, the commissioners must go to the Maryland General Assembly for major legislation and authority to issue bonds.

Truman Fears GOP Slump

ord of my party and of the Eightieth Congress.'

"Just elect a man who has said: 'The Eightieth Congress delivered as no other Congress ever did for the future of the country.'

"Apparently he will be glad to deliver a lot more of the same kind of blows you got from the Eightieth Congress. But bigger blows—and more of them."

Mr. Truman excoriated the record of what he has been calling "a do-nothing, good-for-nothing" Congress. He also went back to the pre-New Deal days, and pictured "the Hoovervilles and soup kitchens," the army of unemployed and the war veterans peddling apples.

"Today," he said, "signs of prosperity are all over the country. Farm production is greater than it ever was. Industrial production is greater than it ever was. Everybody who wants a job can get one.

Recovery Credited to Party

"The leaders of the Republican Party would like you to believe that the country just drifted into the great depression, and that it just drifted out again into prosperity.

"They would like you to believe that the Democratic New Deal had nothing to do with recovery—and that the Republicans had nothing to do with the Hoover panic.

"That is not true and the people know it is not true."

Traveling across Kentucky, home State of Senator Alben W. Barkley, his running mate, Mr. Truman drew crowds far larger than local politicians had expected.

The President was delighted, and showed it in his rear-platform talks. Once, in Moorehead, Ky., he said:

"There must be something sweet about me because there's a honey bee buzzing around the microphone . . . Kentucky has been mighty sweet to me, too."

Talking to a crowd in Lexington, heart of the hoss and bourbon country, he likened himself to the great thoroughbred, Citation.

"I'm trying to do in politics what Citation has done in the horse races," he said.

He virtually acknowledged that he was now trailing Governor Dewey.

"You know," he said, "it doesn't matter which horse is ahead at any given moment. It's the horse that comes out ahead at the finish that counts."

In other words, he expected to come from behind and cross the finish line ahead of Governor Dewey on November 2.

Grandfather Wed There

Arriving in Shelbyville, he charmed the crowd with a story about his grandfather. It was not the grandpa he told about in Salt Lake City, but the one on the paternal side.

"My grandfather Truman," he said, "ran off with Mary Jane Holmes and was married in Shelbyville and lived on an adjoining farm out here west of town.

"And about three or four years after that, why his father-in-law sent for him to come home; he wanted to see his first grandchild.

"That settled things and they got together."

He said that his Granfather Young and Grandmother Young also lived around Shelbyville.

"My grandmother was the youngest of 13 children, and they lived out here on the farm between here and Louisville. The house sat half in Jefferson County and half in Shelby County, and when my grandmother's brother—she was raised by her oldest brother—didn't want to serve on the jury in Jefferson County, he would move over to Shelby County. And when he didn't want to serve in Shelby County, he moved to Jefferson—he was very conveniently fixed."

Margaret Foil for Joke

Introducing his daughter, Margaret, to the crowd, the President grinned and said.

"I'm sure you all know my daughter, Margaret. Several years ago, she came down here to look up the records to see whether my grandparents were legally married."

Everybody laughed—the President, those in the crowd, and the reporters.

A little later, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross came into the press car and, in response to a query, said: "Of course, you know the President was speaking facetiously."

Gallup Poll

Political Gap Between Farm And City Is Being Reduced

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 1.—Analysis of the latest polls on presidential preferences reveal that the large difference between the political sentiment expressed by farm and the big-city vote has been greatly reduced.

During the Roosevelt term of office a wide variation developed. Farmers shifted sharply away from the Democrats between 1940 and 1944, while voters in large urban centers continued to vote overwhelmingly Democratic.

Today, political forces are working in the opposite direction. Now it is the metropolitan areas, as a whole, that reveal a strong defection from the Democratic Party while rural areas remain more of less stable. Thus the gap between the two is closing.

But in the Nation's largest cities the Democrats would today probably still hold an advantage over the Dewey-Warren ticket if it were not for the strength of Henry Wallace in those centers.

These trends come to light upon studying the Institute's latest national figures which showed Governor Dewey in the lead with 46½ per cent of the popular vote, Truman 39 per cent; Wallace 3½ per cent; Thurmond 2 per cent, and with 9 per cent of the voters still undecided.

When the national vote with "no opinion" eliminated is broken down by city size, this is the resulting picture:

BY CITY SIZE

Size of town	Dewey	Truman	Wallace	Thurmond
500,000 or more	47%	41%	12%	*
10,000 to 500,000	51	43	4	2
Under 10,000	52	43	3	2
Farm residents	50	44	2	4

* Less than 1 per cent

The following table compares the proportion of the popular vote currently supporting Governor Dewey with the Republican percentage of the major party vote in the last three presidential elections:

BY CITY SIZE
(Per Cent Republican)

Size of town	1936	1940	1944	TODAY
500,000 or more	29%	39%	39%	47%
10,000 to 500,000	39	46	46	51
Under 10,000	39	48	51	52
Farm residents	41	46	52	50

A COMPELLING demonstration of the drawing power which Franklin D. Roosevelt held over big city voters can be seen in the voting record of the 91 cities that in 1940 had a population of more than 100,000 people.

In none of his four elections did Roosevelt receive less than 60 per cent of the votes cast in these 91 cities with a total population of 37 million. In 1936 the Democratic percentage of the major party vote in these cities reached 69.5 per cent.

In the last election 83 of these cities went Democratic and 8 went Republican. Largest of the Republican cities was Cincinnati and the only one on the Eastern seaboard captured by the GOP was Yonkers, N. Y.

Rivals Assailed By Thurmond

ite old Southern songs. When Thurmond appeared on the platform, he was met by a 45-second standing ovation. Several of the audience waved small Confederate flags. He told the group:

"In their traitorous bids for political power, the three candidates—Dewey, Truman and Wallace—have all indorsed force bills which they falsely call 'civil rights'."

He charged the bills had opened the doors to communism and to some form of "total State" in this country. He charged the civil rights program was being used by the Democratic, Republican and Progressive Parties as a cheap bid for the support of minorities.

Declaring that personal freedom could be protected only by guaranteeing the rights of the States, Governor Thurmond declared:

"Politicians who, by stupidity or by desire, would turn us aside from the great American dream, are for the moment in control. In an effort to buy the Presidency of the United States, they have devised a vote-getting program which hides the most viscious assault upon a representative government ever launched in this country. They have seen that doctrine indorsed by the three Philadelphia conventions, by their candidates.

"But in that mad scramble for political power, dishonest bargaining of the three politicians did not go unnoticed. There are thousands of good Democrats in the Southern States who recognized the treachery of their false leaders, and who were not afraid to denounce them. Their message of democracy is spreading like wildfire to millions of good Americans in every corner of the Nation.

"And with their loyal support, we hereby put those three politicians on notice: American democracy cannot be bartered away like piece goods, and the Presidency of the United States is not for sale!"

Governor Thurmond said that the "greedy bosses of three political parties repudiate the rights of the States in making cheap bids for the votes of the minority faction which promises them the election."

Then turning to the Truman campaign, Governor Thurmond said his party is determined to cast out "the evil forces that seized control" in the National Democratic Party.

He charged that the antipoll-tax bill would "open wide the door to the control of your ballot boxes by a dictator." He said the anti-lynch bill would lead to a centralization of police power that is "the certain road to tyranny and oppression." He said that plans for eliminating racial segregation were "the most dangerous threat ever held over the heads of Americans." He declared that the proposal has endangered "the morale of the armed forces which protect us."

Thurmond charged that the FEPC plan—for fair employment practices—would be made to order for Communistic use. He said "It is very evident that the Communists could use the FEPC to spread a network of spies throughout America. By claiming their so-called rights under this law, they could force their agents and saboteurs in every tool and die room, in every machine shop and every industrial laboratory, atomic or otherwise, in America."

Va. Democrats Plan Vote Drive

Richmond, Va., Oct. 1 (AP).—State Democratic campaign headquarters will be opened here next week to get out the party vote for the November election, Chairman G Alvin Massenburg disclosed today.

He completed arrangements for three rooms in Hotel Richmond, a floor above headquarters of the States Rights Democrats who are trying to swing the party vote behind the presidential candidacy of Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

Net of C. & P. Leaps 50% in Eight Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday reported net income for the first eight months this year surged 50 per cent higher than in the same period last year. August net more than tripled last year's figure.

Principal factor in the earnings jump was the expenditure of $10,653,008 in the past year for plant expansion. This enabled the company to serve an additional 41,093 telephones. Another big help was a rate increase granted by the Public Utilities Commisson.

For the 12 months ended August 31, C. & P.'s return on $98,080,483 investment was 3.52 per cent as compared with 3.31 per cent in the previous 12 months on $87,427,475 investment.

Net income for the first eight months this year totaled $2,571,958, against $1,705,523 in the same 1947 period. Operating revenues of $22,254,423 compared with $19,501,784 in the same perod last year. Operating expenses rose to $17,205,961 from $15,945,042.

For August, net was $336,252 against $109,186 in the like 1947 month.

Number of telephones in service here expanded to 436,645 at the end of August, as compared with 434,007 at the end of July and 395,552 at the end of August, 1947.

CREDIT SURGE: Instalment sales increased 225 million dollars in August, totaling, $7,553,000,000 owed as of September 1. The Federal Reserve Board said the aggregate marks an all-time high. The big upswing was recorded three weeks before the FRB reimposed stiffer controls on time buying. New restrictions generally require larger down payments and shorter repayment periods for automobiles and a dozen other items, including refrigerators, washing machines, radios, furniture, etc.

School Bond Plan Seen Hiking Taxes

A proposed $4,750,000 bond issue for Arlington school construction would boost the county tax rate about 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, County Treasurer John Locke Green believes.

He made the statement in a letter to Oscar R. LeBeau, one of the founders and former president of the Citizens Committee for School Improvement.

Green's figures differed with those submitted last week by Barnard Joy, Arlington School Board chairman, who had estimated the bond issue would raise the tax rate by about 24 cents.

Again last week, H. H. Miller, the financial adviser to the Arlington County Board, had estimated that for each one million dollars of bonds issued, the tax rate would have to rise about 5 cents. It was on this estimate that Joy based his 24-cent figure.

According to Green's calculations, the school tax income this year will be "roughly two million dollars." Interest on $1,776,000 in school construction bonds already authorized, and on the proposed $4,750,000, "will be over $200,000 alone," Green said, or 10 per cent of the total school income.

Another 15 or 20 per cent would be needed to amortize and retire the bonds, "making a total of 25 or 30 per cent of the total school income going to retire this bonded indebtedness."

This would mean, Green declared, that taxes "will have to be increased at least 25 per cent just for school purposes alone"—or an increase of the present $3.25 per $100 tax levy to "at least $4."

FBI Class Told of Job Against Reds

Fifty-four members of the FBI National Academy graduating class yesterday were reminded of responsibilities they bear in efforts to combat communism.

The class, which included a member of the Arlington County police department and a member of the Montgomery County force, was addressed in the Departmental Auditorium by Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Christ Church, New York, and Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University.

Dr. Sockman told the group that "a peaceful orderly and socially minded citizenry is our best defense against communism."

Wheeler Bell

Dr. Marvin declared we are confronted by a choice of a society based on individual responsibility or one dominated by the state.

Included in the class of law enforcement officers from 28 States, Puerto Rico and Hawaii were Sergt. H. Melvin Wheeler of the Montgomery County Police; Detective Walter E. Bell, jr., of the Arlington department, and Dougal Harvey Cameron of the Marine Corps here.

Diplomas were awarded by Assistant Attorney General A. Devitt Vanech.

Gen. Walker Calls For 'Peaceful World'

Yokohama, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the United States Eighth Army, called for a "peaceful world" today during memorial services marking the repatriation of the first American war dead from Japan to the United States.

"If these men could speak," he said, "they would ask for a peaceful world as their memorial."

Immediately after the ceremony the United States Army transport Dalton Victory sailed for the United States carrying the bodies of 1271 soldiers, sailors and marines.

Two Brothers Vanish From Falls Church

Area police yesterday were notified to look for two missing brothers, both employes of the Holland Construction Co. of Tulsa, Okla., which is laying a new gas main in the Falls Church, Va., vicinity.

The brothers, Kenneth E. and Ledger Wood left their rented cabins on Route 211 near Falls Church about 6 p. m. Thursday night to visit Washington, their wives who also are living in the cabins, told Falls Church police.

They have not been heard from since. Police said there was a possibility of foul play in their disappearance, since the two men together carried about $500 on their persons.

The men, both tractor operators for the construction company, left for Washington in their 1940 Ford two-door sedan with Oklahoma license tags 1-42123.

Kenneth Wood was described as 29 years of age, about 5 feet 11 inches tall and 156 pounds, with dark brown hair, blue eyes, wearing gray pants, cowboy boots, a blue shirt, and no hat.

His brother, Ledger, was described as 23 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and 150 pounds, with dark curly hair, brown eyes, wearing light tan colored pants, white shirt, and a light tan sport jacket.

West Germany Asks Halt in Dismantling

Rudesheim, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP).—West Germany's leaders voted today to appeal to the Western Allies for a temporary halt in the dismantling of German industry.

They decided to make their first direct appeal since the war to the governments in Washington, London and Paris after the Allied military governors told them the dismantling was over their heads.

Jewish New Year Services Arranged

The blast of the ram's horn at sundown Sunday will call Jews throughout the world to worship, as Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, begins.

According to the Hebrew calendar, the year 5709 will start then.

Rosh Hashonah ushers in a 10-day period of prayers, meditation, and repentance which ends with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which will begin at sunset October 12 and end at sunset October 13.

New Year services in orthodox and conservative synagogues will be held on Monday and Tuesday, in addition to Sunday evening. In reform temples the holiday will end at sundown Monday.

Arrangements for the observance of the high holy days by members of the armed forces and hospitalized patients of the Jewish faith have been made by the Washington area office of the Jewish Welfare Board, 1637 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Wherever possible in the Military District of Washington and the Potomac River Naval Command, passes will be issued to permit visits to home communities. Servicemen and women remaining in the area and patients able to travel will be welcomed at services in the Greater Washington area.

Lieut. Col. Henry Tavel of the Office of the Chief of Chaplains, Department of the Army, will conduct services under auspices of the Montgomery County Jewish Community at Sligo Seventh Day Adventist Church, Flower and Carroll aves., Takoma Park, Md.

At St. Elizabeths Hospital, services will be conducted by Rabbi Hirsch Z. Glickman. Besides visitations will be made at Walter Reed, Mount Alto, the Soldiers Home and St. Elizabeths.

Constitution Hall Service

High Holy Day services of the Washington Hebrew Congregation will be held in Constitution Hall, where an ark, especially constructed to harmonize with the interior of Constitution Hall, will contain the scrolls of the temple.

These services will be at 8 p. m. Sunday and at 10:30 a. m. Monday. Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld will officiate, assisted by Rabbi Hugo B. Schiff.

Beth Sholom Congregation, 8th and Shepherd sts. nw., will begin its Rosh Hashonah service at 6 p. m. Sunday. Rabbi Harry J. Kaufman will preach, and Cantor Solomon Katz, assisted by the Beth Sholom Choir, will chant the services. Services Monday and Tuesday will begin at 7:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.

At B'nai Israel Synagogue, 14th and Emerson sts. nw., services will begin at 5:30 p. m. Sunday. Rabbi Henry Segal will speak before the beginning of services. On Monday and Tuesday mornings services in the main synagogue and the overflow auditorium will begin at 7:30 a. m.

Agudath Achim Congregation will conduct services at the synagogue, 909 Quackenbos st. nw., at 6 p. m. Sunday and at 8 a. m. Monday and Tuesday. Rabbit Herman J. Waldman and Cantor Jacob Schneider will be assisted by David Weinberg and Benjamin F. Pollack.

Rabbi Ephriam S. Greenberg will officiate at Rosh Hashonah services of Congregation Beth Israel, 4008 Minnesota ave. ne., at sundown Sunday. Services Monday and Tuesday mornings will be at 8:30 a. m.

The Washington Highlands Jewish Center will hold High Holy Day services in its new building, 140 Xenia st. sw. beginning at 5:15 p. m. October 3. Services Monday and Tuesday will begin at 8 a. m.

The Arlington Jewish Center also will hold services in its new building, 2920 Lee blvd. Rabbi Ira Sud will conduct the services, which are at 5:30 p. m. Sunday and 9 a. m Monday and Tuesday.

The Northeast Hebrew Congregation will hold High Holy Day services in the Sherwood Presbyterian Church, 22d st. and Rhode Island ave. ne. Rabbi Samuel H. Berkowitz, director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at George Washington University, will conduct the services, which are at 7 p. m. Sunday and Monday evenings and 8 a. m. Monday and Tuesday mornings.

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz will conduct the service at Adas Israel Congregation, 600 I st. nw., at 6 p. m. Sunday and on Monday and Tuesday at 9 a. m.

By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

HANDING DOWN THE RITUAL — Mendel Finn, 85, of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, 1125 Spring rd. nw., explains the ritual of Rosh Hashonah to 5-year-old Stephen Reichlyn, 223 24th st. ne., a student at the Hebrew Academy of Washington. Stephen rests his hand on the prayer book as Finn tells him about the shofar, or ram's horn, which will be blown at sundown Sunday to signal the beginning of the Jewish New Year.

Rev. Racey Ends 40 Years In Pulpit

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 1 (Spl).—The Rev. C. J. Racey, pastor of Berkeley Place Evangelical United Brethren Church, was retired this week by action of the denominational conference.

Mr. Racey and his wife, the Rev. Rachel Racey, left here yesterday to make their home in East Rainelle, W. Va., Theoretically he was to have retired in 1941, but the need for pastors during the war years resulted in his staying at the parish here.

The retired clergyman said yesterday that he had served 12 circuits and two stations before coming here, where he has served the circuit for 14 years. During his forty years in the ministry, he said, he has had 2050 conversions, performed 350 marriages and 348 funerals.

Rev. C. J. Racey

Rev. Rachel Racey

Mrs. Racey was a home missionary in the coal fields of West Virginia before coming here. It was her job to organize parishes and fill the pulpit until a minister was assigned.

Mr. Racey recalled that while serving a pastorate in Elk Garden, W. Va., he was riding horseback through a blinding snowstorm after conducting a funeral. The forse stumbled into a 4-foot snow drift. By following a fence through the storm he reached the home of a neighbor, but his face, fingers and toes had been frozen.

Hyattsville Reception For Archbishop O'Boyle

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will be honored at a reception at 7 p. m. October 3 in St. Jerome's School auditorium, Hyattsville, Md.

The reception is sponsored by Court Prince Georges No. 1340, Catholic Daughters of America, and Prince Georges Council No. 2809, Knights of Columbus.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Dr. Peter R. Joshua, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Aurora, Ill., will speak at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. at Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church, Randolph and New Hampshire ave. nw.

Dr. Joshua

A graduate of Cambridge University and Cardiff Theological Seminary in England, Dr. Joshua came to the United States in 1923. Wallace church has been without a permanent pastor since Dr. C. E. Hawthorne resigned in August to accept a pastorate in Iowa.

About 150 officers and teachers will be installed at dedication services at Congress Heights Baptist Church, Esther and Brothers pl. se. At 11 a. m. the Sunday school officers and teachers will be installed, and at 8 p. m. those of the Training Union will take office.

Spaulding Council 417, Knights of Columbus, will inaugurate its Golden Jubilee year by receiving Holy Communion in a body at 8 a. m. at St. Patrick's Church, 10th and G sts. nw. The Rev. Simon Quigg, chaplain of the council, will celebrate the mass.

Following the mass, breakfast will be served at O'Donnell's restaurant, 1221 E st. nw. Edward M. Curran, associate judge of the D. C. Court, will be the speaker.

"The Predicament of Modern Man" will be the sermon topic of Dr. Alfred W. Hurst at 11 a. m. at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3408 Lowell st. nw.

Resumption of fall activities at Transfiguration Episcopal Church, 1415 Gallatin st. nw., will be marked at services at 8 and 11 a. m. Sunday. Church school will be held at 9:30 a. m.

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, will speak at an all-university religious service opening the fall quarter of the academic year at 11 a. m. in Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel.

D. C. Churches Join in World Communion

Churches in Washington will unite with those around the globe in marking World-Wide Communion Day Sunday.

During the past week many ministers have sent special notices to parishioners announcing the day, and asking that every member who is able join in the services.

In a letter to members of Epiphany Episcopal Church, 1317 G st. nw., the Rev. Richard Williams, associate rector said: "All those of the Christian family are asked to come together on the same day to thank God for His gift to us of His Son, through whom we know God, to ask that by the power of the Holy Spirit we be shown what we should do for ourselves and our fellow men, and finally to reaffirm our faith that only God can make us as individuals and a Church effective in helping our confused world."

Dr. C. C. Hung, pastor of the Chinese Community Church, 1011 L st. nw., announced the day with these words: "A broken bread for a broken world whereby will be gained an unbroken fellowship."

Holy Communion will be observed at morning and evening services at Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 1700 N. Capitol st. At 11 a. m. Dr. I. S. Ernest will speak on "Bread for a Hungry World."

Dr. Edward O. Clark will speak on "A Uniting Church in a Divided World" at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw., at the special communion day service at 11 a. m.

Mount Zion Methodist Church 2902 O st. nw., will mark the day at 11 a. m. and the Rev. D. Foy will speak on great texts of the Bible. The service at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle, will begin at 10:50 a. m., and the Rev. Myron W. Chrisman, associate minister, will speak on the subject "Is God Divided Too?"

"Christian Martydom—1948" is the theme to be used by the Rev. Hubert Beckwith at 11 a. m. at the communion service at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw. The day will be observed at 9 a. m. and 11 a. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, Rhode Island ave. and North Capitol sts., when the Rev. Paul L. Reaser gives a meditation entitled "The Tie That Binds."

At Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw., the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris will speak on "The World-wide Feast of Love" at 11 a. m. and "Christ for the World" at 8 p. m. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at both services and at 9 a. m. in Ball Memorial Chapel.

Catholic Hour Opens With Parable Series

Gov. Youngdahl To Fill Pulpit of Brother-in-Law

Minnesota's Governor Luther Youngdahl will step into the Washington pulpit of his brother-in-law October 10 and will also speak at a mass meeting at Constitution Hall that day.

Youngdahl will speak on "Making Christianity Work" at 9:30 and 11 a. m. at Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hampshire and V sts. nw. His appearance will be part of an all-day member pair of services planned by the pastor of Augustana, the Rev. Clarence T. Nelson. Mr. Nelson's wife is Youngdahl's sister.

Later the same day he will speak at a mass meeting marking the sixty-fourth anniversary of the Central Union Mission at Constitution Hall at 3 p. m. Music at the mass meeting will be furnished by an evangelistic trio of Homer Rodeheaver, Ruth Rodeheaver Thomas and B. D. Ackley and the children's choirs of Calvary Baptist Church.

Church to Open Bethesda Library

The opening of St. John's Episcopal Church Library, Wisconsin ave. and Bradley lane., Bethesda, will be marked with a tea and book exhibit Sunday from 4 to 6 p. m.

The library is housed in the office wing of the church. It will contain books of reference for church school teachers, works on church history, comparative religion, religious poetry and novels with a religious background.

Secretary Named By Fellowship

Miss Joan Williams, formerly of Philadelphia, has been named executive secretary of the Interchurch Fellowship of Washington. The group, which has offices at 1751 N st. nw., is planning an expanded intercultural and interracial program for the coming year.

Miss Williams is a graduate of Carleton College and Northwestern University and has been a national field worker for the Women's International League. She also was a staff member of Philadelphia's Fellowship House.

Colmar Manor Church To Keep Anniversary

Wilson Avenue Baptist Church, 3610 41st ave., Colmar Manor, Md., will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with two special services Sunday.

At 11 a. m. the Rev. Frank Brasington, superintendent of missions for the District of Columbia Baptist Convention, will be the preacher, and at 7:30 p. m. the Rev. M. Chandler Stith, executive secretary of the of the D. C. Baptist Convention, will speak. Open house and tour of the church will follow the evening service.

A course of instructions on the parables of Christ will open the Washington Catholic Radio Hour over WWDC at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

General theme for the 1948-9 season is "Christ and Christianity in Action." The Washington Catholic Hour, now in its nineteenth season, is directed by the Rev. Joseph E. Gedra, and is under the auspices of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 8th and N sts. nw.

During October the Very Rev. Francis J. Connell, professor of moral theology, Catholic University, will speak on "Christ and Christianity in Action in the Founding of His Church."

His topics for the five Sundays will be "The Birth of the Church," "The Life of the Church," "The Power of the Church," "The Treasures of the Church," and "The Voice of the Church."

Father Connell, who came to Washington 10 years ago, is rector of Holy Redeemer College. Music for the October 3 broadcast will be furnished by the Immaculate Conception Church choir under the direction of Mrs. Louis Lehrfeld. Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard will be the organist.

Augustana Church To Hold Rally For World Relief

A rally for Lutheran World Relief will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday at Augustana Lutheran Church, New Hampshire ave. and V st. nw.

Representatives of 35 Lutheran churches in the Greater Washington area will attend the meeting and hear details of a city-wide drive last year more than 12 tons of goods were collected.

This year the committee, which is headed by the Rev. Donald F. Bautz, executive director of the Lutheran Inner Mission Society, has set its goal at double last year's effort. The four-week campaign begins Sunday and will continue through Reformation Sunday, October 31. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will speak at the rally.

Indigent Care

D. C. Hospital Pay System Ready Soon

Contracts between the District and nine hospitals to reimburse them for emergency care of indigents are "nearly completed," it was disclosed yesterday.

The contracts are "in final stage of redrafting," District Corporation Council Vernon E. West said, in answer to pleas of several hospital administrators. The hospitals seek payment for services since July 1, starting date of the repayment arrangement.

West said much of the delay was due to difference of opinions over clauses in a preliminary draft made earlier in the summer. Chief obstacle, he reported was interpretation of what constitutes an "indigent."

Congress authorized an appropriation of $733,000 to pay the institutions beginning July 1 at the rate of $9 for each day of bed care and $2 for each clinic visit. The repayments, apportioned on a quarterly basis, will be made monthly as soon as the contracts are signed, said Henry S. Gravens, Health Department budget officer.

Holy Rosary Church To Celebrate Feast

The patronal feast of the Queen of the Most Holy Rosary will be observed at Holy Rosary Church, 3d and F sts. nw., with a solemn high mass at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

The Right Rev. Msgr. Anthony Samore, counselor of the Apostolic Delegation, will celebrate the mass and deliver the sermon. At 4 p. m. there will be a Holy Rosary procession followed by solemn benediction.

Bishop Hughes to Speak

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes will speak at homecoming day services of the Fellowship Class at 11 a. m. Sunday at Chevy Chase Methodist Church, 9 Shepherd st., Chevy Chase.

Finest Roses To Be Shown Over Weekend

Hundreds of the finest roses in Washington, Maryland and Virginia will be on view this weekend as the Potomac Rose Society opens its annual show in the foyer of the New National Museum, 10th st. and Constitution ave. nw.

Blackistone

More than 50 trophies will be awarded at ceremonies concluding the show Sunday at 7 p. m. A new annual challenge trophy, contributed by the family of Z. D. Blackistone, Washington florist, will be awarded to the Washington Area Garden Club whose members amass the highest point score total. The trophy honors Blackistone's fiftieth anniversary in the florist business.

Two new classes will be open to this year's exhibitors including one for naturally grown roses that have not been disbudded, and a class for roses with the longest stem.

The show is open to the public from 4 to 10 p. m. Saturday and from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sunday.

Castor Oil Classified As 'Strategic Material'

The Munitions Board yesterday gave youngsters a good argument for not taking castor oil.

The board classified castor oil as a "strategic and critical material" in national defense, and said it should be conserved.

6 Rubber Firms Face Civil Suit For $4,266,000

The Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., and the "big six" of the rubber industry were sued here yesterday for $4,266,000 and charged with illegal price fixing.

The suit, asking damages and an injunction, was filed in District Court by the National Association of Independent Tire Dealers, Inc., and 30 of its members. The individual company defendants are Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., General Tire & Rubber Co., Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Lee Rubber & Tire Corp, and United States Rubber Corp.

The dealers claim they lost $1,422,000 between June 1, 1947 and July 31, 1948. The suit asks treble damages.

6192-Mile Flight For Truculent Turtle

The Navy disclosed yesterday that its famed Truculent Turtle will attempt a non-stop, 6192-mile flight to Santiago, Chile, today.

The PS-V, patrol bomber, which holds the world distance record of 11,236 miles, will take off at the Naval Air Station, Patuxent, Md. It will be fueled for an 8000-mile flight to allow for bad weather.

The Turtle is carrying Rear Adm. O. B. Hardison, chief of Pan-American Affairs and U. S. Naval Missions, on an annual inspection tour of naval missions in South America.

Slump Shows In District's Used Car Deals

Deflation (strange as that word may seem) has crept into Washington's used car market.

Since this date last month, used car lot listings in even the "low-priced" automobile field have dropped $100 to $300.

Dealers are making sharp cutbacks in their inventories, and starting to wonder which of them will be in business this time next year. However, late models are still well over "list" prices.

Part of this is a "normal" seasonal trend; some of it is due to a drying-up of the used car market at existing prices, and a good portion of it results from recently effective restrictions on the installment buying, local dealers said yesterday.

Similar slumps in prices and volume of purchases recently have been reported in most cities across the country. Carl Marker, secretary-treasurer of the National Used Car Dealers Association, recently predicted that within a year one fifth of the Nation's used car dealers would be out of operation.

One Washington dealer yesterday commented that a big factor in the slump was that "a lot of people were buying cars when they really could not afford them, and just barely making the payments—knowing that if they got hard pressed, they could 'unload,' and still show a profit, as long as prices were still going up."

Girard College Alumni Chapter Meets Today

The National City Chapter of the Girard College alumni will meet at 1 p. m. today (October 2) in the Washington Elks Clubhouse, 919 H st. nw., it was announced yesterday.

Frank B. Steele, secretary-general of the Sons of the American Revolution will speak about his organization. A report will be made on the acceptance of honorary membership in the alumni by President Truman.

Girard College, the "boystown" of Philadelphia, has educated more than 15,000 fatherless youngsters since it was founded in 1848.

Civilian Pilots to Aid With Berlin Airlift

America's airline pilots are about to take a hand in the aerial supplying of Berlin, it was learned yesterday.

Under a Government-industry mutual aid deal worked out between the Air Force and the airlines, pilots and copilots who normally would be laid off by their companies during the slack-traffic winter months, will be offered temporary jobs in Operations Vittles. All the airmen either are Air Force or Navy Reserve officers, and will be recalled to active duty and assigned to the Berlin Airlift Task Force, directed by Maj. Gen. William H. Tunner.

Traffic Safety Drive Is Launched Here

Head Slumped

Man Draws 7 Charges in 2-Block Ride

Joseph Lewis, 23, of 620 M st. nw., broke about every traffic rule in the book, police said, when his head slumped to the steering wheel of the car he was driving yesterday in the 100 block of New York ave. nw.

Police said Lewis, a little the worse for drink, stole a car from a New York ave. parking lot at about 4:30 p. m.

In quick succession, during a ride from the 1100 to 1300 blocks of New York ave., police said he:

1. Ran through a red light.
2. Grazed a cab operated by Denard R. Thomas of 6408 61st pl. Riverdale, Md.
3. Caromed into a parked car owned by Mrs. Lillian S. Brown, 43, of 121 Primrose st., Chevy Chase, Md.
4. Bounced into a sedan in which two unidentified servicemen were riding.
5. Ran headlong into a streetcar operated by Curtis C. Gibson, 38, of Landover, Md.

No one was injured but police estimated property damage at more than $500.

Police charged Lewis with unauthorized use of a vehicle (the auto he took, they said, belonged to Mrs. Anna M. Groffinger of 1575 Spring pl. nw.), leaving after colliding, passing a red light, driving on the wrong side of the street, having no District permit, drunken driving and disorderly conduct.

The first charge requires bond. The other six counts call for collateral totaling $895.

In another accident at about 5 p. m. at Rhode Island ave. and Franklin st. ne., a pickup truck driven by Frank W. Swink, 36, of 35 Calverton pl. sw., an instructor at the National Training School for Boys, collided with a bicycle ridden by Vernon Jackson, 14, of 1265 Hamlin st. ne.

The boy was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a compound fracture of the left leg.

Washington yesterday moved to cut the toll of traffic deaths and disabilities with the launching of "Operation Safety" the city's first month-to-month safety education campaign.

Between 20 and 30 civic, business and fraternal organizations are expected to formulate plans soon for participation in the project.

John Russell Young, on behalf of the District Board of Commissioners, enthusiastically commended the program as it was opened by its sponsors, the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board.

"Operation Safety promises substantial expansion of the effort that has given the District a position of national leadership in traffic safety education," Young said.

Charles Burton, chairman of the Junior Board of Commerce Traffic Committee, pledged full cooperation of the committee which will map ways of furthering the campaign at a meeting October 12.

The theme for the campaign's inaugural month, "Look Out When It's Dark Out," is emphasized in the Junior Board's traffic safety billboard on 14th st., near New York ave. nw.

The Traffic Advisory Board is currently studying a plan advanced by K. C. McCloskey of the Capital Transit Co. to enlist in the campaign drivers of public utilities, taxis and transportation fleets.

Tall Cedars Plan Ceremony Tonight In Silver Spring

The first full-dress ceremonial of Montgomery Forest No. 134, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, will take place at 8 o'clock tonight in the Silver Spring Armory.

Lodges from the District, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania with their uniformed bands will parade to the armory, beginning at 7 p. m., from Jesup Blair Park, led by Supreme Tall Cedar Herman Willaredt and other national officers. The parade will proceed along Georgia ave. and Colesville rd. to Fenton st., to Wayne ave. to the armory.

The Silver Spring Boys Band will be among the uniformed units, with candidates for initiation in Montgomery Forest. Refreshments will be served after the armory ceremonies.

Blood Donated For Alexandria Hospital Cases

Alexandria Hospital announced yesterday that through cooperation of the American Red Cross the hospital now can supply blood free to patients.

Van C. Adams, administrator, said the blood will be furnished by the Red Cross, which has embarked on a Nation-wide campaign to obtain blood from volunteer donors.

Adams said blood derivatives will be provided without cost but there will be a charge for administration and laboratory services. Previously, the hospital said, persons needing blood either paid for it or furnished a donor to replace the blood they received.

Half of Snyder Estate Goes to Wife's Mother

One-half of the $40.000 estate left by the late Ross H. Synder, Washington attorney, will go to his wife's mother, Mrs. Margaret R. Russell, who lives in a Silver Spring rest home.

Remainder of the estate under terms of a Montgomery County Circuit Court decree will be divided among seven brothers and sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Synder who, with a foster daughter, Jane Ann, 12, were shot to death at Darnestown, Md., November 23, 1946.

An adopted son, Robert, 16, is now serving a life term in Maryland penitentiary for the triple slaying.

The decree was issued after a court proceeding was unable to determine the order of death of Mr. and Mrs. Synder and their daughter. All three were blasted almost simultaneously with a shotgun.

Kaiser's Son Demands Return of Crown Jewels

Berlin, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Prince Ferdinand of Schoenaich-Carolath, youngest son of the late Kaiser Wilhelm, has written President Truman demanding the return of two million dollars in crown jewels allegedly held by American authorities at Frankfurt, the Soviet-licensed ADN news agency reported today.

The jewels were the center of a sensational investigation in June, 1947, when they disappeared from a Berlin hiding place. Prince Ferdinand claims they never were returned to him, ADN said.

House to Probe Charge Of N. Y. Labor Violence

Chairman Fred A. Hartley, jr. (R., N. J.) said yesterday that his House Labor Committee will investigate charges that violence has been committed in the New York garment industry in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Hartley said Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) will be one member of a subcommittee that will make the investigation. Two Republicans will be appointed to serve with Klein, he said.

Guard to Be Trained In Air Operations

The National Guard, which must be ready for quick action in event of war, is to study airborne operations.

The Army said yesterday that key National Guard officers would take courses at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., during October, on how to go fighting by air. Combined Army-Navy-Air-Marine demonstrations and training are being conducted at the base.

About 60 National Guard officers will attend the courses.

Aga Khan Undergoes Operation in Paris

Paris, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—The Aga Khan, 71, fabulously wealthy spiritual leader of the Ismaili Moslems, underwent a prostate operation at an American hospital last night, his aides announced today.

A spokesman for the Aga Khan said his condition is "very satisfactory."

Separation Agreed Upon

New York, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—Band Leader Artie Shaw and his sixth wife, Kathleen Winsor, have agreed to a peaceful separation and the pretty author of "Forever Amber" probably will seek an uncontested divorce, their attorneys announced today.

MORE LIKE A VACATION—Gary Gray, the youngster who shares the leads of "Rachel and the Stranger," at Keith's, with Loretta Young, William Holden and Robert Mitchum, finds that working in the movies can be fun

Dupont Theater Leased to Lopert, Film Importer

The Dupont Theater has been leased by its owners and present management to a syndicate headed by Ilya Lopert, the New York foreign film importer, The Washington Post learned last night. The change in management will take place November 1.

The theater, in the Dupont Building, Connecticut ave. at Dupont circle, has been operated since it opened last winter by the building's owner, J. Daniel Weitzman, who maintains control of the building.

One term of the lease specifies that the theater continue its policy of nondiscrimination.

Parent Group Wants Playground Available to All

The Consolidated Parent Group, claiming a membership of 2000, yesterday petitioned the Recreation Board to open up the white Rosedale Playground for joint use by white and Negro residents.

In a five-page letter to the board, the group asked that playground centers be assigned to communities following the pattern of the postal zone system without regard to color. The group also requested a hearing before the board.

President of the Consolidated Parent Group is Gardner L. Bishop, who last year headed a group of parents who kept their children out of school for a month at the Negro Browne Junior High School in protest to the transfer of two white elementary schools, the Blow and Webb, as annexes to Browne.

Divorce Won by Wife Of W. Overholser, Jr.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 1 (AP).—Mrs. Marye-Louise Whedon Overholser today won a divorce from Wilfred Overholser, jr., son of the superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, Washington, D. C.

She was given custody of a son, Winifred 3d, and $50 a month for his support. She charged extreme mental cruelty.

They were married July 10, 1947, in Prince Frederick, Md.

Order Asked Against Five Movie Firms

By The Associated Press

The Justice Department asked yesterday five major motion picture producers and distributors be required to get rid of their interests in some 1400 movie houses scattered across the country.

The department suggested disposal of these interests be completed within one year.

The proposal was outlined in a notice to attorneys for Paramount, Loew's, RKO, Warner Brothers and Twentieth Century-Fox. The notice covered the form of final judgment which the department will ask the Federal District Court of New York City to enter in connection with the 10 years of antitrust litigation involving the companies.

The Supreme Court last June upheld much of the Government's complaint that many of the practices of the last several years in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures violated the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The high court affirmed a lower court injunction against such things as price-fixing, and block-booking of motion pictures, but sent the case back to the district court for the shaping of a final judgment of the Government's proposal for divorcing various branches of the industry.

Quarter Century Club to Hold Dinner Tonight

The Quarter Century Club of the Capital Transit Co. will hold its third anniversary dinner at the Mayflower Hotel tonight.

The membership of 889 who have had 25 or more years of service with the transit company are to attend the meeting to swap tales of the old horse-car and cable-car days and to induct 21 new members.

Fourteen members have 50 years or more of service. Two of these members are still active with the company and will be present at the dinner.

One on the Aisle—

Barter Reaches D. C. Outskirts

By Richard L. Coe

THE WHEAT AND THE CHAFF—The rumor that the new buck-seventy-five Capital Transit passes will admit you to any theater in town is completely unfounded; no truth in it whatever . . . Speaking of traveling, the Barter Theater still is unable to find a home in the District . . . A deal has been worked out, though, whereby the Virginia theater will be playing at Arlington Farms next Thursday night at 8:30, thanks to arrangements by the Agriculture Department Welfare Association and the Washington Art Center . . . The Barter's made a special price deal for Government employes and residents of Arlington Farms, where the auditorium seats a thousand . . . A few seats to the play, "The Pursuit of Happiness," are available at Mrs. Stabler's Ticket Mart, 1616 K st., and at Lubar's, 1300 G . . . The Agriculture outfit, coordinated by Charles H. Cunningham, is hoping that the Barter's first appearance will assure a Thanksgiving performance and a view of the Barter's "Hamlet" in the spring . . . It's a good try, but as we've asked so many times in the past, what sort of a National Capital is this that doesn't have a stage for live actors?

THE BARTER also will be doing "The Pursuit of Happiness" the next night, Friday, at 8, as a benefit for the University Park Women's Club in the Hyattsville Elementary School . . . Tickets for the Hyattsville evening at UNion 0667.

IMPRESSIVE hillbilly hoopla tonight at Constitution Hall, where they've got, if you can believe it, a double-bill hillbilly buy . . . The CBS net will be airing "Home Town Reunion," with Eddy Arnold, the Duke of Paducah and the Oklahoma Wranglers . . . Second slice of the double billy will be Connie B. Gay's "Gay Time," with Grandpa Jones and Clyde Moody, with television picking up the latter . . . Tickets at the Willard or Clyde Moody record shops.

ALSO SHOOTING the television works is Sunday night's ambitious star lineup for "Dinner at Eight." . . . This is the Actors Equity show for Philco Playhouse and will star Peggy Wood, Dennis King, Mary Boland, Vicki Cummings, Philip Loeb, Royal Beal, Joyce Van Patten and Jane Seymour, who was out at Olney last summer . . . This column generally gives the video news the goby, but since it's Actors Equity, it's theater, okay?

AL JOLSON'S songs in "Rose of Washington Square" account for the Columbia's reissue . . . It's a long day today for the Capitol Theater, with "The Luck of the Irish" starting things off at 9:50 this ayem . . . Look for one of those sneak previews at the Palace Monday night; along with "Luxury Liner" you'll get a surprise feature, which news never fails to pack the Palace.

ROBERT E. SHERWOOD, freed at last from Government service and proof-reading "The Hopkins Papers," which Harpers is publishing, is writing, of all things, a musical show . . . He's settled down in Sutton Place to work on it and let's hope the Playwrights Company can get it on this season . . . Musicals aren't new to PC, whose second production was Maxwell Anderson's "Knickerbocker Holiday," which probably would have been a bigger hit had it come a few years later; as a movie it wasn't the same thing . . . The Playwrights Company also will be bringing the Old Vic for a USA tour this season . . . Not, of course, that the Capital of the USA will see the company.

JANE WYMAN'S arriving Wednesday for a quick look about town . . . She's in the East for the New York opening of "Johnny Belinda," in which she plays a deaf mute . . . More of Miss Wyman's schedule later . . . Also in town next week will be Hans Richter, who'll try to explain to the reviewers some aspects of "Dreams That Money Can Buy," his surrealist, if that's the word, examination of things psychotic.

LIBBY HOLMAN, whose voice is heard, by the way, in Richter's "Dreams That Money Can Buy" singing John Latouche's "The Girl With the Prefabricated Heart," will be along herself with a concert of folk songs for Productions, Inc., on Wednesday and Thursday, October 27-28, at Pierce Hall . . . More of Miss Holman's concert tour later . . . Also coming up for next week is that suavest of dance teams, Mario and Floria, bound for the Capitol stage . . . That red-headed Thomas Breen, who eyes Jane Powell in "Luxury Liner" at the Palace, was born here, but didn't stay long; he's the son of Joseph I. Breen, the production code man of the Motion Picture Association.

Indians Lose, 5 to 3, Miss Chance to Clinch Tie for Pennant; Clock Stops Hoyas on 1-Foot Line, Boston College Wins, 13-6

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

BOSTON, OCT. 1.—All of a sudden the Braves are the sentimental, if not the betting, favorites in the World Series. Folks who didn't care what happened to the Braves in the series or had no special interest in them are now poised to applaud a club that is attempting to rise above its brutal breaks.

POVICH

They've been a team of destiny all season. They weren't supposed to win the pennant after Eddie Stanky broke his ankle in mid-year but they went on to win without him. Their best outfielder, Jim Russell, came down with some kind of a mystery germ and now the Braves were reduced to just another ball club, but it didn't make any difference. They drew away.

And now this latest blow—Jeff Heath's broken ankle that takes him out of the series along with Russell. Before Heath was hurt, the Braves were operating with only four outfielders. But they're bringing up Marv Rickert from Milwaukee and converting Earl Torgesen, the first baseman, into a World Series outfielder and still saying they'll win the series.

THEY COULD BE a team of destiny all right—destined to lose four straight to the Indians or whoever wins the American League pennant. Certainly on the make-up of the Braves they don't figure to beat any A. L. champion, but the Braves have been so astounding a club all year that there is a temptation to put nothing beyond them.

Stanky's back for the series and the Braves will not lack for battle spark. The little second baseman brimming with fight takes a team along with him. The Braves otherwise may be a colorless outfit, but in Stanky they have the champion. He wasn't supposed to be a .300 hitter, but there he is hitting .322 for the 65 games he did get in this year before his ankle snapped beneath him.

And they had ice-water management. Billy Southworth, a stickler for cold routine, saw no reason to celebrate even the night the pennant was won. The Braves, following Southworth's example, merely took their showers and went home despite the feeble attempts of dressing-room visitors to whoop it up. Southworth's command that night to his ballplayers was a warning to "keep in shape."

ON THE RECORDS, the Braves figure to be slapped down easily by whoever wins the A. L. pennant. The Yankees and Red Sox, still struggling for second place, have won more games in the American League by six than the champion Braves won in the National League, a weaker league. The suspicion is that the Braves couldn't finish better than fourth in the American.

But the Braves are going into the series with a powerful pair of pitchers in Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn. They're not the blow-'em-down pair that Feller and Lemon are with the Indians, but they're big winners. Southworth, who shoulders all of his players' worries, is burdened now by Spahn's expectant fatherhood, which has affected his work in recent weeks. Bringing about the birth before the series opens is almost a goal with Southworth.

What happens to the Braves, though, when Feller and Lemon start pouring. In the National League, they've met up with nothing like that pair of right handers and with Heath out the Braves' left-handed hitting power is feeble.

YET, THE BRAVES have never lost a World Series game. True, they've been in only one previous World Series, but back in 1914 they whipped through the Athletics in four straight. That was a bigger upset than if the Braves were to knock off this year's American Leaguers in four straight. They have a proud World Series background.

There's no sign that the Braves are going to be panicked, in any event. Southworth has been in these things before. He wasn't supposed to win a pennant this year with what he had, but he took his collection of broken bodies and laughed his way in, in contrast to the death-struggle still in progress in the other league.

They'll have their rooters, even in American League towns. There is something nice about the genus fan that responds to the plight of the under dog. They like to pull for the little guys, and the Braves are the little guys in this thing that begins Wednesday.

Conn Sprints 75 Yards for Georgetown

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Georgetown, an aroused underdog, fought its heart out against Boston College at Griffith Stadium last night, but wound up on the short end of a 13-6 count—just one foot short of the B. C. goalline.

A limp crowd of 16,766 saw Babe Baranowski spark a 58-yard drive in the last five minutes that failed by barely 12 inches when Soph Bill Conn was tackled after a seven-yard advance.

Before the Hoyas could get off another play, the gun sounded.

It was third down for Georgetown.

That was the same Mr. Conn who registered the Hoyas' lone touchdown. He got loose around end late in the first period and sprinted 75 yards into the end zone.

It was a hectic ending to an exciting ball game in which Boston College, 10-point favorite at game time, took a lot more than it handed out.

After two lengthy scoring marches in the first half, the Eagles seemed to have all they could do to hold a spirited Hoya team that certainly did its best to confound the experts.

Two Drives of 71 Yards

The first B. C. scoring parade started on its 29, and the New Englanders appeared well-suited for the favorite role when they ground out 71 yards.

The important last 28 were made on a spectacular scoring play—Ed Clasby tossed a short pass to End Art Spinney, who promptly lateralled to speedy Joe Diminick. Jet Joe sprinted to the end zone unmolested. Big Ernie Stautner made the point.

Conn put Georgetown back in the game with that 75-yard payoff dash. He broke around end, shook off a few tacklers and outsped the secondary. It was sweet revenge for Billy. Two plays earlier he went 35 yards on a kickoff return only to have it nullified.

Boston retaliated after Georgetown's kickoff that was brought out by Diminick to the 29 and another 71-yard parade to the end-zone began. It ended successfully early in the second period.

Lateral Off a Forward

The Eagles used variations of their first scoring play to get their second six-pointer. On one occasion, Ed Songin passed to End Albie Gould who lateraled to Maurice Poissant for a 17-yard gain. Then the Songin-Spinney-Diminick combination on the same play gave B. C. a first down on Georgetown's 17.

Again Diminick went across, finally scoring on a 7-yard sprint around his left end.

After the game, it was a little difficult to realize there had been no scoring in the second half. There sure was enough action.

Georgetown posed several threats, none as serious as the last but all equally futile. One of its strongest was at the outset of the third period.

Johnny Hughes, who made several important gains, fumbled the kickoff on his 25 and Center Bob Chuinard recovered for B. C. But on the next play, Soph Dick Barba, not to be outdone by Conn, his New Jersey rival, picked off a Songin pass on his 17 and raced 49 yards to the B. C. 34.

Barba's Fumble Hurts

Conn and Barbara took turns carrying and soon had a first on the 22. Hughes made seven to 13 but Barba, the guy responsible for getting the Hoyas so close, fumbled going into the line. Tackle Ernie Stautner recovered for B. C. to kill the threat.

The last-quarter drive by Georgetown was sparked by the inspired play of Baranowski. Little Henry, about the coolest head among 22 hectic ball players, threw nice passes to George Be-

CONN GOES 75 YARDS — Billy Conn, Georgetown's brilliant sophomore back, breaks loose on a 75-yard touchdown run in last night's game with Boston College at Griffith Stadium. Outlaw's Hit Wins in 9th For Tigers

By Joe Reichler

Cleveland, Oct. 1 (AP).—Little Jimmy Outlaw, a .250 hitter who couldn't hold down a regular berth with Detroit, played the villain's role today as the Tigers foiled Cleveland's bid to clinch a tie for the American League flag by defeating the Indians, 5-3.

The 35-year-old utility player, who did not enter the game until the eighth inning, socked a single to center in his first time at bat, with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth inning, to drive in the winning runs.

The blow, which came off Reliefer Russ Christopher, climaxed a three-run stanza and handed Bob Lemon his 14th setback.

The defeat cut Clevelands margin over the idle Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees to one game. Each team has two games remaining. The Indians engage the Tigers here tomorrow and Sunday, while the Yankees and Red Sox oppose each other over the weekend.

The setback was a tough one for the Indians. It appeared they had the game all wraped up as they went into the top of the ninth, leading 3-2.

Lemon, making his fourth attempt to register his twenty-first triumph, did not have his usual effectiveness, but had managed to escape unscored upon in every inning except the sixth. Bob had been in trouble in the seventh and eights, but the crowd of 15,988 customers thought the worst was over when he retired Dick Wakefield on an infield pop in the eighth with runners on first and second and two out.

The fans were standing in the runaways, ready to swarm on the field as soon as Lemon retired the last three men in the ninth. They were eager to grab Manager Lou Boudreau and lift him on their shoulders.

For it was Boudreau who had driven in what appeared then to be the winning run with a double in the seventh. It was also Boudreau who had scored the tying run in the sixth.

Lemon hurled two swift strikes past the swinging Eddie Mayo, leadoff batter in the ninth. The third baseman then topped a slow, tantalizing dribbler just inside the third base line.

Lemon swooped in, scooped up the ball and flung it wildly to first. The ball hit Mayo in the back and enabled him to reach second on the infield hit and the pitcher's error.

The crowd heaved a sigh of relief when Johnny Bero, batting for George Vico, was called out on strikes. That made it two outs to go. Lemon got two strikes on Johnny Groth, another pinch-hitter, but lost him via a base on balls.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers, playing the string out to the hilt, inserted his third straight pinch-hitter, Joe Ginsberg. Lemon

Pantos Hurls 2 Touchdowns, Scores One as Central Wins

Jimmy Pantos staged a dazzling passing and running show yesterday as he paced Central's Vikings to a surprisingly easy 25-12 victory over Anacostia.

Pantos passed to two touchdowns, scored one himself and set up the other. He completed nine out of 10 passes for 213 yards. He ran the ball 14 times and gained 73 for an average of 5.2. He handled all the Vikings' punting and kicked their only extra point.

Central scored two minutes after the kickoff on a 37-yard Pantos-to-Franny Gleason pass. Anacostia's Jim Faulkner deflected the ball to Gleason. Pantos place-kicked the conversion.

Later in the opening quarter, the Vikings rolled 48 yards to the 2, where Johnny Roman smashed through center.

Faulkner gave Central another assist just before the end of the half. He got between Passer Pantos and Receiver Roman, but again deflected the ball, and Roman scored on the 47-yard play. Pantos picked up the last 6 yards of a 61-yard Central touchdown march in the third period.

Anacostia scored in the fourth period when Joe Carr, running out of punt formation, streaked 51 yards into the end zone. Carr's 10-yard pass to Tommy Holmes just before the end of the game, gave the Indians their last score.

Anacostia	0	0	0	12—12

Touchdowns: Central—Gleason, Roman (2). Pantos; Anacostia—Carr, Holmes. Extra point—Pantos.

Pick-the-Winners Football Contest Begins Next Week

The Washington Post's 1948 Pick-the-Winners football contest will begin next week.

The contest will be conducted weekly on a basis similar to the 1947 contest in which more than a quarter of a million entries were received.

The winner each week will receive two tickets to the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia, November 27, with an all-expenses-paid trip to the game for two persons. The weekly winner also will receive four (4) tickets to a major college or professional game in this area.

Contest rules and the games of October 9 on which you will pick the winners will be published in The Washington Post next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

G. W. Meets VMI Today in Home Opener

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

George Washington's Colonials make their home debut today at 2 p. m. against Virginia Military Institute at Griffith Stadium.

The plucky Colonials, with a 1-1 record, are rated an even chance against the Keydets, but they must stop the passing of V. M. I. Quarterback Bobby Thomason in order to win.

Hooking up with Thomason in the expected aerial duel is G. W.'s bright new star, Handy Andy Davis, hometown freshman fullback.

Thomason, one of the Southern Conference's most feared passers for three years, clicked on 10 out of 16 tosses in V. M. I.'s 28-0 opening game victory over Catawba last week.

He ranks fifteenth in the Nation compared to Davis' fourth ranking for two games. The blond Washingtonian has completed 12 out of 19 so far, and his 313 yards gained by passing and rushing put him in second place nationally in total yardage.

Davis was G. W.'s pacemaker in its 27-13 loss to Wake Forest and its 13-0 upset of Virginia Tech.

For the first time this season, the Colonial line will be arrayed against an opponent its own size. Both average around 194.

GW's secondary has been alerted to keep an eye on Jimmy Gill and Fritz Crytzer, Thomason's favorite pass targets. Both are seniors, 6 feet tall, and have speed and deception, once they latch onto Thamason's pitches.

Dean Denies Complaint That He Bet on Ball Games

St. Louis, Oct. 1 (AP).—Dizzy Dean said today that he was called on the carpet by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler because of a complaint that he bet on ball games and in his baseball broadcasts belittled baseball as played by some clubs this year.

The former St. Louis Cardinal pitching great, who now describes games of the St. Louis Browns, denied that he had ever bet on a ball game.

Dean said that Chandler read to him during their conference in Cincinnati last month a letter containing the charges. Dean said that Chandler did not tell him who wrote the letter.

"I sat across the desk from Chandler and he read the letter to me through and through," Dizzy said. "I don't know who wrote the letter.

"I've bet on golf and horses and cards, but never on a ball game. I have called bookmakers to ask for odds on ball games. I have done that for friends in Texas. But I never bet on a ball game."

Dean said the letter also criticized him for singing "The Wabash Cannonball" and for talking about fried chicken and ham sandwiches in his baseball broadcast.

Diz's silence which his wife said was suggested by Chandler as they left his office was broken by a published story today by a St. Louis sports writer that Richard Muckerman, owner of the Browns, made the complaint.

Muckerman denied he wrote the letter, saying "you asked me if I filed any complaint. I did not make any. I know nothing about what members of the Browns organization did."

Chandler, who could not be reached for comment, has au-

Doubleheader at Roanoke

GW, Navy, Maryland Figure In Top Area Games Today

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

George Washington's Griffith Stadium outing against Virginia Military Institute, Davis' attempt to crash the winner's circle at the expense of Cornell again and Maryland's night expedition against Delaware highlight today's area football program.

Also of interest locally will be a double-header at Roanoke, Va., pitting Virginia against VPI and Washington and Lee against Ohio University.

In Williamsburg, Va., William and Mary collides with Wake Forest in the Southern Conference's top engagement.

Navy, whose one 1947 victory was scored against Cornell in Ithaca, mix it with the lads from the Cayuga country in Baltimore's Babe Ruth Stadium.

A crowd of about 25,000 is in prospect and so is a Sailor victory, an achievement the Middies have accomplished only twice since 1946.

Playing another night game, Maryland should have an easy time crossing the Delaware goal line.

Coach George Sauer's Middies, knocked off by mighty California last week, will really take to the air against Cornell this afternoon.

Besides depending on the passing of Reaves Baysinger, jr., the Middies will be fed oxygen. "We don't try to claim any magic results for it," Sauer said, but the players and I think it helps the tired players."

Helping Quarterback Baysinger with the Middie attack will be Fullback Bill Hawkins and Halfback Al McCully and Pete Williams.

Cornell got off to a winning start last week by routing weak NYU. The Ithacans have never beaten Navy in five meetings and even the presence of rangy Bob Dean, rated one of the East's bet-

Bosox, Yanks Begin Vital Series Today

Boston, Oct. 1 (U.P.).—A miniature "World Series" gets under way at Fenway Park tomorrow with the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees joined in a battle that could bring the first triple tie for a pennant in baseball history.

With both teams trailing in the American League flag race by one game, league-leading Cleveland gave 'em a last-minute reprieve by losing in Detroit today, 5-3.

One statistician, mathematically striving to pick the probable winneer in this dizzy pennant chase, found by frantic figuring that:

If Cleveland loses its final two games while the Red Sox and Yankees split their two-game series the teams would wind up in a three-way tie.

Should that occur, Boston could become the world's baseball capital until October 12. In event of a three-cornered tie Boston and Cleveland would play a single game here, the Yankees already having drawn a bye. Should Boston win that one they'd take on the Yankees—still at Fenway Park.

Assuming they played 1.000 baseball, they'd be the American League kings, engaging their neighboring Braves in a subway series that may go seven games.

At the moment, however, the Red Sox were busy considering how to knock off the Yankees—a matter in which they have had unusual success this year both at home and abroad.

Assured of a near sell-out Saturday crowd of some 30,000 fans, aging Joe McCarthy selected genial Jack Kramer for the first rapier thrust.

The big righthander, once a slave with the St. Louis Browns, has been unbeatable against the Bronx Bombers. In four starts he has beaten them four times—the last meeting to date. His opposite Stadium which the Sox took, 7-2.

49ers Defeat Rockets, 31-14

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP).—Frankie Albert's passes, coupled with a strong running game outside the tackles, gave the San Francisco 49ers a 31-14 victory over the Chicago Rockets in Soldier Field tonight before 14,553. It was the sixth successive All-America Conference win for the 49ers, and the Rockets' fifth loss in six starts.

Tigers Slice Tribe Lead To One Game

walked the rookie catcher on five pitches to load the bases.

That was all for Bob as Boudreau frantically waved in Christopher, who had saved numerous games for the Indians, pitching out of similar situations.

In his anxiety to keep the ball low to Johnny Lipton for a possible double play, Christopher walked the Tiger shortstop on four straight pitches. That forced in Campbell to tie the score at 3-3.

Russ apparently was out of the woods when Neil Berry slapped what appeared to be a double-play ball directly to Third Baseman Ken Keltner.

Keltner fired to Jim Hegan to force Groth at the plate for the second out. Hegan then relayed to first, but Walt Judnich dropped the low throw and was charged with an error as Berry was called safe. Judnich had moved from right field after First Baseman Ed Robinson bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the sixth.

So, instead of the inning being over, the Indians still had to get that important third out. They got it, but not until Outlaw had slashed his game-winning single over Joe Gordons head into centerfield.

Berry's Error Costly

Virgil Trucks, who hurled the first eight innings for the Tigers, was credited with the victory. Art Houtteman protected it for him by retiring the Indians in order in the ninth. It was Trucks' first success over the Indians this season, and snapped their winning skein at four straight.

That ninth-inning rally by the Tigers saved Second Baseman Berry from being the goat of the contest.

He made two costly mistakes in the field. His first was a bobble of Larry Doby's potential double-play ball in the first inning setup the Indians' first run. Dale Mitchell had singled to left. Doby then hit a sharp smash directly at Berry, who in his haste to start a twin killing, fumbled the ball and all hands were safe.

The charitable official scorer ruled it a hit. Boudreau sacrificed the runner along, and Mitchell crossed the plate while Gordon was grounding out.

Doby Misjudges Ball

Held to three hits in five innings, the Tigers moved ahead with two runs in the sixth. Lemon walked Lipon and Vic Wertz was credited with a triple when Doby misjudged his line drive which rolled to the 410-foot sign in dead center. Wertz crossed the plate when the Tribe failed to convert Wakefield's grounder into a double play by a hair's breadth.

Berry's second lapse enabled the Indians to tie the score in their half of the sixth. Boudreau singled and Gordon rapped back to Trucks who attempted to start a double play. Berry dropped the ball and all hands were safe.

Plainly unnerved, Trucks walked Keltner and Judnich to force in Boudreau and leave the bases loaded. Trucks pulled out without further damage when Pinch-Hitter Hal Peck fanned and Hegan bounced into a force play.

Former Has To Survive 3-Way Photo

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 1.—Three-year-olds, who probably shiver in their stalls at the mere mention of Citation, competed in the two divisions of the Rock Creek Park, featuring the Friday program of the Maryland Jockey Club.

Despite their lack of class, the colts, fillies and geldings put up battles that held the interest of a crowd of 8000. In fact, the second division, was a matter of dispute for many minutes after the three-way photo finish.

This excitement came when L. J. Lepper's Slammuring was a neck winner over H. L. Straus' Paint and Powder, and Mrs. S. G. Steckler's Coyote.

Slammuring finished far out on the track and Jockey Carson Kirk, who rode Paint and Powder, claimed a foul against Jockey Bobbie Strange, who piloted Coyote. The two horses were head and head and tightly packed against each other through the stretch.

The stewards listened to all sides and then lighted the official sign.

Baltimore Colt Wins

Slammuring, an invader from New York, paid $8 and was clocked in 1:15 for the 6 furlongs over a track that was heavy despite a hard-working sun.

The first division of the Rock Creek went to the Bobanet Stable's Tenabob, the Baltimore-owned colt getting home a length in advance of the Golden Shoe Farm's Roman Road with G. C. Hunt's Blue Holly, third.

Jockey Henri Mora was aboard the winner, a $4.40 favorite, and got the Cohort colt home in 1:15 1/5.

In contrast to Slammuring, who came from far back to take the second division, Tenabob was in front and winging all the way.

The program developed a dead heat for the place money in the third event. Mrs. W. W. Vaughan's Need Luck won under Jockey Porter Roberts' handling but the judges and the camera could not separate W. L. Brann's Laurina and Mrs. W. B. Dietrich's She Dares at the end of the 6-furlong jaunt.

Double Pays $203.40

Need Luck was coupled in the betting with W. N. Vaughan's Light Ned, both the winning filly and the colt being trained by Royal Roberts. The entry paid $9.20 and was clcoked in a buggy-horse 1:17 2-5.

The daily duoble paid a healthy $203.40 on the 11-and-3 combination, the payoff far outdistancing a parlay on the two winners. The Jerry McCarthy Stable's Mint O'Morn took the top and led in every jump of the first race, paying $36.80, while Jockey Kirk rode G. W. Cohen's Floco home at $9 in the second.

The new track surface, although off from yesterday's rain, had a smooth undersurface. Opinion was that the moisture absorbed will help settle the strip and it should be in excellent condition when it becomes fast.

Gilmer Out Of 'Skin Game

The Washington Redskins' prize rookie, Harry Gilmer, was in Georgetown Hospital yesterday and definitely out of Sunday's clash with the New York Giants at Griffith Stadium.

The highly advertised Alabama All-America, in only six plays for the 'Skins so far, was suffering from cellulitis or, in plain language, inflammation of the right leg he injured in California training camp.

Gilmer's leg, according to team physician Dr. Robert E. Moran, was "responding nicely to treatment," but it was Moran's intention to keep the tow-headed quarterback in the hospital for at least four days. His appearance in next week's game with the Steelers in Pittsburgh was termed doubtful.

Meanwhile, the Giants, a 10-point favorite with Gilmer in shape, were due to arrive in Washington lat today with an even higher rating in pregame predictions. So far they have whipped the Boston Yankees in their only league start, and in exhibitions stopped the Chicago Bears and lost close games to Detroit and Green Bay.

Detroit Paper Reports Fight Between Newhouser, Trout

Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP).—In a Page One story, the Detroit News today gave a blow-by-blow account of a reported fist fight between Detroit Tiger Pitcher Hal Newhouser and Paul (Dizzy) Trout.

The News said the fight occurred in the Tiger dugout at Briggs Stadium Thursday during a game with the St. Louis Browns.

It started, according to the newspaper, when Trout resented a remark made by Newhouser.

Tiger Manager Steve O'Neill, in Cleveland for a game today with the Cleveland Indians, denied the report.

"There was nothing to it at all," he said. "There were no punches swung at anybody. Trout has been sick for the last few days and wasn't in uniform yesterday.

"He came down to the dugout," O'Neill continued, "and was 'kidding' Newhouser. When he pinched Hal in a kidding manner, Newhouser brushed him him off."

According to the News, the punching began when Newhouser remarked that Trout was using a cold as an easy excuse for "staying out of uniform."

Trout reportedly replied by swinging at the ace Tiger lefthander.

They were separated by O'Neill, the News said.

Denying that the exchange was more than good-natured rough-housing, O'Neill said, "They've been kidding each other that way all season, and I don't see any reason to get excited about it this time."

Newhouser and Trout were not available for comment.

Browns Win, 4-0; Chisox Counter, 3-2

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP).—Blanked 4-0 on Cliff Fannin's three-hit pitching in the opener, the Chicago White Sox came back with a 3-2 decision in the nightcap to divide a twi-night double-header with the St. Louis Browns here tonight before a small gathering of 2090 fans.

Eastern High Rolls Over Coolidge, 20 to 6

Wilson Crushed by Western, 28-0

Eastern High School won its first victory in the interhigh campaign yesterday, beating winless Coolidge, 20-6, at Eastern.

The victory wasn't certain for Eastern until late in the fourth period when Jack Janezeck recovered Chuckie Davis' fumble for the Rambler on their own 12-yard line. On the next play Buddy Durand went over the Coolidge left tackle for 88 yards and the score.

Eastern scored in the first quarter on a pass from Dominic Adriani to End Joe Viqueria. Bernie Shipley's kick was good.

Later on in the same period the Ramblers ran their lead to 13-0 when Richie Hite went through the center of the Colt line for 40 yards. Shipley's kick was blocked by Jimmy Austin.

The Colts narrowed the margin early in the final stanza. Paul Allen fell on Ray DiGiovanni's fumble on the Eastern 21. Walter Krukowski scooted end for 10 yards and the score.

Coolidge	0	0	0	6—6

Touchdowns: Coolidge—Krukowski; Eastern—Viqueria, Durand, Hite. Extra points: Eastern—Shipley (2).

Western Lands 28-0 Haymaker on Wilson

With its powerful T-formation running game clicking perfectly, Western High School scored once in every period yesterday to shellack Wilson, 28-0, in an Interhigh game at Central Stadium.

Dale Larsen, Western right half scored twice, once on a 54-yard scamper off left tackle early in the fourth period. His first touch down came a few minutes earlier, near the end of the third period, on a one-yard buck through the middle.

Big Wade Hubbard, operating from both left half and his usual quarterback spot, opened the scoring after five minutes of play had elapsed. Hubbard capped a 40-yard drive with a 25-yard run along the sideline after cutting through his left tackle.

Dale Summerbell, who turned in a fine quarterbacking job until Hubbard took over in the third period, scored the other touchdown, a 1-yard

Touchdowns—Hubbard, Summerbell, Larsen (2). Extra points—Summerbell (4).

Montgomery Wins

Striking for three touchdowns in the second period and another in the third quarter, Richard-Montgomery High of Rockville trimmed Herndon, 25-6, yesterday.

Upton Grant plunged over center for the first score and Buddy Briscoe, Paul Violette and Jimmy Moneymaker followed. Briscoe went 30 yards for his touchdown while Moneymaker and Violette ran 40 yards for theirs.

Jimmy Thompson raced 40 yards for the only Herndon score.

Herndon	0	0	0	6—6
Rich. Mont	0	19	6	0—25

Landon Wins, 13-6

Landon scored once by air and once by land to defeat Baltimore Friends, 13-6, in their Interstate Athletic Conference grid opener yesterday at Landon.

Dick Stoeber tallied for Landon in the first period on a 10-yard end run. Win Foster passed 40 yards to Jim Miller in the third quarter for the second Landon touchdown. Stoeber bucked over for the extra point.

Dizzy Denies Complaint He Bet on Games

thority over baseball broadcasting at the parks because he is empowered to do anything he deems best for the game.

The agreement under which Chandler operates says:

"In the case of conduct detrimental to baseball by organizations not parties to this agreement, or by individuals not connected with any of the parties hereto, the commission may pursue appropriate legal remedies, advocate remedial legislation and take such other steps as he may deem necessary and proper in the interest of the morale of the players and the honor of the game."

Broadcasters are permitted to visit player benches, the clubhouses and mingle freely with the athletes and the managers. The commissioner could rescind those priviliges if he wanted to do so.

"If any complaints were made about my broadcasting, all I can say is that I did my best to give a straightforward picture of what I seen," Dean said. "I was just giving my opinion and I thought this was a free country and that if I wanted to sing The 'Wabash Cannonball,' there wasn't no law against that.

"And I never heard that you couldn't talk about fried chicken, for criminy's sakes."

"I tried to be honest at all times and I never done no alibiing for any bad job that any ball player or any ball club happened to be turning in," Dizzy continued. "I just done my best for the listeners and the sponsors, and anybody who wants to complain has sure got the right to do that. It's okay with me."

Dean's wife said that before leaving Chandler's office she asked the commissioner what she and Dizzy should say to the press and that they were advised to say nothing.

"That's where we made our big mistake," Mrs. Dean said. "We should have told everything we knew. Dizzy has done nothing but good for baseball and he has nothing to conceal, nothing to be ashamed of.

GW High Romps, 39-6

George Washington High of Alexandria swamped Morrison of Newport News, 39-6, last night before 4000 spectators at G. W. Stadium.

The hard-running of George Nolan set up most of G. W.'s touchdowns. Eddie Johnson scored three times on sprints of 17, 19 and 13 yards. It was G. W.'s first Group I Virginia League victory in two starts.

St. Alban's Comes Back To Defeat Devitt, 19 to 12

St. Albans overcame a 12-0 first-quarter score to defeat Devitt Prep, 19-12, on the Saint field yesterday.

Devitt took the opening kickoff and marched from its own 20 to the Albans' 1-yard stripe where Dick Steuart bucked over for Devitt's first touchdown.

Devitt added its second score a few plays later by recovering a St. Albans fumble on the Saint's 34. It moved to the 5 on a pass from John Hunt to Bill Ray, and Dick Steuart then cracked over in two attempts.

St. Albans came back in the second quarter for its first score and added two more in the final quarter for the winning tallies. Phil Stansbury's Pass to Joe Kingsbury was complete for the second period TD and the same combination added the third score for the Albans. Stansbury himself bucked over from the 5-yard stripe for the final, winning touchdown.

St. Albans	0	6	0	13—19
Devitt	12	0	0	0—12

Touchdowns—Stewart (2), Kingsbury (2), Stansbury. Conversion—Stansbury.

Chamberlain Wins

Bobby Curtis scored three touchdowns to pave the way for Chamberlain's 25-0 opening game victory over Longwood Prep's footballers at Devitt.

Curtis scored twice on pass receptions from Danny Portale and once on a 25-yard end run. It was Longwood's third straight loss.

Bullis "B"	6	7	6	0—19
Woodward	0	6	0	0— 6

Touchdowns—Cashman (2), Doyle, Crute. Extra point—Kotick.

Catholic Plays Host Today to Patuxent Boys

Catholic University's gridmen have hopes of extending their winning streak from last year to four in a row today when they play host to Patuxent Naval Air Station at Brookland. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:30.

The sailors are expected to be a test for Coach Tom Chisari's eleven, but the Cardinal mentor hopes to show a strong enough attack to take the honors. He was encouraged by the running of Bucky Ennis and Joe Dunn, and by Bill DeYoung's line-plunging in scrimmage this week.

The Cards also are counting on Cocaptain Jack Samperton and Bob Mullin to latch on to some passes, and on Joe Mauiri to kick them out of trouble if it arises.

Fairfax Bows, 7-6

A touchdown and placement kick by Don Price in the second quarter gave Craddock High of Portsmouth, Va., a 7-6 victory over Fairfax last night at Fairfax Stadium.

Warren Roseberry reeled off a 35-yard touchdown run for Fairfax in the last quarter, but he failed trying to run the ball over for the extra point.

Fairfax	0	0	0	6—6
Craddock	0	7	0	0—7

Touchdowns: Fairfax—Roseberry; Craddock—Price. Extra point: Craddock—Price.

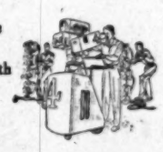
THE DU MONT SAVOY—A compact console with 72 square inch direct-view television screen, AM and FM radio and high-fidelity automatic record player, in a dignified cabinet of traditional design. $795

A NEW WORLD APPEARS! Here's a Magic Box you can have right in your own home. It's packed with excitement and laughter; with the thrill of sports and the solemnity of great events—all brought brilliantly to life on a big, bright, clear screen. In it are many hours of quiet contentment for the children and mental stimulation for the grown-ups. Besides television, there's AM and FM radio, and a high-fidelity player that will coax surprising tone quality out of your favorite records. All this for your enjoyment—and all neatly housed in a handsome cabinet that will look wonderfully well in your living room. Cabinets in modern or traditional design by Herbert Rosengren.

FIRST IN BROADCASTING. Du Mont operates the first television network. Its key station—WABD—New York, has the largest and best equipped studio in the world.

FIRST IN FINE RECEIVERS. Du Mont built the first commercial home receiver (1939) and was first on the market with a full line of fine postwar receivers (1946).

FIRST IN STATION EQUIPMENT. A large part of the television broadcasting stations now on the air was planned by Du Mont engineers and built with Du Mont broadcasting equipment.



FIRST IN DEVELOPMENT. It was Dr. Allen B. Du Mont's development of the cathode-ray tube from a laboratory curiosity that made electronic television practical.

FIRST IN PRECISION ELECTRONICS. Du Mont Laboratories are the world's foremost makers of fine precision instruments employing the cathode-ray tube for many scientific uses.

FIRST IN RADAR. In 1933, Dr. Du Mont filed a patent application which the army asked him to withdraw and develop the invention in deepest secrecy. That was radar.

Area News in Brief

Police Car Outspeeds 'Jalopy'

A hopped-up jalopy came in second best after a fast run with a police scout car yesterday.

At 4 a. m. yesterday, Park Police Pvts. Clement Warrener and Paul Johnson saw three youths tampering with a parked car at 6th st. and Adams dr. nw.

The three youths saw the officers, hopped into their "hot rod," a stripped-down 1937 Ford, and raced away. The "hot rod" was good (in fact, it got up to 70 MPH) but the police car caught it after a chase of about a mile at 7th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw.

The trio told police they weren't planning to steal the car. All they wanted, they said, was the door. They were Florida bound on a vacation and the handle on one of their car doors was broken. They needed a new door, that was all. Police said they found a hack saw in the youth's car.

The three were booked as Bernard N. Johnson, 20, of 3901 Jefferson st., Hyattsville, Md.; Roland P. Nabholz, 18, of Greenbelt, Md., and Edward A. Thompson, 18, of 4114 Colesville rd., University Park, Md.

All were charged with attempted larceny. Johnson, driver of the "hot rod," also was booked on charges of passing two red lights, exceeding 60 MPH and driving on the wrong side of the street. The youths will be arraigned in Municipal Court today.

Driver Appeals Sentence

Walter L. Fuss, 33, of 16 W. Del Ray ave., Alexandria, was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days yesterday in Alexandria Police Court for driving under the influence of liquor.

An airline mechanic, Fuss was arrested September 19 when his car was in collision at Henry and Pendleton sts. He pleaded innocent and appealed the decision to the Corporation Court.

Nude Man Picked Up

Andre Gregor, 35, a waiter, 1538 17th st. nw., was picked up by police shortly before noon yesterday as he was walking in the nude at 17th and I sts. nw. He was taken to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

About an hour later some American University girl students reported seeing a nude man near the Shakespearean Gardens near Massachusetts and Nebraska aves. nw. Police were unable to find him.

Roanoke Man Sought

Area police are seeking James Jack Malcolm, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Malcolm of Roanoke, Va.

Malcolm

The youth has been missing for more than a week and was last seen shortly after his automobile was wrecked near Roanoke. He is described as 150 pounds, 6 feet tall, with dark brown hair and eyes. Amnesia is indicated, according to Roanoke police.

3 Held in $10,000 Bond

Three young men were held under $10,000 bond yesterday in Municipal Court for the robbery at knife-point of two George Washington University students.

The defendants were Edward Lucas, 18, of 46 Blagden's ct. nw.; Randolph Valentine, 22, of 440 O st. nw., and Samuel Small, jr., 23, of 4500 Galt pl. ne. The victims were Victor E. Seyen, jr., and Mervin Gunderson, both of 3207 Adams Mill rd.

The loot totaled almost $200, it was said.

Air Death Suit Filed

A Minneapolis woman yesterday filed a $50,000 damage suit against Arthur C. Hyde, operator of Congressional Airport on Rockville pike, and owner of an airplane in which her husband was killed a year ago.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Frances E. Nyclemoe, blamed a defective safety belt as the cause of the death October 25, 1947, of her husband, Palmer D. Nyclemoe. She claimed the safety belt snapped when he made a forced landing near Travilah, Md.

The suit was filed in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Flier Held On Nurse's Charge He Raped Her

Bolling Field Pilot Denies Accusation; Had Gun in Car On Pickup Date

A flier who won the Distinguished Flying Cross during the war in the Pacific was charged with rape yesterday by Prince Georges County police on the complaint of a 23-year-old Washington nurse.

The pilot, held without bond in the county jail at Upper Marlboro, is Lieut. William Alger Dawes, jr., 28, of 1235 Alabama ave. se., who is stationed at Bolling Field.

Dawes was arrested at his apartment yesterday morning by Detective Mike Appertti of the sex squad after the nurse had made a complaint at the Eleventh Precinct. Washington police, who later turned over Dawes to Prince Georges County authorities, said the pilot denied the rape allegation.

After the nurse had made the complaint, police said, she was taken to Gallinger Hospital where a preliminary medical report showed no evidence of rape.

The nurse, however, declared she had submitted to Dawes in his car because he produced a .25 caliber automatic from the dashboard compartment.

Washington police said both Dawes and the girl admitted he "picked her up" Thursday afternoon at 7th st. and Pennsylvania ave. se. She told Prince Georges police she "necked" with the pilot during the afternoon and then made a date to meet him at about 11:30 p. m. after she finished work at Doctors Hospital.

After the nurse, who lives in the 3400 block of 23d st. se., had completed work, police were told, she met Dawes and accompanied him to a waterfront restaurant where they ate and had several drinks.

Police said the nurse told them that Dawes then drove to his apartment but that she refused to go upstairs with him. She said he then drove into Maryland, near Camp Springs, and parked.

She said she submitted to him when he produced the automatic, laid it on the panel above the dashboard and said, "I always take care of my girls."

Later, when police asked him what he meant by the remark, Dawes said he had read about the Glen Burnie murders and he wasn't "going to let that happen to me."

The nurse told police that when they left the parking spot, Dawes drove back to his apartment. She said that she helped him carry several packages into his apartment, and that when he fell asleep on a divan in the living room, she left and went to the Eleventh Precinct.

According to Bolling Field authorities, Dawes is married but has no children. They said they understood his wife was not in Washington.

According to Air Force records, Dawes is a native of Atlanta, has been at Bolling Field for three months and was to be transferred next Tuesday to the Barksdale Army Air Base at Shreveport, La. While at Bolling Field, he was attached to the headquarters command.

A veteran of the Pacific, he holds, in addition to the DFC, the Air Medal with one cluster and a presidential citation. While in the Pacific theater, he served with the Air Transport Command as pilot and photographer.

Dawes is to have a hearing Monday at 10 a. m. in Upper Marlboro Police Court.

100 Coworkers Give Blood to Save Patient

More than 100 employes in the Pentagon Building lined up at the Red Cross blood bank last night to donate their blood in an effort to save the life of a fellow worker.

He is John H. Moore, 24, of 1220 4th st. nw., a clerk in the adjutant general's office of the Army. He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital Monday with a rare blood deficiency that threatens to be fatal.

Hospital officials say Moore lacks a blood element called platelets. Without this his blood will not coagulate, and spontaneous hemorrhage occurs. A rare disease, Moore's ailment started with a nose bleed. He is in critical condition, and has been placed in an oxygen tent. He will need 12 pints of blood every 24 hours for an indefinite time, it was said.

Although Moore's blood is of a fairly common type, A-rh positive, the hospital was unable to meet the demand, and a call was sent to the Red Cross, which appealed to Moore's fellow workers.

The largest single group of donors in the history of the blood bank, Red Cross officials said, began arriving in the afternoon. Last night, an hour after the usual quitting time at the blood bank, a full staff was continuing to take blood.

Moore was "holding his own" the doctors said.

High British Officials Honor Veteran Negro Embassy Aide

His Majesty's Chancellor of the Exchequer, the British Ambassador, and the embassy staff paid tribute yesterday to Charlie Browne, an American Negro, on his sixtieth anniversary as British Embassy messenger.

In a noontime ceremony on the terrace in the embassy grounds, the 80-year-old messenger heard praise for his long service from the Chancellor, Sir Stafford Cripps, here on a financial mission.

Then the Ambassador, Sir Oliver Frank, presented Browne autographed photographs of the King and Queen, the King's Medal for Service in the Cause of Freedom, a framed portrait of Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, and a check for $650 from friends at the embassy.

Sir Oliver informed Browne that, in addition, $280 had been contributed by former embassy staff members now back in the Foreign Office in London and will be used to send him a gift.

Browne started working at the embassy on October 1, 1888, when he was 20 years old and Baron Sackville was the Ambassador. He has served under 15 British envoys. When King George VI and Queen Elizabeth visited here in 1939, Browne was presented to them and later was awarded the British Empire Medal.

Not looking his years, Browne is in excellent health, and his work in charge of the chancery mails keeps him active from 8 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. He never married, and lived with his mother until her death. Now he makes his home with a niece, Mrs. Katie E. Anderson, at 433 5th st. se., but is still active in the charity work in the Deanwood section, where his classes in sewing and canning for boys and girls at the old Zion Baptist Church, 44th st. and Sheriff rd. ne., marked the beginning of social service work in that section many years ago.

Browne is author of the book, "A Short History of the British Embassy, or Forty Years in a School of Diplomacy," a chronicle of daily happenings among diplomats.

Browne now is senior warden of Calvary Episcopal Church, 11th and G sts. ne., where a special service will be held at 5 p. m. Sunday in his honor, with thanksgiving prayers for the President, the King and Browne. Browne also serves as treasurer of Frelinghuysen University and secretary of the Frelinghuysen School for Adult Education at 201 T st. nw.

3 of 4 Accused By Girl Due From Ohio

Three of four teen-age boys wanted for attempted rape of a 16-year-old girl near Mount Vernon Tuesday night are due to arrive here from Cincinnati today to face charges, Park Police said yesterday.

They had fled to Ohio in the automobile in which the alleged assaults occurred and agreed to return in the custody of the father of one, police said. The automobile was located Thursday night, and the youths spoke to one of their parents by telephone yesterday.

Park Police Sergt. Arthur Cook said the fourth boy, 18, for whom a warrant also has been issued, probably will be apprehended today. The other three are said to be 17 years old.

In Parents' Custody

Sergeant Cook said he interviewed still another 18-year-old boy yesterday and described him as a "minor participant" in the alleged assaults. He was released in the custody of his parents pending receipt of a written statement from the girl who said she was assaulted and pending apprehension and indentification of the other four youths.

The girl, who police said attends high school in Arlington, told Sergeant Cook this story of her harrowing adventure:

A boy whom she did not know telephoned her Tuesday night about 9:30 and said a friend of the girl was coming by her house for a date. A strange youth soon appeared at the door and said the friend was waiting in his car. When the girl went to the car, it was unoccupied, but the youth forced her inside and drove off.

He picked up three other boys about a block away. One of them got out of the car before the others drove to Mount Vernon. There the remaining three occupants attempted to rape the girl. On their return to Arlington, they stopped at a restaurant near Alexandria, where another youth got in the car and attempted to rape her.

Fought Off All 4, She Says

She fought off all four of her assailants, and they took her to within a block of her home and released her. The girl noted the license number of the car, and her mother called police at about 1 a. m.

The 18-year-old boy whom Sergeant Cook questioned yesterday told police he was the one who left the group before the alleged assaults occurred.

He was brought before United States Commissioner Stanley King in Alexandria yesterday. A hearing was continued until 9:30 a. m. Monday, pending return of his companions from Cincinnati and further investigation of the incident.

District Acquires Tract For Approach to Bridge

A deed to a four-acre tract in Virginia to be used as part of the approaches to the East Highway Bridge was turned over to District Property Survey Officer Paul Chalupsky yesterday afternoon.

The paper was delivered by A.P. Rice, engineer in charge of valuation and real estate, Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad. A $162,500 payment for the land will be made next week after final details of the transfer are completed, Chalupsky said.

Training Pays

Choking Boy Is Saved by Policeman

A 2-year-old Washington boy is alive today because of a quick-witted policeman who utilized his war training.

Pvt. Bradford McClendon of the Accident Investigation Unit who lives at 1335 Dexter st. se., on Thursday, heard screams across the street at the home of his neighbor, William S. Kidd. He rushed over in time to save his neighbors' son, "Stevie," from choking to death.

Stevie was munching an apple in his front yard at 1363 Talbert st. se., while a playmate made like an airplane by swinging on an iron stake. Somehow Stevie got in the way and was hit in the chest by two flying feet.

He swallowed a big bite of apple and then his tongue. When he couldn't breathe he became blue in the face and then purple. His father tried frantically to clear Stevie's throat without success. By this time Stevie had become ashen and limp.

While his father tried to decide what to do next, Private McClendon arrived. He grabbed Stevie by the heels and held him upside down. Then he forced his finger between his clenched jaws and slowly straightened his tongue. Stevie gasped, coughed and began to breathe again.

Private McClendon spent much of his two years' service on a Navy casualty evacuation ship. He also aided in evacuating the wounded from Okinawa. "With duty like that," said Private McClendon, "nearly everyone aboard ship got a lot of emergency first-aid training. I thought the child had swallowed his tongue and knew what to do."

Last night Stevie's parents had nothing but praise for Private McClendon.

"Everyone in the block," said Mrs. Kidd, "thought my son was dead when Private McClendon arrived. He's tops with us and all my children are going to be raised to respect policemen."

Woman Gets Time to Pay Bad Checks

Court Suspends Sentence and Allows Dejean Bacon 3 Years To Make Up Frauds

Chic, 24-year-old Dejean Bacon, returned from Mexico City as a bond jumper, was given three years yesterday to repay part of $9574 she was accused of obtaining by forging checks on the account of a former airline pilot.

"We can't have people going around cashing checks on others' accounts or drawing checks on banks in which they have no account," said District Judge Matthew F. McGuire in suspending a 4-to-12-month sentence and putting the girl on probation for three years. How much of the money she must repay, over the $500 she admitted obtaining, remains to be settled later between the court and probation officers.

"You are the product of a broken home. I am going to give you a chance to get on your feet, but one misstep and you are going to jail. If you want to live outside the social barriers, that's your business."

Miss Bacon was arrested in 1947 and charged with cashing $9574 in checks drawn for the most part on the account of Capt. Cornell N. Shelton, an aviator in China. She protested her innocence but before trial disappeared. She was located in Mexico City where she claimed she had spent nine months profitably by obtaining a college degree.

Her attorney, Charles E. Ford, told the court, "It is obvious that this girl is a little unstable and emotionally upset. But she is very capable if put on the right track."

All of the charges, except for those involving checks totaling $500 were dismissed after sentence was passed. Assistant United States Attorney Sylvan Schwartz was prosecutor.

In another case, Judge McGuire called the defendant a "pimp, procurer and bawd all in one package and a man engaged in the lowest and dirtiest business on earth."

Sentenced to Eight Months

The judge gave the man, Homer L. Burns, 29, of 515 Q st. nw., eight months to two years in prison for pandering. According to police, Burns procured two women for two undercover policemen and obtained $1 from each.

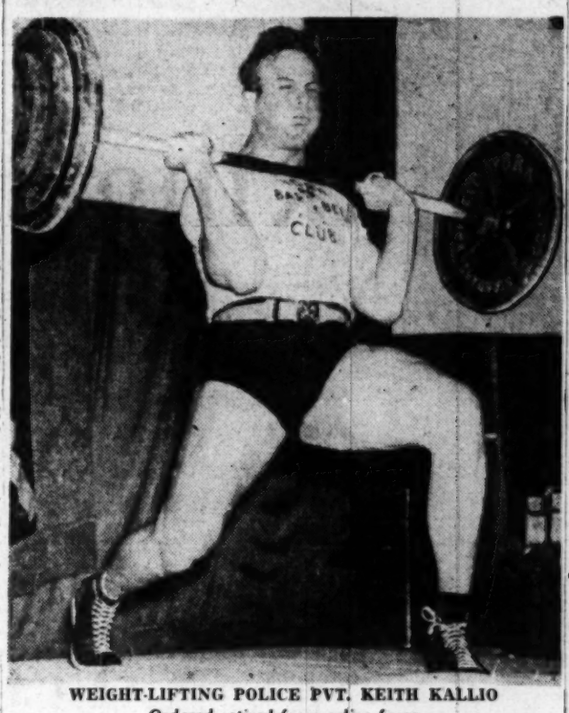
A confessed numbers writer, William R. Bailey, 43, of 1013 3d st. ne., was given an eight months to two year prison term also. Bailey had a criminal record dating back to 1930.

Robert B. Kimbrel, 35, of no fixed address, was given four to 12 years for the yoke robbery July 25 of Robert King, 20, of 619 New Jersey ave. nw. Kimbrel knocked King down and took his wrist watch.

In imposing sentence, Judge McGuire commented that Kimbrel has been convicted some 20 times for such offenses as running an illegal whiskey still, selling phony jewelry, forgery, picking pockets, burglary, auto theft and riding railroad trains without tickets.

On 10 Per Cent Disability

Ex-Champion Weight Lifter Retired From Police Force



WEIGHT-LIFTING POLICE PVT. KEITH KALLIO
Ordered retired from police force

Kallio, Injured in Fall In 1947, Will Get $28.31 Pension

The responsibilities of a policeman were lifted from the shoulders of Pvt. R. Keith Kallio, former District weight-lifting champion, yesterday.

Kallio, who was fined $150 and lost two weeks' pay last April when a police trial board found him guilty of "malingering and feigning illness," was ordered retired on a 10 per cent disability.

A policeman for six years, Kallio injured his back in December, 1947, when he fell down a flight of steps while on duty. Since his fall he has had more than 200 days of sick leave.

His retirement was recommended by the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons. As a result, Kallio, who is 29, will receive a lifetime pension of $28.31 a month.

When called by a reporter yesterday morning, Kallio was surprised to learn of his retirement. His first reaction was to announce that he will consult an attorney to see it there is any possibility of collecting the $150 fine from the District government.

Kallio said he reasoned that if it was officially determined he was disabled in his fall, he could not have been guilty of "feigning illness."

The 220-pound policeman was haled before the trial board six months ago after a police "snooper" saw him playing golf while on sick leave and reported this fact to police officials.

In his defense, Kallio said he had been referred to a doctor by the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons who recommended mild exercise. Kallio said he considered golf "one of the mildest forms of exercise for anyone."

The trial board didn't agree.

Kallio was District AAU heavyweight weight-lifting champion and his golf game was consistently in the 70s before his injury. His last assignment was the Sixth Precinct. He lives at 4915 41st st. nw.

Police Private Is Guilty of Leaving Post

Police Pvt. John U. Carroll of the Fifth Precinct was commended yesterday on the defense he offered, but the Police Trial Board still found him guilty of leaving his post without authorization.

The Trial Board, headed by Inspector Milton D. Smith and including Capt. John E. Fondahl of the Eighth Precinct and Assistant Corporation Counsel Ralph D. Quinter, jr., recommended a fine of $15. The recommendation will be forwarded to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett.

Carroll was charged with leaving his post as guard over police prisoners in the "strong room" at Gallinger Hospital the morning of September 15.

The policeman explained that a woman was screaming on the floor below demanding admittance to the hospital and that he felt safe to investigate because a guard from the District Jail also was on duty in the "strong room."

Carroll testified he helped soothe the woman and then helped hold another patient while doctors emptied her stomach of a dose of poison.

The policeman said he was thoroughly familiar with the police manual and that he considered he might have been "derelict in my duty" if he failed to investigate the disturbance on the floor below.

He also pointed out that according to regulations he should have telephoned his precinct if he considered it necessary to leave his post and that the nearest telephone was in the admitting office where the disturbance occurred.

Inspector Smith complimented Carroll on presenting a better defense than any attorney could have done, but the board held that, according to the letter of the regulation, Carroll was guilty as charged.

4 Polio Cases Boost Total to 184

Four new polio cases were reported in Greater Washington yesterday, boosting the year's total to 184, compared with 42 for this date last year.

The new cases at Gallinger Hospital were an 18-year-old man from the 1600 block of Princess st., Alexandria, and a 33-year-old man from the 9900 block of Markham st., Silver Spring.

Two others treated at Children's Hospital were an 11-year-old girl from the 100 block of East Kirk st., Chevy Chase, Md., and a 6-year-old girl from the 200 block of Woodland dr. se., Forest Hill Heights, Md.

The reports raised the total in nearby Virginia and Maryland to 84. The District total hit the 100 mark Thursday.

In Virginia four new cases brought the State total to 430 for the year.

The town of Stuart in Patrick County closed all schools when the second case in a week was reported.

Revised Plan Approved in Conduct of Police Trials

System Providing For Three Boards Gets Indorsement Of Commissioners

A three-point reorganization of Police Trial Board procedure was approved by the District Commissioners yesterday.

The plan, prepared by Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, in cooperation with Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett, calls for:

1. Establishment of a three-man police trial board consisting of three police officers above the rank of captain, to hear cases involving infraction of the rules. These cases would result only from charges made by police officials.

2. Naming of a special police trial board, including two police officers above the rank of captain, and an attorney to be selected from panels furnished by the two local bar groups.

From Charges by Civilians

This board would decide cases resulting from charges made by civilians. As trials were arranged, the District Bar Association and the Washington Bar Association each would submit two names to the chief clerk of the Police Department.

The four names would be placed in a hat, and one drawn in the presence of the accused policeman. The attorney selected could be challenged, and if the challenge were sustained by the two police members of the board, a second name would be drawn, Maher explained.

3. A Complaint Review Board of three civilians elected by the District Commissioners would consider charges which Major Barrett felt were questionable. Maher said this group would have discretion on whether to ignore or prefer charges against the policeman involved.

The Commissioners decided the plan would be adopted November 19, when the revised police manual is put in effect.

Fire Trial Board Plan

A plan for reorganization of the Fire Trial Board is now being drafted, Maher said, and will be ready within two weeks.

Since relatively few complaints by civilians against firemen have been made, Maher is working on plans for a single Fire Trial Board consisting of three ranking firemen, it was learned last night.

The new police board plan replaces the present three-man board consisting of two police officials above the rank of captain, and a member of the corporation counsel's office. Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West had recommended a change, eliminating a representative of his office, since cases are prosecuted by other members.

In the past, too, West's office has examined evidence offered against policemen to determine whether there is a prima facie case. If so, "my policy has been always to send the case to trial and let the board decide the matter," West stated.

"I have done this whenever there has been substantial evidence produced, even though conflicting testimony to the contrary was offered," West explained.

He predicted fewer complaints would reach the trial stage under the new procedure since the civilian attorneys on the Complaint Review Board will "weigh the facts and save policemen from going before the trial board if they shouldn't."

West supported the change, declaring it would "fully protect the public and the policeman from unfounded charges and end complaints of whitewash."

Commissioners Approve New Electrical Code

The District Commissioners yesterday gave final approval to a new District electrical code prepared by the Department of Inspections.

The new code revises the present one to conform with the national electrical code as well as to permit use of materials developed since the old code was adopted, J. S. Zebley, technical assistant in the department, said.

Bigger Arts Department

The Jewish Community Center yesterday announced the opening of an enlarged junior arts department for children aged three and a half to 12 years. Activities include ballet, dancing, and a class in ballroom dancing for pre-teen age boys and girls.

Firemen Give Police Boys' Club $7500

Check Represents Proceeds of Ball Game in August

A check for $7500 representing the proceeds of a benefit baseball game between the New York and Washington Fire Department teams was turned over to the Metropolitan Police Boys Club at a meeting of the club board last night in the Ambassador Hotel.

The check was presented to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett by Joseph A. Mayhew, acting chief engineer of the Fire Department, in the absence of Fire Chief Clement Murphy.

Mayhew said that Murphy desired part of the money be used to form a new club in one of the engine houses in the Southwest.

The gift resulted from a benefit game played by the two teams of firemen last August at Griffith Stadium under sponsorship of the local department. Leonard P. Walsh was chairman of the committee that arranged the contest.

Two youthful members of Police Boys' Club No. 4 attended the meeting to thank the Fire Department for the contribution. They were Sonny Rhodes, 8, and Julius Saunders, 7.

T. J. Gorman Mass to Be Sung by Son

The pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Memphis, Tenn., will sing a solemn requiem mass of dual significance here at 10 a. m. Monday.

Officiating will be the Rev. Francis B. Gorman, O. P. The mass will be sung in honor of his father, Timothy Joseph Gorman, who died Thursday in Ednor, Md., at the age of 79.

The scene will be St. Dominic's Church, 6th and E sts. sw., where the priest's late parents were married. Its patron saint and that of Father Gorman's religious order, the Dominicans, are one and the same.

The priest is the only survivor of Mr. Gorman, who was left an orphan in Philadelphia more than 80 years ago and who moved to Washington when he was 7.

Mr. Gorman, once a member of the vanishing fraternity of earlier day tailors, worked until the death of his wife 20 years ago at the now defunct Edward Potbury Co., formerly situated on 11th st. nw.

The Gormans lived for many years at 15 Seaton st. nw., where they reared four children.

Mr. Gorman was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and of the Holy Name Society.

A funeral service will be held at 9:15 a. m. Monday at the home of John J. Widmayer, 16 Newlands st., Chevy Chase, a friend of the Gorman family for many years. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of our dear son and brother, JOHN ROGER BOSWELL, JR., who departed this life four years ago, September 14, 1944, while in combat near St. Lo, France.
Four years ago today,
God came from afar,
And while the angels led the way
He took you to heaven without a scar.
We miss you, brother, dear,
No words can ever say;
But you will always be near,
Because you were so kind and gay.
YOUR LOVING DAD, SISTERS, AND BROTHERS.

Church Women Hear Warning By Bishop Dun

By Genevieve Reynolds

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, warned yesterday that communism is a dangerous, harmful and ominous doctrine. He issued his admonition at the third annual diocesan conference, sponsored by the Washington Branch, Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Churches of the Washington Diocese.

Bishop Dun told the some 1000 feminine church leaders from the Nation's Capital, Montgomery, Prince Georges, Charles and St. Mary's Counties, "that communism is a real thing and terribly Godless." "Yet," he added, "it has found response from many people in the world."

Communism, he said, was one of the topics discussed at the Lambeth Conference, held in England just prior to the opening of the assembly of the World Council of Churches. This was the first layman report given by Bishop Dun since he returned from the Lambeth and Amsterdam conferences. The Lambeth gathering was attended by Episcopalian representatives from the United Kingdom, India, China and Japan as well as the United States.

Gives Sidelights

Giving sidelights of the Amsterdam Conference, which he attended as delegate, he described the discussions of the Christian religion's struggle against great odds of hate, prejudice, racial fear, excessive nationalism, poverty and worldliness.

The speaker repeated his address at a night session held for delegates employed during the day, and women with small children who could not join the day groups.

Following the afternoon program Bishop and Mrs. Dun entertained the delegates at tea in the bishop's house.

Following Holy Communion services in Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral, delegates split into eight groups for workshops on the auxiliary's future program. Mrs. Benjamin McKelway, treasurer of the United Thank Offering, conducted a session for treasurers; Mrs. Charles W. Lowry talked with educational secretaries; Mrs. Karl J. Lundelius met with supply secretaries Budget directors were instructed by Mrs. J. B. Wycoff and Mrs. Robert M. Eaves. Mrs. T. O. Wedel and Mrs. F. Granville Munson led the group of devotional secretaries, and Mrs. Noble C. Owings was one of the group of church periodical directors.

Mrs. Waldo Burnside, council president, presided at both the day and night sessions.

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

THE Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, pauses outside the Cathedral chapel to chat with Mrs. Waldo Burnside, president of the Washington Branch, Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The bishop addressed conference delegates at the council's all-day workshop sessions held yesterday in the Cathedral

Low Living Standards Lead To War, Dr. Glenn Tells DAR

"Crisis will continue throughout the world until the down-trodden have the same standard of living as we in the United States," Dr. Leslie Glenn, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, told members of the National Defense Committee, District Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting held yesterday in the Chapter House.

"As fast as the poor people in the world find out you can eat three times a day and have a bath, they become discontented until they obtain the same," he said. "For that reason, if there is World War III, there probably will be a fourth.

"After the Russians, there'll be the Indians and Chinese and all others whose standards of living are lower than ours," he continued. "We'll have to support the draft and our Government's attempt to keep defense adequate."

Promises Not Kept

Dr. Glenn declared that communism is the world's most gigantic lie, that it failed to keep its 1917 revolutionary promise of producing "bread, land and peace."

He said that the Soviet people are hungry and desperate and are in the "hands of the world's worst despot."

Asserting that communistic Russia, shackled by its police system, can't produce, Dr. Glenn averred that the only antidote is to spread democracy with its capitalism and free enterprise.

"Only through the competition of free enterprise can enough shoes, food, clothing and bath tubs for the peoples of the world be produced."

Recalling a visit to Great Britain and the continent, he said that he was struck by the "lack of democracy in Europe."

Speaks of Britain

"Great Britain doesn't have the same kind of democracy as the United States and there's more there than any other country," he explained. "For example, it's brand of socialism now is inefficient in production. Also, enterprises and professions have been handed down from father to son for generations."

By cutting out immigration the United States lost contact with the Old World and people here began to forget the freedoms and privileges, according to the speaker, adding, "such patriot groups as yours (DAR) are about the only people talking about the freedoms of this country."

Mrs. S. Dolan, chairman, National Defense Committee, presided.

'Know U. N.' Is Subject Of Workshop

The D. C. League of Women Voters opened its fall international relations program yesterday with a pledge to strive for a successful international government, even in the event of a third world war.

Mrs. William Johnstone, the League's national director of United Nations affairs, addressed the meeting, which inaugurated a workshop on "Know Your United Nations." She explained the group's policy on international relations as determined at the recent national convention in Grand Rapids, Mich.

"We must work with conviction that the United Nations can prevent another world war," Mrs. Johnstone stressed. "But in the event of the third war, we must cling to the fragments of support for an international organization and rebuild them during the subsequent peace into a successful new world government."

"We can't turn our backs on the United Nations," she said. "It's a government, and we're just as responsible to it as we are to our local governments . . . As world citizens, we must understand and support our world government."

During their workshop on the U. N., league members hope to acquaint other women with main problems before the organization.

Among the questions the clubwomen will probe and discuss are: (1) Would the United States give military support to the U. N.'s decisions? (2) Would the United States abide by the decision of a U. N.-appointed arbitration court on the Berlin issue? (3) In a final showdown would the United States really be willing to give up the veto clause in the U. N. Charter? (4) Would the United States Congress give our support to international control of atomic energy or to an international trade organization?

Voters League Will Sponsor Study Groups

"America's Stake in Foreign Affairs" will be the theme of the two new reading-discussion groups which the District of Columbia League of Women Voters will sponsor in cooperation with the Public Library of the District of Columbia.

The first group will meet in the auditorium of the Northeastern Branch Library, Maryland ave. at 7th st. ne., this Tuesday, October 5, at 8 p. m. The second group will begin its meetings in the auditorium of the Petworth Branch Library, Georgia ave. at Upshur st. nw., Tuesday, October 12, at 8 p. m.

The groups, which are free and open to men as well as women, will continue their meetings on the first and third, second and fourth Tuesdays respectively throughout the winter and spring.

Under the direction of Dr. Louise M. Young, both groups will read and discuss current books, periodicals and state papers dealing with the basic issues involved in the major conflicts between this Nation and others. Reading material will be especially provided and reserved by the library for group members.

Dr. Young, who is the author of numerous books and articles on history and political science, worked with the District League of Women Voters last year as chairman of the big power relations workshop, a division of the league's international relations program area. Before coming to Washington with her husband, an eminent economist, Dr. Young was vice president and regional director of the Pennsylvania State League of Women Voters.

Those wishing to register in either group should call the Public Library (National 6776) and ask for the group reading office or they may register in person at any branch library. The enrollment in both groups is limited.

Mrs. Myers attended Juniata College in Huntington, Pa., and George Washington University.

Voigt—Cox

Miss Margaret L. Cox, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Morris of Lynchburg, Va., became the bride of George J. Voigt, son of Otto Voigt of Washington, September 24 in the rectory of Emory Chapel, the Rev. Edgar Beery officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her sister, Mrs. Ruth Creswell, wore a brown dress with brown and gold accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Creswell also served as her sister's attendant and Robbie Roberts was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom after which the couple left for Winchester, Va. They will also spend some time in Florida before coming to live in Washington.

Mrs. Voigt was graduated from Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Wilke—Rebbe

In a candlelight service last night at Little Church of Fort Lincoln, Miss Muirene Grace Rebbe was married to Samuel Arthur Wilke. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. C. Rebbe and the late Herman Rebbe of Webster Groves, Mo., and Mr. Wilke is the son of Mrs. Marie Wilke and the late Robert Wilke of Berlin, Wis. Dr. J. F. Wenchel, pastor emeritus of Christ Lutheran Church, officiated.

C. Rowe Sutter gave his niece in marriage. She wore white slipper satin trimmed with lace ruffles and a bracelet-length veil held by a beaded tiara. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of flowers. Mrs. C. K. Gower was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Josephine Kusilavage was bridesmaid. Dudley Gordon served as best man and the ushers were Carl Ziehe and James Turbitt.

A wedding supper was served after the ceremony at the Kennedy-Warren after which the couple left for a motor trip to Miami, Fla. They will reside in Washington.

The bride was graduated from University of Missouri and her husband from University of Wisconsin.

Junior League's New Members To Study Community's Needs

Provisional members of the Junior League of Washington met at a supper last evening at the league clubhouse with Mrs. Charles Runyon, regional director of Region 11 of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, and other officials of the Junior League of Washington. Purpose of the supper meeting was to tell the new members of the purposes and aims of the league.

The provisional member course which extends from October 1 until November 12 consists of a series of lectures and field trips planned by Mrs. William F. Anderson, provisional chairman, and Miss Elma Phillipson, director of the social service department of Children's Hospital. It will show the new members the resources and needs of Washington, and will inform them how they may help their community through volunteer work.

Lectures Planned

There will be lectures on such varied subjects as: working conditions, housing, education, health, mental health, social security, recreation and social planning for the organization of services The field trips will take members to many agencies, both public and private, so that they may see for themselves how the agencies work, what their problems are, and how they, themselves, can help as volunteers.

Among the speakers are: Arthur Kruse, executive director of the United Community Services; Miss Margaret Pepper, administrative assistant to the Superintendent of Schools, and Clarence Pierce, executive staff director of the Home Rule sub-committee of the District Committee.

Some of the field trips will study Community Chest agencies such as the Barney Neighborhood House for Children Others will study government and city-run agencies such as the National Training School for Girls and the Blue Plains Home for Aged and Infirm. Through these trips and lectures the Junior League hopes that its new members will understand that its fundamental aim is intelligent citizen participation in activities that will be most useful to the community.

New Members

Recently elected members who will take the course are Mrs. Robert W. Beers, Miss Helen Bowdoin, Mrs. Joseph Butler, Mrs. Frederic Chapman, Mrs. Robert Coffey, Mrs. Wilkins Cooley, Miss Lois Crane, Miss Ann Distler, Miss Agnes Dunn, Miss Patricia Exton, Mrs. Frederick Finkenstaedt, Mrs. William Foote, Miss Julia Foraker, Miss Ann Gillespie, Miss Elizabeth Good, Miss Mimi Griffin, Miss Helen Guest, Mrs. Charles Hartigan, jr., Miss Frances Haynes, Mrs. William Howard, Miss Florence King, Mrs. James Lampert, Miss Elaine LeFevre, Miss Mary Lightle, Mrs. Thomas Lipitt, Miss Mary McBride, Miss Susan McKnew, Miss Priscilla Masten, Miss Sherrard Marthinson, Mrs. Robert Menzel, Miss Barbara Miller, Miss Nancy Misson, Mrs. McNeale Moffett, Miss Patricia Morgan, Mrs. Alfred Osgood, Mrs. Arthur Page, Mrs. Edmund Pendelton, jr.

Also Mrs. John Preston, Miss Louise Reece, Miss June Rosse, Miss Eleanor Sanford, Mrs. Bernard Schriever, Mrs. Edward Shippen, Miss Margaret Shumaker, Miss Nancy Skilling, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Morril Spaulding, jr., Mrs. Richard Stifel, Mrs. Douglas Titus, Miss Elaine Trimble, Miss Nancy Trowbridge, Miss Shelley Warren, Miss Olive Watson, Mrs. Richard West and Miss Elizabeth Wyche.

Col., Mrs. Wade Are Entertained

TO SAY hail and farewell to Col. and Mrs. Leigh Wade, who are leaving on Sunday for Florida, Maj. and Mrs. F. McKenzie Davison entertained at cocktails yesterday at the Army and Navy Club.

Sharing honors with the Wades was a visitor from Florida, Mrs. Esther Baker, who flew in yesterday from Miami Beach. Mrs. Wade has been here from Orlando for several weeks, to see her sisters, Mrs. John Shugrue and Mrs. Stephen Burke, and her brother, Dr. Robert Moran. Colonel Wade joined Mrs. Wade yesterday just in time for the party and will take her back with him to Orlando.

Flying down yesterday from New York to join the cocktail party were Mrs. Dolly Stewart and Mrs. Jean Mulligan.

High School Group To Give Style Skit

Problems of high school and business girls in selecting suitable wardrobes will be the subject of a series of skits presented tonight at 8:30 by the Distributor's Club of George Washington High School in Alexandria.

Miss Marcella Trottnow, director of the club, is in charge of the program. Models will be from the Phyllis Bell Ideal School and Miss Bell will be commentator. Jaye's Department Store will furnish the fashions.

The skits, entitled "The Key to a Perfect Wardrobe" will be narrated by Mrs. Hester Provensen.

About Stuffed Meat Balls

Is there any way to remove machine oil stains from a white pique blouse?

Loosen the stain by rubbing lard or clear vaseline into it. Let stand several hours, rubbing between the fingers occasionally to soften and loosen it. If the blouse is cotton, when the stain is thoroughly softened, the stain can usually be completely removed by washing as usual. If the blouse is not washable, remove the grease and the stain with it by sponging with carbon tetrachloride.

What is a good recipe for pickling watermelon rind? G. T.

Soak the rind which has had the dark green rind and pink inner portion completely removed from it. To soak, use a solution of 1 gallon hot water and one tablespoon powdered alum. Allow to stand overnight and drain off the solution. Cover the rind with clear water and boil for 10 minutes. When cooked, drain off liquid and place rind in this solution which should be boiling hot:

4 cups suger
2 cups vinegar
4 teaspoons whole cloves.
8 sticks cinnamon.
2 level teaspoons salt.

Tie the spices in a cheesecloth bag. Or some people prefer to use oil of cinnamon and cloves. These can be purchased at a drug store. The oils have the advantage of not discoloring the pickles and the flavor is a little more pronounced. If you use the oils for flavor, use only 5 to 8 drops of each for the above amount of vinegar-sugar solution. Also, to make them more colorful, watermelon pickles can be colored with red or green vegetable coloring. If you add coloring, add it to the above solution. Boil the pickles in the vinegar solution for 5 minutes and seal while boiling hot into sterilized jars.

STUFFED MEAT BALLS

1½ cups ground cooked meat
1 cup bread cubes
½ cup cooked cut string beans
1 to 2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 egg, beaten
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups tomato soup

Mix together meat, bread cubes, string beans, and onion. To egg, add Worcestershire sauce, mustard, and salt. Add all to meat mixture. Mix well. Into each 3-inch muffin cup or one large casserole, place tomato soup. (For muffin cup, 2 tablespoons tomato soup for each cup.) Flatten ¼ cup meat mixture in hand, place 2 tablespoons bread dressing in center of meat mixture. Press meat around bread dressing. Place each meat ball in muffin cup on tomato soup. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 to 35 minutes. This recipe makes five servings of two meat balls per serving.

BREAD DRESSING

2 cups bread cubes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 egg, beaten
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted fat or drippings
salt and pepper

Mix togeather all ingredients. Fill meat balls with bread dressing.

Recently I was cleaning out the medicine cabinet directly over the lavatory and, with a damp cloth, was washing off the shelves into the lavatory. When I finished, I scoured the lavatory but the first time water was turned on afterwards, the lavatory was full of dirty pinkish stains. Repeated scourings with cleansing powder have not made it white again; and I have also tried ammonia, bleach and vinegar. Perhaps it is wearing away a little bit, but it is so slow. The stain does not seem to have eaten into the enamel. How can it be removed? A. J. McC.

Did you place the bleach in the bowl filled with water and allow it to stand for 30 minutes or so? Sometimes leaving the bleach longer in contact with stains will remove them where just rubbing it on would not. Use a concentration of one-half cup of bleach to a bowl full of water.

I have some dessert forks which are a combination spoon and fork. The fork has the same bowl as a teaspoon plus the prongs of a fork. Until this time I have only used this type piece when serving cake a la mode, but I wonder if they can be used when serving pie? H. R.

The piece of silver to which you refer is called a dessert or ice cream fork. It could be used whenever ice cream is served either alone or with pie or cake. Also, it would seem to me it would be correct to use it when serving a juicy pie which might not be easily eaten with a fork.

Old Pie Pans Called Saboteurs Of Homemaker's Baking Efforts

By Lucia Brown

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A lot of old beat-up cake and pie pans are sabotaging the baking efforts of the American homemaker.

This fact, indicated in a survey just completed by a large milling company, was reported at the newspaper Food Editors' conference which ended today at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"No man would use as decrepit equipment in his office as is found in many kitchens," said Miss Janette Kelley, home service director of the company making the survey. "Women hang on to battered pots and pans through force of habit, sentimentality or misguided thriftiness, and often get poorly cooked food as a reward."

The importance of a close reading of package wrappers was emphasized by Mrs. Marjorie Child Husted, consultant on women's services for the same company.

Observe Directions

"Only one woman in 30 really observes the directions on the wrapper," Mrs. Husted said. "As a result, food is often mixed incorrectly, cooked at the wrong temperature, or in the wrong sized pan. Don't throw the wrapper away first thing. Thousands of dollars are spent in placing information there that will help in preparing good food."

New proof that sugar is a good and valuable food in the diet, particularly of children, was presented at the conference by Dr. Ralph E. Phillips, assistant director of the sugar research foundation.

"The 14-year study of Pennsylvania school children, made by the State college and department of health, should cause some nutritionists to revise their attitudes about sugar," he said. "They indicate that quantities of sugar, higher than that consumed by the general population, significantly improve a diet that is complete in all dietary essentials."

Some gleams of light on the food price horizon were pointed out by speakers at other sessions.

Prices are lower this year on various products, including apple juice, apple butter, dried fruits, dried beans, canned citrus juice and sugar, Paul Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, pointed out.

"I believe we have passed the high price peak," said Mr. Willis. "The general trend now is slightly downward, though the homemaker may not yet realize it as she does her shopping."

Prices Are Lowered

Morris Sayre, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and a corn products company, pointed to this year's big corn crop as indicative of lower prices next year on foods stemming from this crop. O. E. Jones, meat packing company official, said he believed meat prices will go down rapidly this winter or early spring.

The 12 most common fruits and vegetables are generally cheaper and more available throughout the year in cans than in glass, frozen, or fresh, it was pointed out in a film shown by the Can Manufacturers Institute.

SALESMEN
Can you recognize an opportunity of equal importance to having an opportunity in business is the ability to recognize that opportunity when it is presented. Opportunities were never greater in our business than now. It is interesting to know in this company most of our top-flight sales executives came with us through the medium of a "want ad" for salesmen similar to this kind of ad. We are today one of the largest companies of its kind; manufacturing electrical and chemical products. Our general offices are located in New York City, where we occupy approximately 50,000 square feet of floor space in mid-Manhattan—our factory is in nearby Connecticut. So you see even though our business is national in scope, we are more or less home folks. Therefore feel free to come in between 10 and 12 a. m. and let us discuss our problem together. We want men between 25 and 55 years of age. Preferably married men who can furnish high character references acceptable to us. Our liberal percentage form remunerations will make large earnings possible for you with no investment on your part.

Every Cloud Has Silver Lining for Tribe

The American League pennant race offers some exciting possibilities for speculation.

If it rains in Cleveland today, a doubleheader will be scheduled for tomorrow. But if it rains tomorrow, that's all; the season's schedule ends.

So the sportswriters have been indulging in their favorite pastime—a game called "If." They point out:

"If it rains in Cleveland on Saturday and Sunday, the Indians will automatically win the pennant."

Look at the standings, and you'll see why. Regardless of what Boston and New York do in their series, the Tribe can win (by less than two percentage points) by simply standing still.

But here's an angle nobody has mentioned. The rules say that the manager of the home team shall be the sole judge of the fitness of the playing field for the start of a game.

That means Lou Boudreau could look up into the heavens on each of these final two days, spy a cloud, call off the game, and thereby sew up the pennant.

He's not going to do it, of course, because such a display of poor sportsmanship would be a staggering blow to the National pastime.

But I just thought I ought to remind you about the rule, so that you could amuse yourself with a bit of speculation between now and the start of this afternoon's games.

Incidentally—

The struggle between the Reds and Yanks in Berlin may be more important, but the scrap between the Red Sox and Yanks in Boston makes much better reading.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four fluffy gray kittens, 7 weeks old; they're well-mannered." (Falls Church 3474).

"Affectionate 4-month-old female kitten; wonderful companion." (Wisconsin 0716).

"Five tiger-colored playful kittens, 1 month old." (Emerson 9153).

"Four puppies, 5 weeks old; half chow, half boxer; two males, two females; healthy and smart." (Woodley 2009).

"Three beautiful fox terrier puppies, 7 weeks old." (Overlook 2571).

"Five gray kittens, four males, one female; 5 weeks old." (Owens 6865 after 7 p. m.)

PERSONAL NOTES

Becky Reed, Rushmore rd., Seneca, Md.: I think the Montgomery County Police were right in contending that the matter was beyond their jurisdiction. But I'll agree with you that there was no excuse for their discourteous manner. There's one way of saying "no" which leaves no hard feelings; and there's the other way, which distinguishes the officers from the gentlemen.

WERE WE THRIFTY . . . OR JUST TIGHTWADS?

Love may make the world go 'round, but inflation bids fair to make the modern lover go flat broke.

A survey reveals that the cost of courtship has been skyrocketing. The swain who used to spend $10 for an evening of dining and dancing is now getting clipped for $40 and $50.

At that rate, it's easy to understand why a fellow usually calls his girl "dear."

But, fortunately, there's been no change in the cost of holding hands on the front porch. And that's all most of us could ever afford, even at the old rates.

We'd bring a ukulele and an appetite for icebox leftovers, and we'd spend nothing but the evening.

Those were the days when it took something more than $1 down to buy three rooms of furniture, and a girl watched her fellow's money as if it were her own.

And before long, it was.

MISCELLANY

When Jay's opened a new store the other day, the usual mounds of flowers greeted the opening. That night Jack Krasner loaded the whole shebang into a truck, and distributed the flowers among Children's Hospital, Garfield and Freedmen's . . . Richard M. Lewis of P. O. Box 1037, Alexandria, Va., is beating the bushes in search of an armless studio couch less than 69 inches long (a love seat won't do) and says he can't find one . . . Mrs. Dorothy Keller of 2827 28th st. nw. reports that Emporium, Pa., where the "Coal and Beer" sign was seen, is her home neighborhood—"and don't you realize that in this section of the Pennsylvania mountains, coal and beer are considered the two most important things in the world?" . . . Marie Watts of 2625 3d st. nw. postcards: "Say a good word for bus driver No. 3649. He's tops" . . . And Mrs. William G. Sanders of 2356 40th st. nw. commends the courtesy of No. 2722 . . . Capital Transit's records list No. 3649 as Cecil E. Bitting of 2819 Minnesota ave. se.; No. 2722 is Alvin H. Gresham of 1337 E. st. se. . . . The couple who wanted to know how to make new friends gets this advice from Mrs. Ramsay Wood of 7410 Piney Branch rd., Takoma Park, Md.: "Get interested in consumer cooperatives, and work in them. It sounds awfully 'do-gooder' at first, but it's really fascinating. Co-op people are lively and interesting" . . . My personal nomination for the cleverest line in current ads is: "Old Gold cures nothing but the world's finest tobaccos."

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Applications for television station permits have been frozen for at least six months, to permit engineers to study technical improvements in video transmission.

Let's hope that when the freeze is thawed out next summer, the improvements will be so great that those who tune to the Nats' games will see nothing but winners.

FARE COMMENT

Hard on the heels of the announcement that the compromise fare increase would not permit Capital Transit to expand service, Jerry (WINX) Strong observed:

"They're sticking to their usual policy—'the public be jammed'."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—There is a Broadway legend about Texas Guinan's memory—that whenever a stranger asked "Remember me?" she invariably supplied the correct answer. The truth, however, is that Miss Guinan's memory was weak, that the "Remember me?" people who approached her usually were old customers who were satisfied with her customary reply: "Sure, I remember. You came to my night club" . . . When she opened the Planet Mars Club in Chicago the first customer was a man in tails, escorting two women. He asked Texas: "Remember me?" and she said "Sure, sucker. From Texas Guinan's in New York. How about a drink?" . . . The man accepted the drink, then opened the doors to admit his colleagues of the Prohibition Enforcement Bureau, who wrecked the place with axes.

Somerset Maugham, who left New York two years ago to spend the rest of his life at his villa on the French Riviera, has changed his mind and is returning to America shortly . . . Lester Cowan, producer of the new Marx Bros. picture, needs three more days of shooting. He flew to New York this week to console Groucho Marx, whose play, "Time for Elizabeth," closes tonight . . . Cowan, in explaining his trip, said: "I want to make sure that Groucho is unchanged, when he does the three days' shooting. I don't want a poignant comic on my hands" . . . The American War Correspondents Association is trying to locate M. W. Fodor, the veteran correspondent.

Hollywood's film executives expect the long-delayed Anglo-American Film Meeting finally to take place in California in January. J. Arthur Rank, the British film man, is expected there in January, to await the birth of his grandchild. Rank's daughter, Mrs. Fred Packard, lives in California . . . The Israel soccer team will go to West Point next week to play a practice match against the West Point team and place a wreath on the grave of Col. David Marcus . . . When the Pulitzer Prize judges sit down to select the finest novel of the year, Carl Sandburg's "Remembrance Rock" will lead the list of contenders.

Huh?
We must save the archives! Back in through the window!
This is fun!
But—
Okay.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Clay Discounts Soviet Might

By Drew Pearson

Gen. Lucius Clay, American military governor in Berlin, told congressional visitors recently that the United States has overestimated Russian military might.

Pearson

He said that, while Soviet military power has been magnified out of all proportion, Russia is just as afraid of us and is frantically building defenses against a fancied attack from the west.

Crippled by World War II, Russia doesn't have the industrial power or the communications network to back up her vast armies, Clay said. On the other hand, the Soviets have a healthy respect for American power. They expected their blockade to force the Allies out of Berlin within a week, he said, and haven't got over their amazement at the airlift.

The General warned, however, that world conquest is still the long-range Soviet goal. He didn't expect the Russians to go to war, he said, because it would be too costly. Rather, he expected them to use their familiar tactics of infiltration, propaganda and bluff.

Our mistake, he warned, would be to fall for the bluff, get panicky and run out on Berlin. That would be a sign of weakness and would be more likely to tempt the Russians into war than a strong stand on our part.

Ferguson in Reverse

Easiest retort made by any politician when he gets in a tight corner is to yell "liar." A well-known figure on Capitol Hill is doing that right now—Senator Ferguson of Michigan.

The Senator claims that though he wanted to probe his Democratic colleague, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, for commodity-market speculation, he was overruled by the Senate Expenditures Subcommittee. Thomas' letter, threatening to expose certain facts about Ferguson's son-in-law's operations with Chrysler, did not cause him to drop the investigation, the Senator from Michigan now says.

However, in December of last year, Ferguson, pounding on his desk, told this column:

"I'm going to see this thing through to the finish. You can assure everyone that I'm going through to the limit."

Note—The records show no attempt by Ferguson to go over the head of his subcommittee to the full committee, where he was sure to have been upheld.

Ferguson also claims the Thomas letter was published at this time to embarrass his reelection. Actually this writer, who exposed Thomas' commodity dealings in a column dated May 6, 1946, has been writing about this subject off and on for two and a half years; also has been trying to find out the reason for Ferguson's sudden mysterious silence. Politics had absolutely nothing to do with it.

U. S. Ambassadors

The American Embassy in France has been singled out as the weakest spot on our diplomatic front by two Democratic Senators just completing a tour of Europe and the Near East.

The congressional critics are Senators Scott Lucas of Illinois and William Fulbright of Arkansas. Their views have been made known privately to the State Department.

While in Paris, Lucas spent an evening with U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery. Afterward, the sharp-tongued Democratic whip snorted: "Caffery didn't open his mouth all evening."

Fulbright also complained that embassy officials couldn't even answer simple questions that any American citizen might ask, such as how to cash a check.

On the other hand, both Senators were strong in their praise of other American embassies in Europe—particularly Italy.

"It's too bad," commented Fulbright, "that the embassy in Italy can't be moved up to France lock, stock and barrel."

France, he pointed out, is a key nation in the ideological struggle for Europe.

Merry-Go-Round

Hitler once vowed that the German people would never have to eat horse meat, and throughout the war Germans continued eating rationed beef. Now, thanks to the Red blockade, it may be different.

The United States Army has quietly piled up 21,500 tons of horse meat in German warehouses for the day when beef stocks run low... Meanwhile, Germany's hard-pressed Dutch, Belgian and Swedish neighbors have been eating horse meat for several years... United States airlift pilots in Germany call themselves "Clay's pigeons."...The Democratic National Committee is furious at the Saturday Evening Post for putting the microscope to President Truman, while not giving Tom Dewey the same treatment. Democrats asked Saturday Evening Post editors to do to Dewey what they are doing to Truman, but the magazine flatly refused.

America's newsboys

The newsboys of America... Deserve our lasting praise... for faithfulness to duty and... Their friendly, smiling ways... They bring the headlines to our doors... By morning and by night... Though now and then in youthful haste... They toss them out of sight... They pay their board, they buy their clothes... Or save the sums they earn... And many are the things that they... Experience and learn... Trustworthy and dependable... They are the rank and file... Of those who struggle for success... And everything worth while... We honor them and praise them from... The tiny to the tall... The newsboys of America... God bless them one and all!
